EX LIBRIS

AS you read this book remember that those who advertise here have made it possible to produce the book. They have taken advertising space as a business proposition and it is the duty of Rutgers men to see that the investment is profitable to them.

You can trade as economically in New Brunswick as you can in New York and there are agents in town for all standard sporting goods. You pay exactly the same prices as those asked by the manufacturers and in many cases save shipping expenses.

Be fair, and help those who have helped you.

COURSES OF STUDY

THE College offers courses leading to the degrees of A.B., Litt.B. and B.Sc. Under the last are included a general science course, and technical courses in Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Chemistry, Ceramics, Agriculture and Biology. The A.B., the Litt.B., and the general science courses permit large freedom in the choice of electives and provide liberal preparatory training for the professions of law, medicine, theology, teaching, and journalism. The technical courses are designed to prepare for industrial positions of leadership, except the course in Biology, which aims to give a liberal training in the sciences, and is especially appropriate as a preliminary to the study of medicine. Short courses, not leading to a degree, are offered in Ceramics and in Agriculture.

BRONZE MEMORIAL TABLET ERECTED BY CLASS OF 1919

"ON THE BANKS" IN WINTER

F O R E W O R D

THE Class of 1921 entered Rutgers at a time when the ordinary routine of campus life was interrupted and thrown into confusion by the Great War and the accompanying spirit of service and patriotism which led many temporarily to give up the idea of a college course in order that they might actively serve their country's cause. In its second year 1921 saw the beginning and the end of the S. A. T. C. at Rutgers, and, following its ending, the beginning of the return to normal conditions.

With the opening of the junior year this process of return to normal conditions had been practically completed. Many men who had been absent in the service had returned to complete their courses, new activity began to be shown in all branches of college life, and in a way never before known by 1921 the real spirit of Rutgers began to manifest itself.

In the following pages we have endeavored to portray this new spirit of activity which has characterized the past year, and the results of our efforts we submit for your approval.

ENGINEERING BUILDING

The Year

The college year opened bright with promise against the dark background of the war years. With the war over, many men returned from the army to take up their college course where they left it when entering the service, while others turned to a college education for the first time. The Freshmen that came to college were legion, numbering 265. The Sophomore and Junior classes together barely equaled the number of the Freshman class, while the Seniors had dwindled to 89. But the total enrollment, 639 undergraduates, was far beyond any previous mark yet attained by the college.

Not only did we have numbers but also a spirit never equaled before. From the "Pep" rally, the eve of college opening, there was apparent an enthusiasm and college spirit far beyond the wildest dream of the "old grads." This spirit was manifested by the number of men who followed the team out of town. In previous years the team received a large support at one game away from home; this year there was scarcely one game which did not see a large crowd with the team. As for our home games, everybody was there. Positions on the Targum, the Glee Club, Queen's Players and Debating Team were enthusiastically contended for by representative crowds. The whole student body turned out to the mass meetings this year, while the football p-rade was an unusual success. But these were all manifestations of the unity of undergraduate thought which is so evident this year.

As to athletics, the records of the teams and the mention of the stars is reserved for the following pages, where full credit is given. We note here that Mr. Sanford, our football coach for seven years, will not be with us next year as in the past. True he will advise in the coaching of the team, but will not be our field coach. This capacity will be filled by former grid-iron stars whom "Sandy" has trained. Mr. Sanford has been more than a coach to us during his stay. His spirit has pervaded every phase of campus life. Through the football men his influence has been felt and has spread to the whole student body. The Rutgers spirit is finer and more virile because of George Foster Sanford.

The office of the graduate manager of athletics is now an established institution at Rutgers. Under the influence of Heitkamp, '17, this position has taken favorable form and all games are scheduled and the work of the undergraduate manager facilitated and systematized. Mr. Heitkamp has also worked to bring high school men down to college by speaking in the schools throughout the state, by sending many form letters and carrying on a vast personal correspondence with prospective Rutgers men.

Under the regime of the S. A. T. C. all fraternal organizations were abandoned, but this necessary phase of college life was revived as soon as army control ceased. Fraternities resumed their activities immediately, but campus clubs, excepting the Philoclean Literary Society, did not revive at once. But this year the Aggies and the Biologs again appeared and three new organizations, the Radio Club, the Rifle Club and the Aero Club were formed. The vitality which these clubs show proves their claim to existence.

The social life has taken on a new vigor. The usual college dances surpassed in elegance those of previous years. Besides there were more week-end house parties at the fraternities and other dances to satisfy those socially inclined. In speaking of our social life we must not fail to mention the Third Concert Series. These musicales were gala affairs, not only enjoyable but educational also. The organ recitals in the Chapel on Sunday afternoons have been enjoyed by an ever increasing crowd of enthusiasts.

One of the most important events of the year was the Million Dollar Endowment Fund campaign. In September, 1919, Mr. August Heckscher, of New York, presented the College with $100,000, and offered an additional $100,000 on the condition that the College raise one million dollars by January 1, 1920, including his two gifts. Work of organization for an intensive campaign to raise the desired amount was begun at once. The central organization was in the president's office at the College, although headquarters, in charge of professional managers, were established in New York City. An additional gift of $100,000 from the General Education Board was received in November. The work continued with promise of success, but the task was such a stupendous one that all the alumni could not be canvassed by the date set and an extension of time to February 1 was granted by Mr. Heckscher. On the latter date it was found that a sum amounting to slightly over $100,000 was still to be raised, but the time was again extended by Mr. Heckscher, and as the SCARLET LETTER goes to press the campaign is being conducted with renewed vigor and with hope of success within the next few weeks.

The remarkable successes of the basketball and swimming teams are worthy of note. Full details of how the former upheld the reputation of the Scarlet so gloriously in the A. A. U. Basketball Tournament at Atlanta, Ga., and how the latter passed through the season undefeated may be found in later pages of this book. Lacrosse was also taken up during the past year.

With all these activities and varied phases of college life, the general scholastic average has become higher, now that the men are freed from the distractions of war. Thus 1919-1920 has found a better college and an advance in every line towards a bigger and a brighter Rutgers.

PRESIDENT TALIAFERRO

History of Class of 1920

The career of the Class of 1920 began in the fall of 1916 under normal college conditions. Our class was the largest entering class in the history of Rutgers and we soon proved that we had quality as well as quantity. The "proc" rush gave us opportunity for only crude organization, but even so we were successful against our organized opponents, the Sophs. And all during that first year, our class won its share of the underclass warfare activities. We took part in athletics and furnished many men for all the teams. In scholastic affairs, we showed good calibre.

Our Sophomore year opened with our country at war. The preceding spring had witnessed many of the loyal 1920 men flocking to the colors. Consequently, our numbers were materially lessened. However, we did well in teaching the Freshmen their place and were again successful in the underclass warfare. We continued to support the teams with our men and they proved themselves well. Our social activities formally began during this year with the Sophomore Hop and the class banquet.

The summer of 1918 passed, and the class of 1920 returned to find Rutgers on a war basis. The government had organized the Students' Army Training Corps, and all class distinction was lost. The men of all classes were formed into companies, and in some cases upperclassmen had underclassmen as their non-commissioned officers. But 1920 was only temporarily disorganized. The Armistice was signed, and on January 2, 1919, Rutgers again swung back into place as a peace-time college.

We, as Juniors, spent only five months under these re-established peace-time conditions. Much reconstruction and readjustment was necessary. Our college authorities did their share heroically in restoring normal conditions. But even so, the enrollment of the college was comparatively small and everything was pointed toward making the next year entirely normal and successful. We then realized our task—we, in the place of leadership, were to guide the destinies of the three lower classes in the right paths and to make Rutgers the college she was when we entered.

So we returned as Seniors. Never was there such an atmosphere of bustle and excitement. The Freshman Class was the largest ever. Many ex-Service men returned to complete their courses. And we were the leaders of the college!

How well we succeeded in this task can best be told by the succeeding classes. But we did our best to re-establish some of the traditional rushes and underclass warfare temporarily discontinued because of the war; to better the spirit of the student body and to encourage participation in all college athletics and activities. We are sure the responses to our efforts were sincere.

And now, with the end of our collegiate career at hand, let us stop a minute to consider the records of those men who left Rutgers to serve their country. Five of our classmates made the supreme sacrifice. Many were fortunate enough to engage in actual combat "Over There." Nearly all the rest were in the service in some form or other. Surely it is not too much to claim that we are a "War Class."

We entered Rutgers when she was undisturbed by exterior influences. We stayed and saw her swayed like the wind, this way and that, as a result of the war conditions. We leave our Alma Mater once more restored to her normal status.

Our hope is that our loyalty and support were manifested under the unusual circumstances and that our leadership was good. At any rate, the Class of 1920 leaves old Rutgers with all respect and devotion and with every determination to do all in her power in the future, as she has attempted to do in the past, to "keep the Scarlet in the van."

In Memoriam

The Senior year of the Class of 1920 was greatly saddened by the loss of a true and noble member on October 25, 1919. His sudden passing into the life beyond was made more sorrowful by the fact that he was soon to have completed his college career and was about to enter into the world of affairs.

Howard Spencer Wilcox was known to us all as a diligent student, a genuine friend, and, above all, a true son of Rutgers. We shall always remember him as a force for good and right in the life of the college. His whole life, during the time he was with us, shone with Christian living and was a model of uprightness and honesty. Those who were fortunate enough to know him could not help but admire his cheerfulness and helpfulness. For his classmates he always had a smile and a word of fellowship, to the undergraduates his helping hand was always extended, and his words of caution and advice were always to their best interests. As a student he was a high example. In a word, "he was a man."

But it has pleased Almighty God to call him from us into eternal life. And although we shall look back on his memory as something to inspire us toward the higher and greater things in life, we bow our heads and say, "Not our will, but Thine, O God, be done."

1921 SCARLETT LETTER 1921

PRESIDENT HORSFORD

History of Class of 1921

Back from the training camps and the fields of France the men of Rutgers came, and 1921 is glad to have many of them in her ranks. It seems good to tramp the paths of the old campus in a time of peace and to turn our thoughts to college life once again, with its joys and its hardships. Never has college life been so full of activity as the present year has revealed.

One hundred and thirty and more strong, larger than last year and not smaller, as is the general case, 1921 has had its opportunity and has seized it. On the gridiron and diamond, basketball court and track, pool and gym, our men have been making names for themselves and the class.

As we look back over our history we regret that we had to be the war class of the college, entering the year our country declared war. We realized that the college spirit had dwindled and that college traditions were not forced upon us, but we take pride in the fact that we brought the greater part of the traditions through unaltered, and that we were able to keep college life in existence. We are highly proud of the men in our class who entered the service, and we deeply honor the one who sacrificed his life for democracy.

Normal Bloodgood entered college with the class, and after a few months entered active service in the navy. He was swept overboard from a naval craft and drowned at sea.

Our days of rushes are past, and although we won and lost in them, we are sure the spirit with which we entered the rushes still is with us in our college life. Of banquets we enjoyed two. The first in New York, with no Sophomores to bother us and with our president in his place, and the second in Newark with our class officers there and the president and a member of the rival class with us, a victory for 1921 after many struggles with the jealous Frosh.

In our Frosh life we claim a football victory over 1920. The following year the S. A. T. C. regime prevented class athletic activities. In the present year we came out victor in the fall interclass track meet.

In May of 1919 the class conducted a Victory Dance, customarily called a Sophomore Hop, which is long to be remembered in the annals of the college course. Being the first dance at which many of the service men were present, it was the greatest dance of the college year. Many happy reunions marked the occasion, and there was no lack of elite and charming guests to make the evening hours seem much too short. In the present year the Prom seemingly surpassed the Victory Dance in its wonderful decorations, exquisite music and charmingly gowned girls.

With one more year ahead of us we hope to leave Rutgers as one of its largest graduating classes and also one of high standing along all lines. It is a difficult matter for men re-entering college after an absence of a year or more to show the class spirit that is usually shown, but the men entering 1921 have buckled down to hard work and have given the class a real backing by their interest and work.

With this spirit and with that which the class has maintained during its life we are still striving to "keep the Scarlet in the van" during the remainder of our college days.

HISTORIAN.

SNOWBOUND

HENRY VERNON ASPINALL

"Aspy"

When Aspinall is serious, we worry and we fret,
And we know that there is something lying heavy on his chest;
For when the breaks are with him,
it's safe to lay your bet
That on slightest provocation he'll laugh and burst his vest.

HAROLD MANDEVILLE
AUGUSTINE

"Augie"

"Augie's" the Glee Club tenor,
Who moans in accents divine;
He also guards for the scrub team,
He's as wide as the whole blamed line.

WILLIAM HENRY BACKUS

"Bill"

In former days in this man's name
'Ch' replaced the 'k,'
But now! O Prohibition Times!
Alas, alack-a-day!

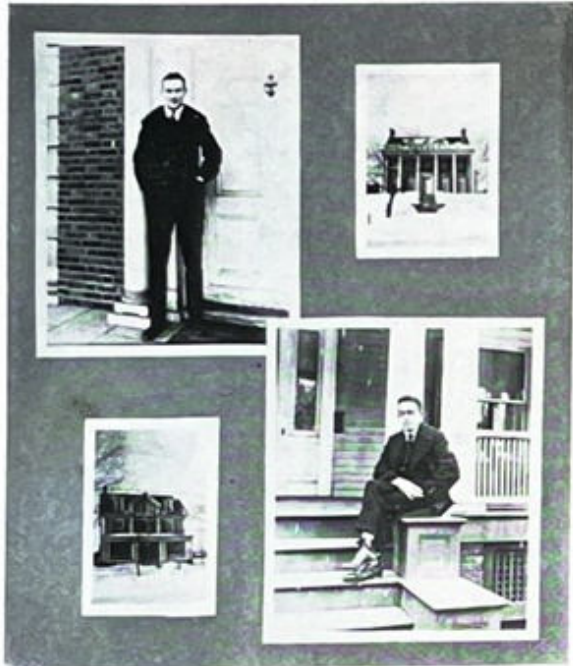

CYRUS VAN DOLAH BISEY

"Dude"

This is a prude, a classical stude,
Who scanneth his Greek with joy;
He knows all about that Trojan feud,
He's been vamped by Helen of Troy.

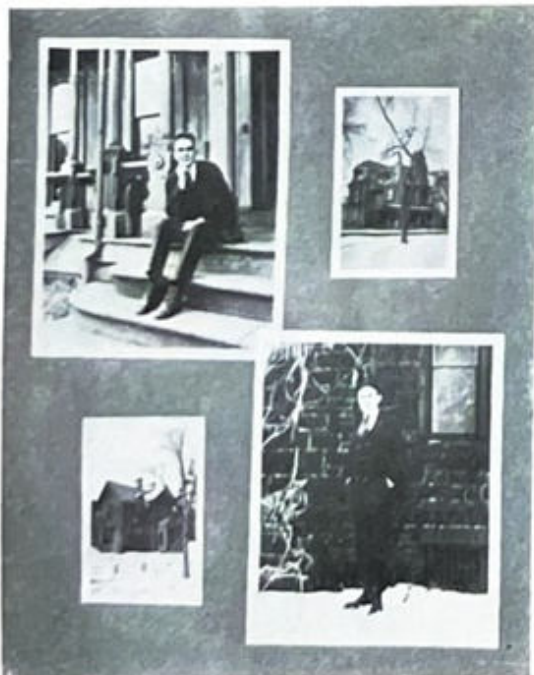

RANDOLPH BRANDT, JR.
"Squeal"

"It was the schooner" Newport School,
"That sailed the wintry sea——"
But "Squeal" fell off, landed on the Raritan and exchanged his deckswab and peek-a-boo blouse for a tennis racquet and a scarlet sweater.

HAROLD RAYMOND BRIEGS

This is Briegs—he hails from Perth—
(The Eden of creation);
Both Michigan and Rutgers gave Him all his education.

JOHN CLARENCE BROWN

A friend that's with you, rain or shine,
And with you till the end.
If it's help you want in any line,
A hand he'll always lend.

EDMUND UTTER BURHANS
"Ed"

Hark! A sound, discordant, grand,
Strikes upon the ear.
That is Burhans with his band.
(The horns are filled with beer.)

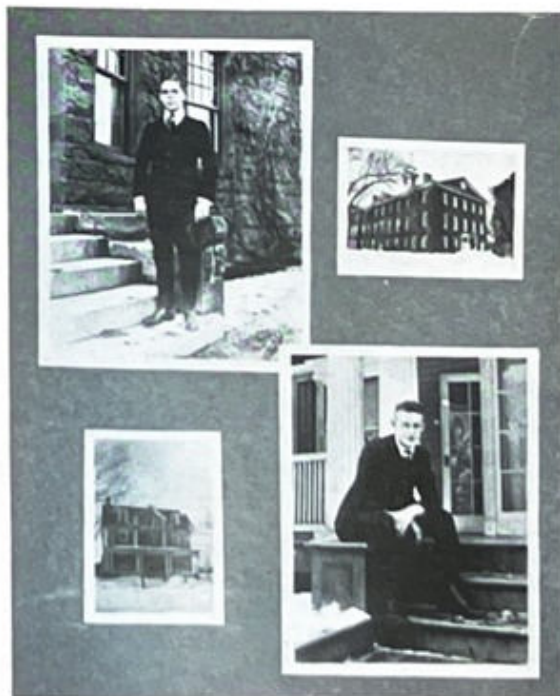

ANDREW ALOIS BURKHARDT
"Andy"

Noisy Burkhardt is this fellow's name,
 A perpetual Freshman is his claim to fame;
 His pedantic questions when the bell starts to chime,
 Make his classmates all sore, for they're kept overtime.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL
"Dunc"

Dunc's an Ag, and wants to be
 A farmer, so they say.
 He spends his days at the College
 Farm,
 His vacations at Skillman, N. J.

JOHN FRANCIS CAMPBELL
"J. F."

In himself he lives,
 To himself he chats.
 Behold one Ag
 Who doesn't use—fats.

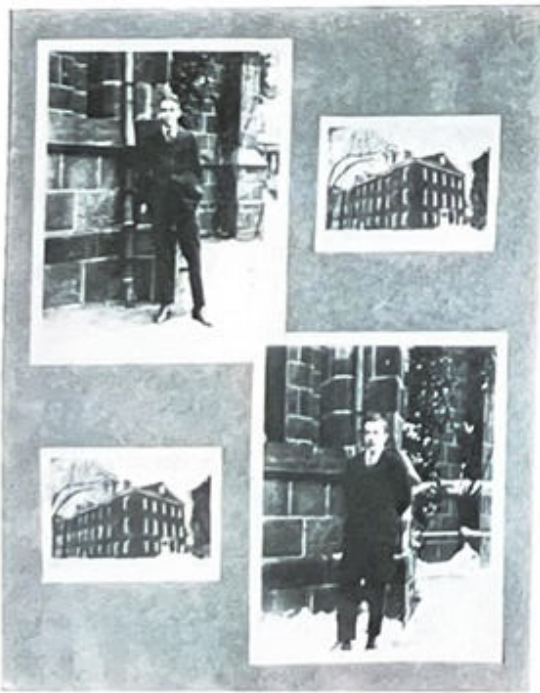

HERBERT RYERSON
 CAMPBELL, JR.
"Herb"

Campbell is a clansman bold;
 He swings an oak terrific;
 He engineers at college, so
 You see he's quite prolific.

FRANCIS JOHNSTON CHRISTIE
 Frank comes from Bloomfield, he's great for his T,
 He makes it each evening, as strong as can B.
 Every week-end he'll rush
 Back home just to fuss—
 Who she is we would sure like to C.

ERNEST ALEXANDER CLARK, Jr.
 "Clarkie"
 An embryo D.D. is he,
 A converter of heathen he'll be;
 In a long-tailed frock coat,
 For some cannibal's throat,
 A rather toug's morsel, say we.

FOREST HENRY THEODORE CLICKNER
 "Click"

When not judging pigs
 And not planting trees,
 He's streaking 'cross country
 With the speed of the breeze.

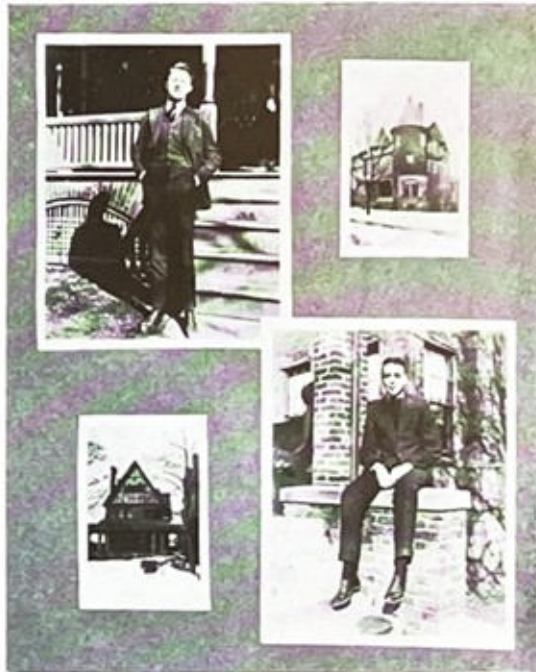

ERNEST VICTOR CLOSE
 "Bunny"

From far Pa, he came this way
 To beam his quiet smile;
 For Bunny's out to sow the seeds
 And reap his little pile.

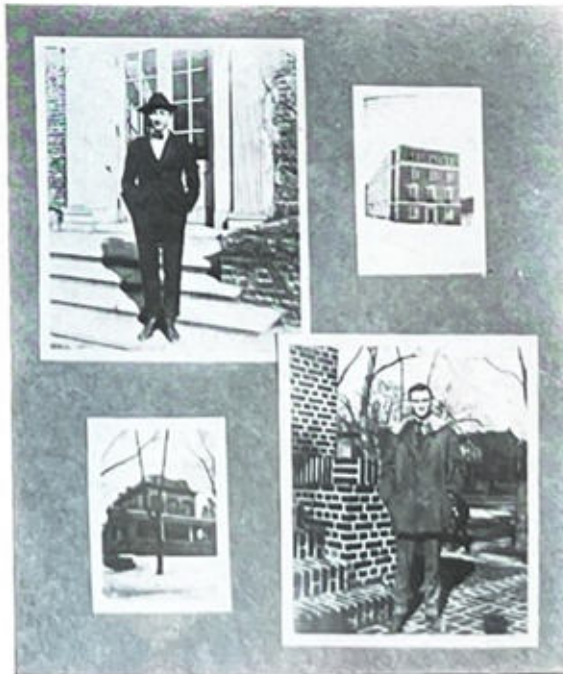

HENRY CLAY CONGER, 3D
"Hank"

Here's Conger, who came back to us
 By inverted promotion, poor cuss.
 He's a modest young man,
 Who learns what he can,
 Without any bombast or fuss (?)

ELLIS BEVERIDGE COOK
"Cookie"

Eight-foot-eight by the old town clock,
 It bothers him not at all;
 With his elbow he leans on the belfry of Queen's,
 And tells us we are too small.

JOSEPH COSTA
"Joe"

Voila le Lieutenant Costa,
 Le plus versatile de gens,—
 Un soldat, un peintre, un commis,
 Un etudiant de chemie-quelquefois.

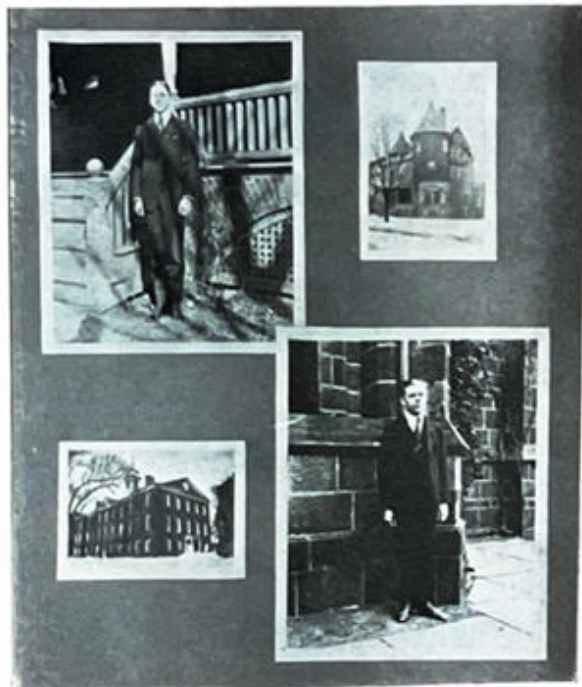

EMMETT GIRARD CRAIG
"Tod"

Endowed with brains, no chance he had
 To dazzle when a child,
 But Dr. Graham's thinking tank
 Has made the man go wild.

ROBERT EDWARD CRANE

"Bob"

Immortal gods!
I crave no pelf,
I pray for no man
But—myself.

ELWOOD BERTRAM CRONK

One of New Brunswick's favorite sons;
A source of dismay to the barbers—
With book under arm down George
St. he runs,
Another of Learning's young martyrs.

JOHN BEVERLY CROWELL

"Bevo"

A student once he claimed to be,
In studies quite scholastic;
He's passed them up and now prefers
To trip the light fantastic.

VICTOR IRVING CRUSER

"Vic"

Here is a fellow who gets out of classes,
Serving at table in Mac's.
Letting the clink of the filled water glasses
Take the place of books and thumbtacks.

STEWART TAYLOR DANFORTH
"Dizzy"

"Dizzy" Danforth meets your sight,
 "Why the name?" you query.
 It's not because his head is light
 But because his feet are weary.

WARREN JOHN JOSEPH
 DARWENT
"Buck"

"W. J. J. Darwent, Mechanical Engineer,"
 Is a sign that Cranford, New Jersey,
 May see some time next year.

MALCOLM FRICK DAVIES
"Mal"

Sometimes a pipe without a Mal
 You may see upon the street,
 But Mal without his pipe, we bet,
 You'll never, never meet.

EDMUND TOMLINSON DAVIS
"Ed"

"Little Ed" wields a pick, on railroad track or street.
 A stiff shirt front will do the trick,
 A mandolin—now all's complete.

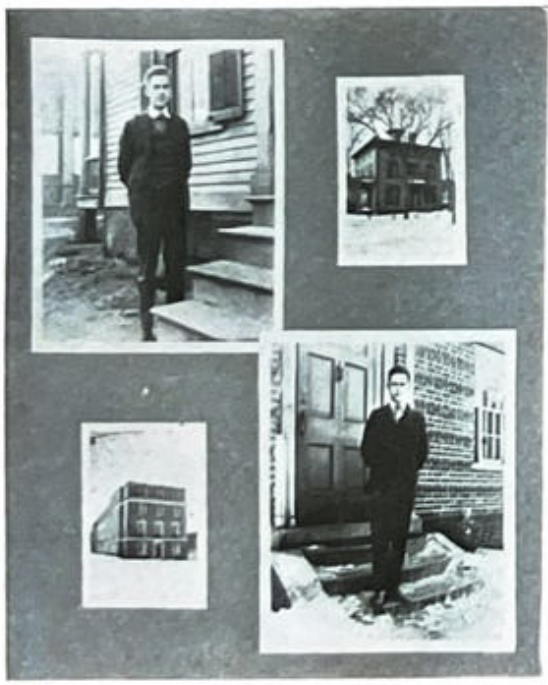

WILLARD ROGERS DEVAUL
"Jess"

Ingenue cheeks on a tough engineer
 Surely don't "jibe" at all;
 But take a long look, for we have it here
 On the gunman from Trenton—
 Devaul.

JOHN LOUIS DEVRIES
"Johnnie"

Johnnie D., the fiddler bold,
 Saw light 'neath Nutley's sky,
 He terpsichores around a bit,
 And—can he wink his eye!

ABRAM BECKER DICKINSON, JR.
"Dick"

To look at this picture of "Dick,"
 Do you wonder that girls fail to stick
 To their homes so happy and gay,
 When such attractions allure them away?

CHARLES ALFRED DOEHLERT
"Charlie"

His gentle, reassuring smile
 Endears him in the hearts of all;
 Fellows and profs he treats alike,
 Advice he gives to all who call.

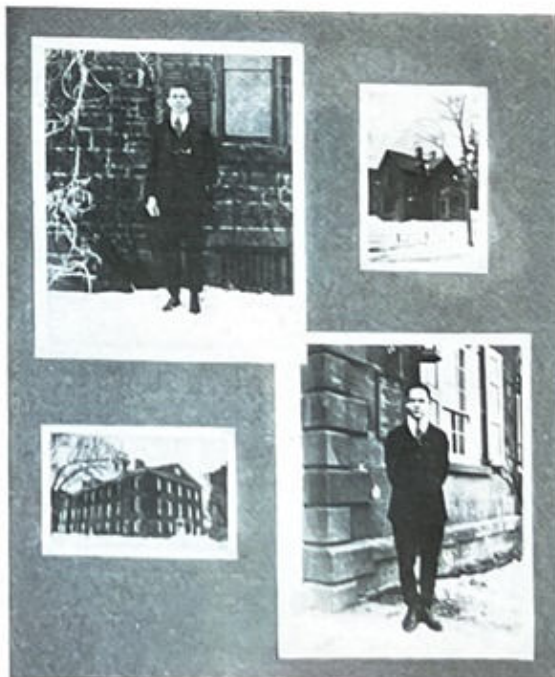

RICHARD WHITE DUNHAM
"Dick"

Last year upon the Varsity
 His stocky form we used to see,
 And next year there again he'll be
 If he and the profs agree to agree.

JOSEPH AVERY DUNN
"Cutey"

A face of perfect innocence,
 Entirely free from guile,
 The girls pursue him everywhere
 To beg of him a smile.

ABRAM WILBUR DURYEE
"Will"

Here's Wilbur from old Jersey City,
 He's so good it sure is a pity.
 When he gets making pills
 For someone's aches and ills,
 He won't be so gol-darn witty.

SOLOMON EISENBERG

Where does he come from and where does he go?
 What's in that bag? (Let me whisper it low.)
 He comes from up Rahway; that bag is a bluff,
 It's camouflage for the ubiquitous
 Prof.

CALVIN FARLEY

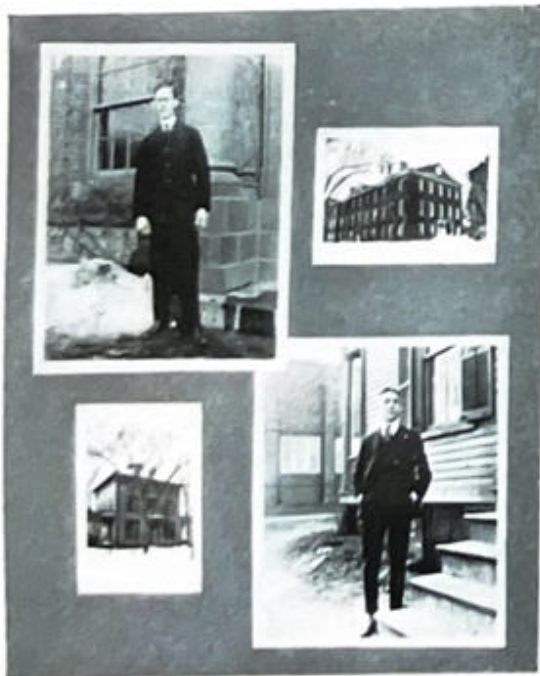

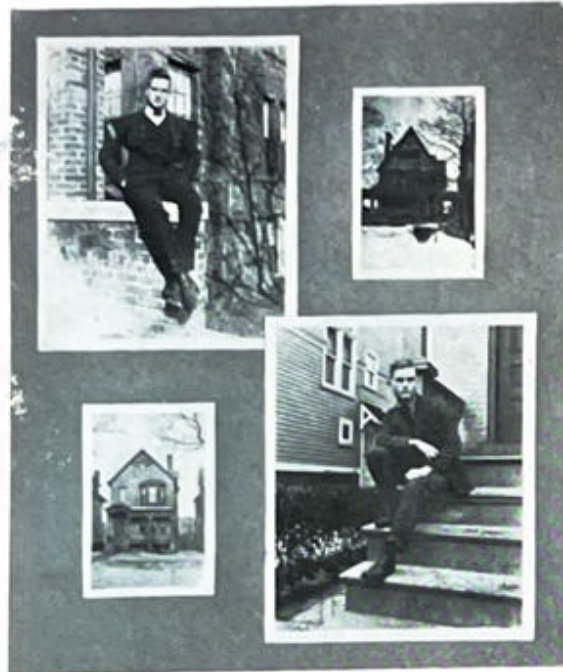

"Bob"

Hard-boiled Profanity Farley, McCormack's professor of cussing,
An author of profanity
And local hoodlum fussing.

WALTER ERNEST FLEMING

"Walt"

Here's to Walt, quietest of the quiet;
He's never been known to start a riot;
He dreams of his lessons and sleeps on his books,
And is never phased by woman's looks.

VERNON CARTWRIGHT FOX

"Admiral," "Vernie"

Among the bottles and the tubes,
The atoms and et cet.,
He made his name down in the lab
By getting through DeRegt.

CHURCHILL CHARLES FRANKLIN

"Church"

"Church" wants to be an M. D.,
But he can't study that at N. B.,
So he's going away, when he gets his
B. A.,
And study in Hopkins, maybe.

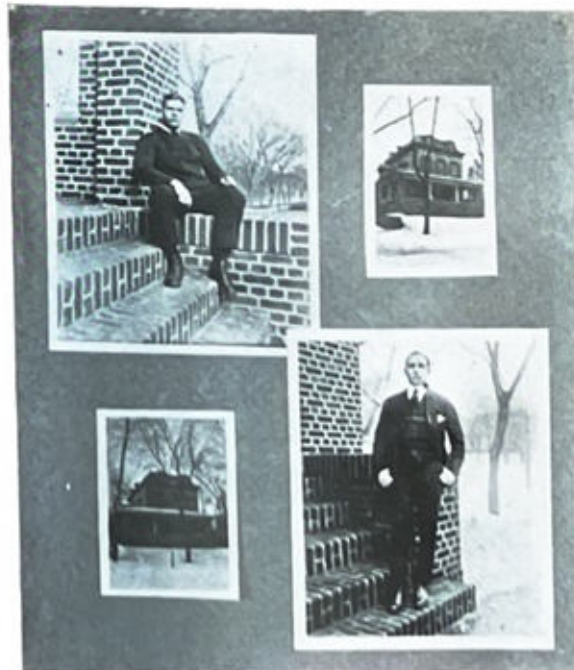

JOHN GEORGE FRITZINGER
"Fritz"

Those "Roly Poly Eyes,"
Set in a chubby face,
Call forth the women's sighs,
When "Fritz" goes on a chase.

LISLE EDWARD GAIGE

A slide-rule expert, fair to see,
In many fields he shines,
From speaking French to slinging soup
In Belmar's distant clime.

WILLIAM HERBERT GARDNER
"Turk"

The terrible Turk, le terrible garçon,
His specialty's smashing unsmash-able lines.
When he takes the pigskin, it's murder and arson,
As enemy teams have found out scores of times.

ALFRED TENNYSON GARRETT
"Budge"

From far-off Oklahoma
He heard our call—and backed us;
We hope our back will not go back
To the land of sand and cactus.

WILLIAM HENRY GAUB, JR.
"Bill"

Chief patron of Louie's milk-shakes and pies,
The scourge of the Freshman—he thirsts for their lives;
His medical shingle he'll hang out some day
And mix up pink pills for the hick and the jay.

JAMES PERCIVAL GIBSON, JR.
"Jim"

This man is a helluva chemistry hound,
Your last lonely nickel you may safely bet,
That when during Lab Class he cannot be found,
He's taking the air with a grubbed cigarette.

IRVING YOULEN GIDLEY
"Gid"

This man who came to us from '19,
After spending some months "Over There,"
Ate his bacon and beans in the old
Fifth Marines,
And was given the French Croix de Guerre.

HERMAN DAVID GOLDFARB

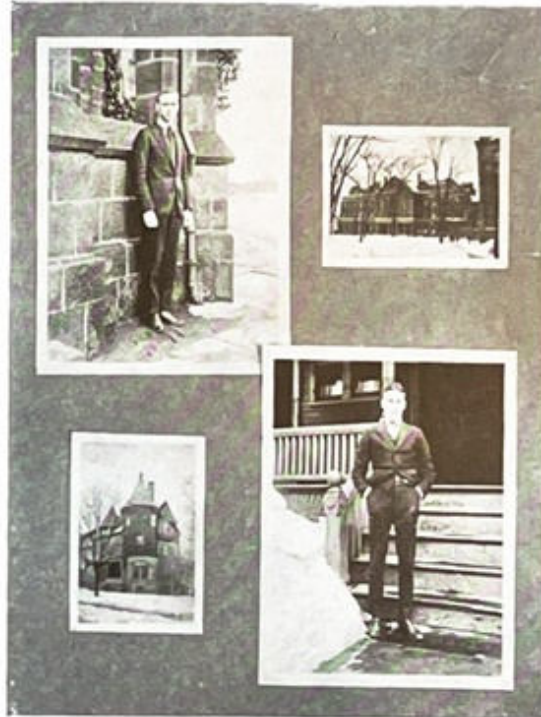

He never indulges in larks,
Is never caught spooning in parks.
He studies so much,
That a man who is such
A good student should capture high marks.

HOWARD McCREA GOLDY

"A penny for your thoughts, O Sphinx!"
To which the Sphinx replied, "B'jinks You're quieter than I, methinks!"

WILLIAM MacKINLEY HADDEN
"Bill"

On his chin
The springing beard began
To spread a doubtful down,
And promise man.

ARTHUR F. HAELIG
"Art"

You would never guess
How this boy does step out:
He's very quiet when he's here,
But in Bound Brook—look out!

FREDERICK ARTHUR HALL
"Art"

The college all declares how good he is
In basketball; he truly is a wiz;
In arguing, too, professors own his skill,
For, even though vanquished, he can argue still.

WILLIAM LIPPINCOTT
HANAWAY
"Sid"

From Long Branch this boy came to Rutgers
To add more knowledge to his store,
But some will better remember "Sid"
As a warlike Sophomore.

CLAUDE WESLEY HARKINS
"Hark"

Our Claude is ne'er seen with a frown,
And he's always gay when around
Any nice little thing
Who can play, dance, or sing,
If she comes from the burg of Milltown.

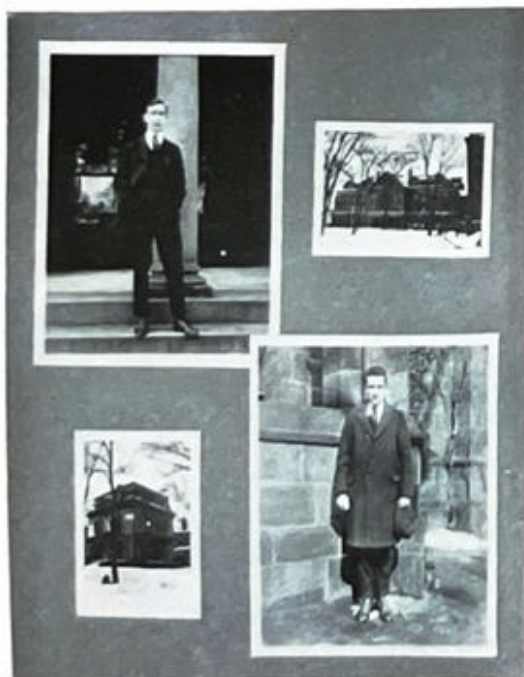

ARTHUR EUGENE HILLIARD
"Pop"

The profiteer of the Dining Hall,
He pinches the money for Mac.
He sits by the safe and with no qualms at all
He cooly takes all of our "jack."

SAMUEL DAVID HOFFMAN
"Sam"

"Why is the forum crowded,"
What speaker have we here?
Why that's Tribune Hoffmanicus
Who advocates free beer.

GEORGE SEARS HORSFORD

"George"

He makes a good Class President;
A football manager, too.
Zoology is his natural bent,
But his shaves are far too few.

BENJAMIN RALPH JACOBS

"Jake"

Dignity, dignity,
That's his middle name.
Where he comes from, what he'll do
Are yet unknown to fame.

JOEL MUNSON JOHNSON

"Munse"

This is the guy they call "Munse,"
Who went to a formal dance once:
He became so excited
That his girl he implighted
And went with the chaperone. Dunce!

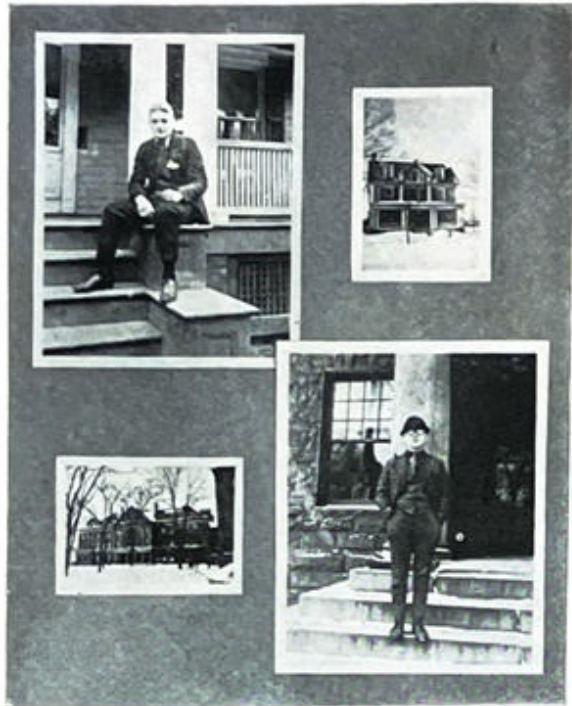

GILBERT BROOKS KEELER

"Gil"

Gil Keeler, usually asleep,
Is of the human race.
His conversation is not deep,
But then, observe his face.

RONALD BARRETT KIRK
"Ronnie"

A hobo bard is Kirk,
 With a grin that is always at work;
 More hobo than bard—
 He toils quite hard
 At anything that doesn't mean work.

HERBERT AKIBA KOHN
"Herbie"

Herbert Akiba Kohn!
 Like a wolf he travels alone.
 He's small, but O my!
 When he dives from on high—
 Pardon me, did I hear someone groan?

GEORGE EDWARD LAMB
"George," "Sheep"

Here's another come to us from '20,
 After serving his Uncle Sam.
 His friends say by nature, as well as by name,
 They have always found him a Lamb.

SANFORD RICARDO LANGWITH
"Sandy"

Sandy's pursuing the E. E. course,
 And he's going after it strong;
 He has a little flivver car,
 So it may not take him long.

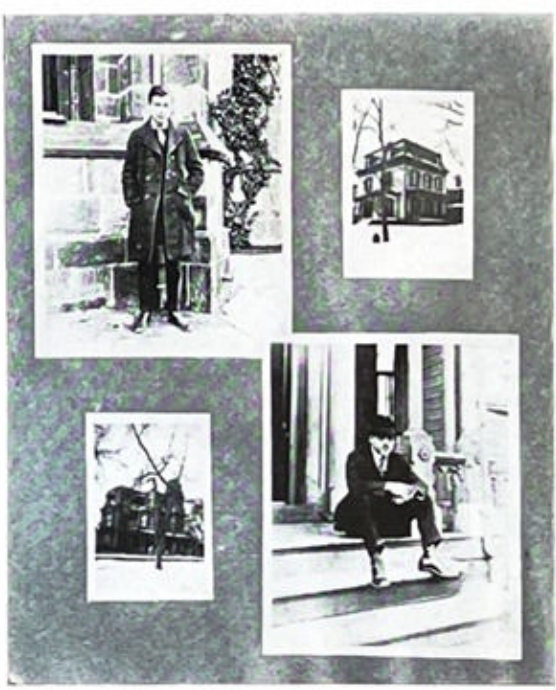

WENDOLIN RANDOLPH LEBER
"Wen"

He came from Cornell to Rutgers
 To take care of his brother, Mort.
 M. E. is the course he's exposed to,
 And the "Uproar" his favorite sport.

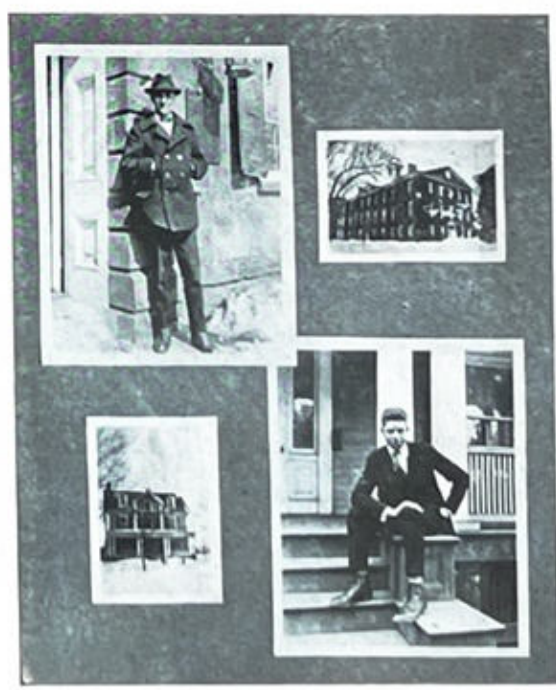

MAX LEVIN
"Max"

The chapel services he likes,
To attend them is his wont;
Most of us like to get excused;
He could, but yet he don't.

WILLIAM A. LOTT
"Bill"

From Lehigh to Rutgers to matriculate
Comes Bill, of appearance so sedate,
But never was one more full of fun
Than this particular Rutgers son.

LEON CORNELIUS McBRIDE
"Dick"

Uncle Sam let this bold lad
A sailor in his navy be;
A wealth of wit, a generous bit
Of skill at repartee has he.

DOUGLAS CRUIKSHANK
McCULLY
"Mac"

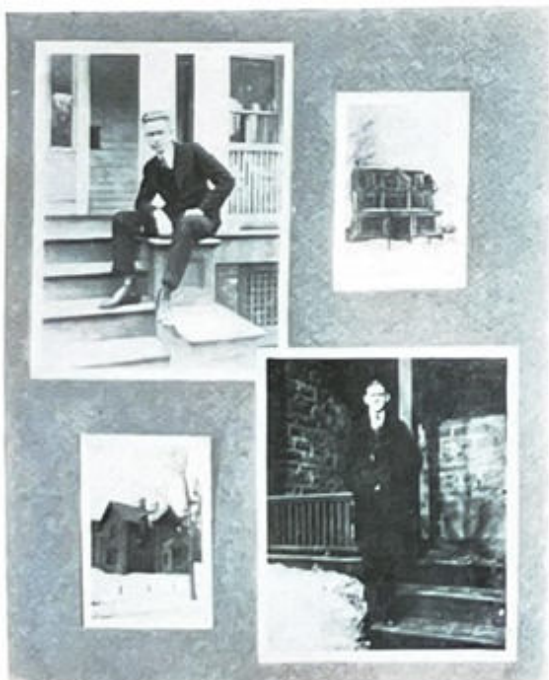

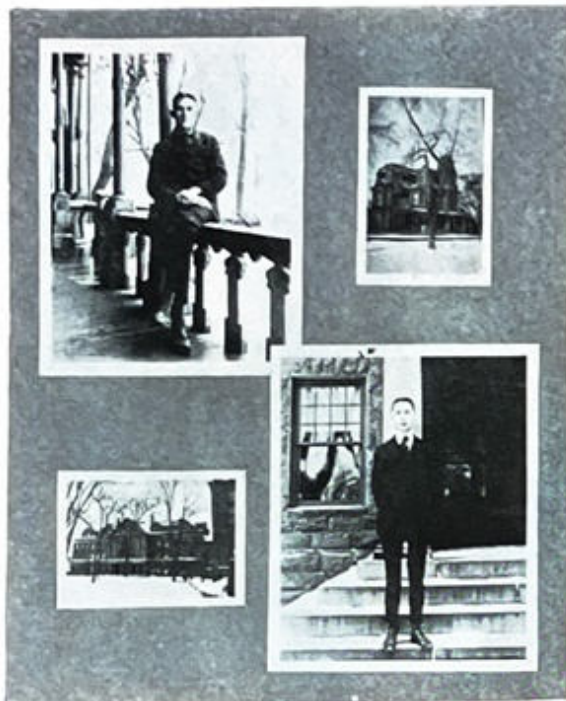

This is Mac—a bonny lad
Of ancient Scot's extraction,
He separates your "butts" and you
By forcible subtraction.

GEORGE MICHAEL McVEY
"Mickie"

I don't care what the wings of chance
 May bring to bear against me,
 A smile in any circumstance
 Will make the job more easy.

LOUIS MACK

And when through history's page we turn,
 The blessed to inspect,
 We'll find Mack's name leads all the rest—
 He wasn't stuck in Heck.

HERMAS VICTOR MAIN
"Vic"

This is Hermas Victor Main,
 A chemist here at college;
 He learns that H<sup>2</sup>O is rain,
 And all such foolish knowledge.

HENRY LEA MASON
"Mase"

Λ Phi Jakey Snapper, Mason H. L.,
 Λ wonderful student, we all know so well.
 He's not strong for the women,
 But when he's in swimmin'
 He can certainly go to beat (censored).

ALBERT LESLIE MASSEY
"Mass"

This youth from Goshen, N. J.,
Is a minister's son, so they say.
When he gets his degree
A farmer he'll be
And raise chicken-salad and hay.

BENJAMIN ISRAEL
MASUROVSKY
"Benny"

From o'er the sea to milk the cow
To Rutgers' halls he came,
He plows and digs the virgin clay
In search of more than fame.

NORMAN RIPLEY MEHRHOF
"Rip"

Aspirations to manage the swimmers had he,
He takes care of the boys who do
the dip,
But good-bye to swimming and lessons and all
When on the street he spies a pip.

JEROME ADRIAN MERQUELIN
"Herk"

Herk exhibits his limbs on the track,
In cross-country runs he leads the pack.
With ladies, too, he's not so slow,
To Plainfield now and then he'll go
And fuss a while, and then come back.

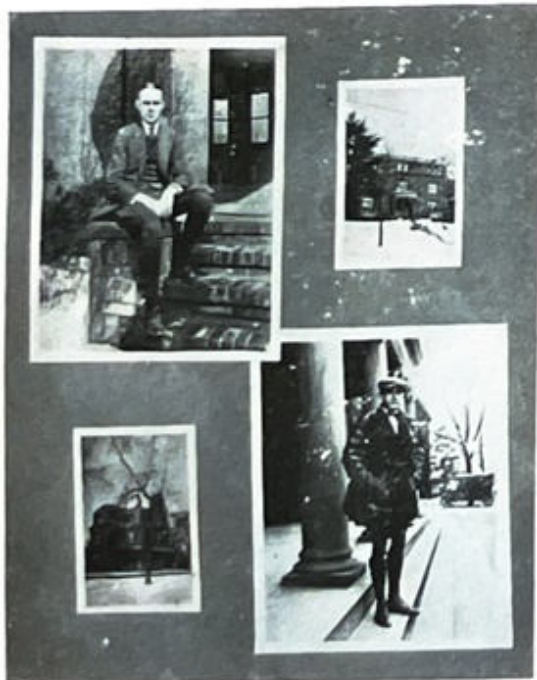

FRANK PEARSON MERRITT
 "Mike"

This native of Red Bank, New Jersey,
 Was a pill-roller over in Frar
 He offered C. C.'s for every disease
 From "itch" to the St. Vitus' dance.

CHRISTOPHER MESSERSCHMITT
 "Chris"

Chris is king of Winants Hall,
 A poet known to fame;
 He smokes O. P.'s, cuts classes, too—
 The "Duke" is far from tame.

ERWIN ROBERT MEZGER
 "Dutch"

The Dutchman hails from Newark,
 Where 'tis said that he doth rate.
 If he can pass those Freshman subjects off,
 Perhaps he'll graduate.

JOHN LLOYD MILLER
 "Johnnie"

Johnnie's lot's a hard one,
 For he's got a girl, you see,
 And though his work is left undone,
 Across the street he'll be.
 But the profs all think it's lots of fun
 To hand a guy an "E,"
 And then his dad says, "Listen, son,
 You're sure in Dutch with me."

PAUL REXFORD MOLINEUX

"Molly," "Jew"

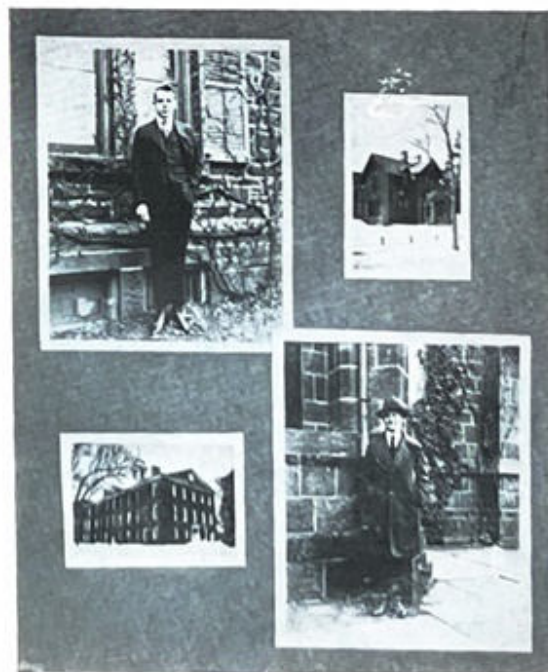

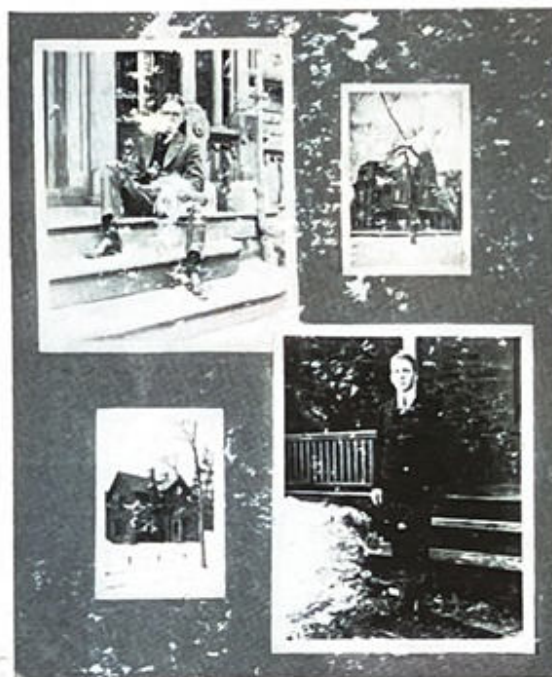

Molly, the orator—eloquent man,
My, my, where'd he learn it all?
Molly, the fusser, popular man;
By gosh! How the girls do faul!

Paul, the manager—varsity man,
Great guns, what a build he's got!
Paul, the versatile—all-round man,
Good heavens! what is it he's not?

FREDERICK LeCONGE MULLER

"Freddie," "Red"

Freddie grew spinach on his upper lip,
Till his girl threatened to give him
the slip;
Then he shaved it off clean,
And he now may be seen
As smooth as the mast of a ship.

DAVID GORDON MULLISON

"Dave"

A real good scout is our old Dave,
Of whom the Bound Brook girls all rave.
He spends many nights
In Davenport fights,
He just can't seem to behave.

PAUL VICTOR INGEMANN
NIELSON

"Paul"

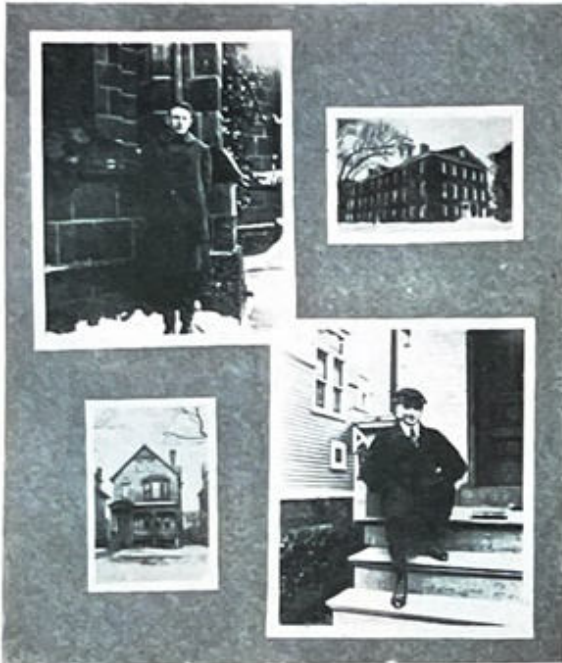

A Perth Amboy Aggie is Nielson, P. V.
A strict devotee of the fair N. J. C.
With books under arm and studious face,
He glides o'er the walks at a dignified pace.

JAMES COX NORRIS, Jr.
"Jim"

Jim's a musical man (la, la!),
 He plays the soulful harmonica;
 Anything that you can beat, twang or blow,
 Just leave it to Jim, he'll make it go

GARWOOD RUSSELL OTTINGER
"Ottie"

Here sits the editor of this great tome, tome,
 A king with paste-pot for his golden crown
 Blue pencil for his sword (to kill this pome);
 To him now gulp your Bevo—drink
 it down.

PRESTON KINNEY PACKARD

"Packard, '20—typing done!"
 A sign we used to see,
 But folks all say that Scranton
 Has his type monopoly.

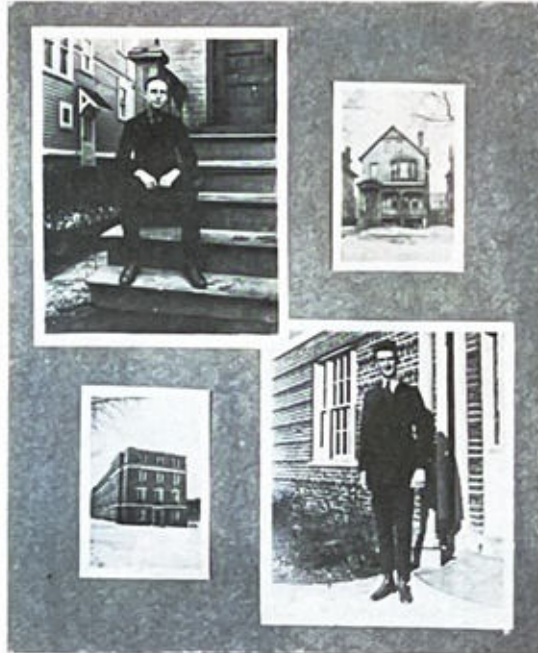

HENRY GRIFFITH PARKER, Jr.
"Grif"

Griffith loves to sling Ye Bull,
 And Payson's leg he loves to pull.
 He shines with the lasses,
 If not in his classes,
 Of pep and good spirits he's full.

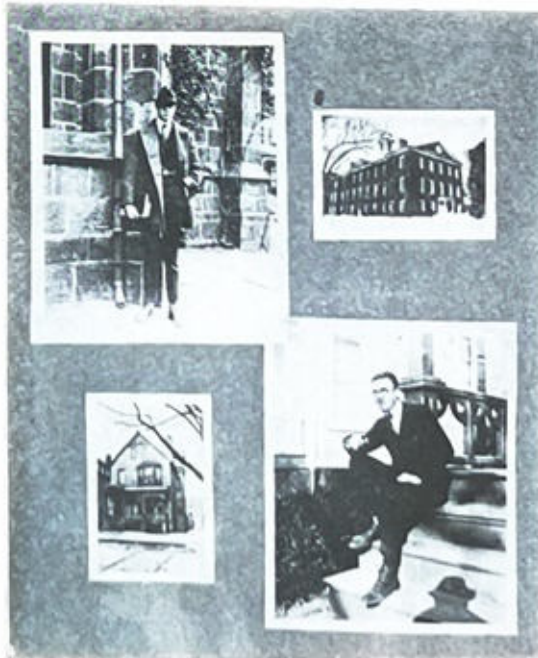

CHARLES EDWARD PAXTON, JR.
"Pax"

Another chemist of quiet mien
And unassuming air,
But when it comes to work you'll find
That Paxton fellow's there.

FRANCIS WILLIAM PETIT

From o'er the hills, Dunnellen way,
He comes in search of fame;
A "shocking" course he's taking,
But he'll get there just the same.

CORNELIUS ALFRED PERRY, 3d.

Up and down the avenue
His lengthy stride he plies;
A note from Wooster makes him blush,
Brings joys and many sighs.

WILLIAM CLERHEW PERRY
"Bill"

And "Ag" by profession,
And Perry by name,
But the way he tends the chickens
Is really a shame.

JASON SEABURY PETTENGILL
"Pet"

Here is Jason Pettengill—
 He's good at elocution—
 With equal grace he swims a race
 Or argues evolution.

HUGO MENZEL PFALTZ
"Dutch"

Hugo was an Eighteen, Hugo was a
 Nineteen,
 Hugo was a soldier, and now he's Twenty-one.
 He wants to be a chemist, we wish him all success,
 And (though it's not good English)
 we hope he'll soon be done.

CHARLES IRWIN POST
"Postie"

I never rush nor hurry,
 Of my standing I'm never in doubt.
 As long as I'm flush, why worry?
 They'll never stick me out.

LLEWELLYN NEVILLE PRATT
"Prattie"

Behold here our athlete scribe,
 Returned from the U. S. Navy.
 After roving the sea, from here to
 G. B.,
 College to him is plain gravy.

NEAL DOW QUIMBY

"Luce"

At first I thought I'd write about his funny-looking grin,
 But then again I thought, of course,
 his girl must enter in.
 So I'll tell you all about her, boys,
 she's dainty and demure
 He's got an awful drag with her—and so has she with him.

SAMUEL RAVITZ

Hark! hark! the dogs do bark!
 Who's this that's come to town?
 A chemist with a bearded face—
 'Twould make Von Tirpitz frown.

MORTIMER JAMES REDMOND

"Mort"

Football and swimming are Mort's domain,
 He declares that his lessons give him
 a pain;
 A "Pheebee" will never hang from his chain,
 But his innocent smile gets him by just the same.

HERBERT THOMAS REDMOND

"Herb"

He studies law sometimes,
 He plays football, you bet,
 But with that tall form
 And lounge-lizard air
 The movies'll get him yet.

SHIVLER BERTRAM REED
"Sam"

There is a young student named Reed,
For studies and profs he's no greed
But for automobiling
He has a strong feeling,
When there's a woman in need.

WILLIAM HENRY ROBINOWITZ
"Robin"

Dangerous Dan McGrew,
The blight of the Chemistry crew.

AARON ROTH

A bear in engineering,
Nor oratory fearing,
So sound and fat
And buxom that
You'd think he's always beering

MORRIS RUCHAISKY

"Roosh"

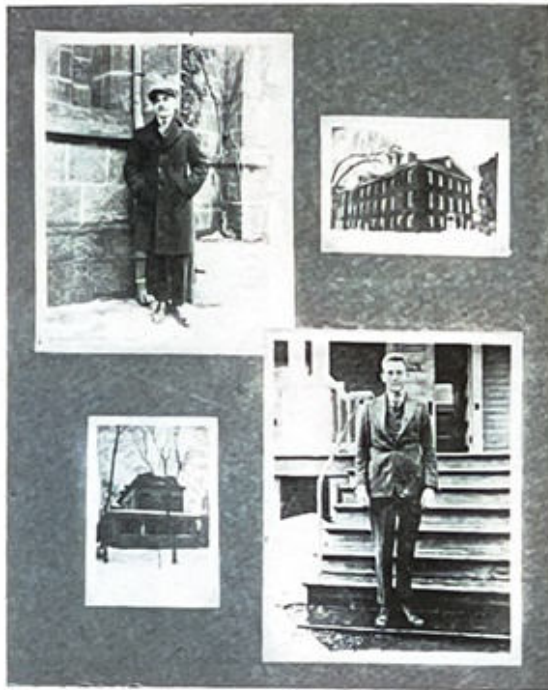

Roosh is a good-natured plug,
On math he is rather a bug.
He's shy and he's meek,
But in drafting he's weak,
And gets ink all over his mug.

WALTER RUCK

"Ruckie"

A sweet little chap named Ruck
Entered with '20—got stuck:
Like other good men
He has learned to depend
On work more than just simply luck.

GEORGE BENJAMIN RULE

"Red"

His hair may be red, and freckled his face,
But his arm is steady and true,
And often in the baseball race
He has pulled the Scarlet through.

WILLIAM LYON SCHOONMAKER

"Bill"

Well, here's Billy from Saugerties town,
Where there are ladies he's always around.
When the band starts to play,
You can hear Schoonie say,
'What a wonderful jazzyful sound!'

ALFRED KNIGHT SHERWIN

"Al"

Valhalla is my town,
Rutgers is my college.
I am here as a guest,
For sport, and not knowledge.

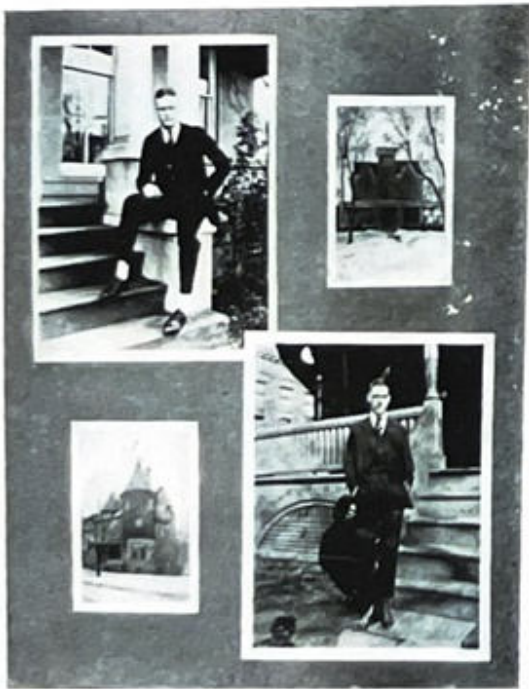

MARTIN HUTCHINSON SHERWIN
"Mart"

Each Sunday evening just at eight
Mart Sherwin's form we see,
Hiking, fifteen minutes late,
Outward bound for N. J. C.

At ten o'clock each Sunday night
His graceful form soon heaves in view;
Homeward bound, he comes in sight,
From N. J. C. for W.

ELWOOD SPENCER SKILLMAN
Skillman, E. S, and Skillman, N. J.—
This youth and his native town—
He's hoping to be a full-fledged E. E.
When they pass the diplomas around.

LAURENCE S. SLIKER
"Larry"

This blond-haired youth, of Apollo-like form,
Is one of Sandy's pets,
And when on the field he tackles a man,
That man he usually gets.

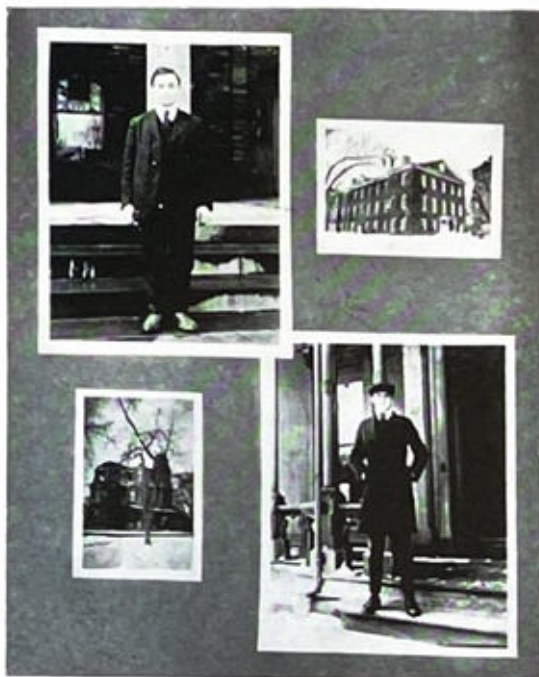

PERRY DICKERSON SMITH

No nobler yearning
Crossed his breast
Than to sing and dance,
Be gaily dressed.

HARRIS SOLMAN

Mr. Solman comes from Trenton
On the five-fifteen;
He's out for a Phi Beta Kappa key,
As plainly can be seen.

RICHARD WILFRED SOOY
"Dick"

Of the Sooy's he's another.
While formerly
From U. of P.,
He's come to join his brother.

HOWARD MARSHALL SPOONER

From Rahway came Howard
To get a degree;
He didn't care which,
So he's taking E. E.

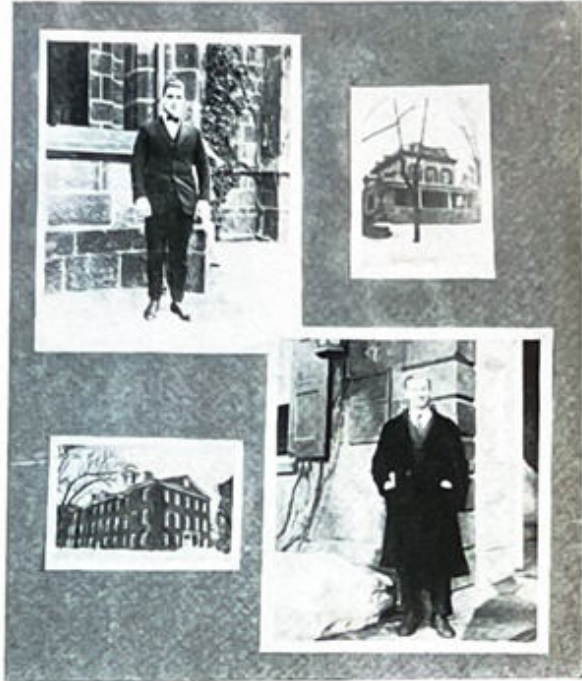

LEO STEINER

"Leo"

"A dillar, a dollar, a ten o'clock scholar,"
Was surely inspired by him who is here.
Unlaced of shoes, and unbuttoned of collar,
You may always wager he'll bring up the rear.

ROBERT BLOCK STONE
"Bob"

Dear old New Brunswick's pride and boast,
Here you'll see;
He'll soon be famous from coast to coast,
Stone—R. B.

RAYMOND STROHL

An E. E. who wastes no breath
In useless words or vain.
Sincere and earnest and direct,
His goal he's sure to gain.

JOHN MORRIS SUMMERILL, JR.
"Plug"

We have not seen him much this year,
On the Lehigh field he fell,
Fighting for what we hold most dear,
For Rutgers—and doing it well.

JOHN JACKSON SUTTON
"Jack"

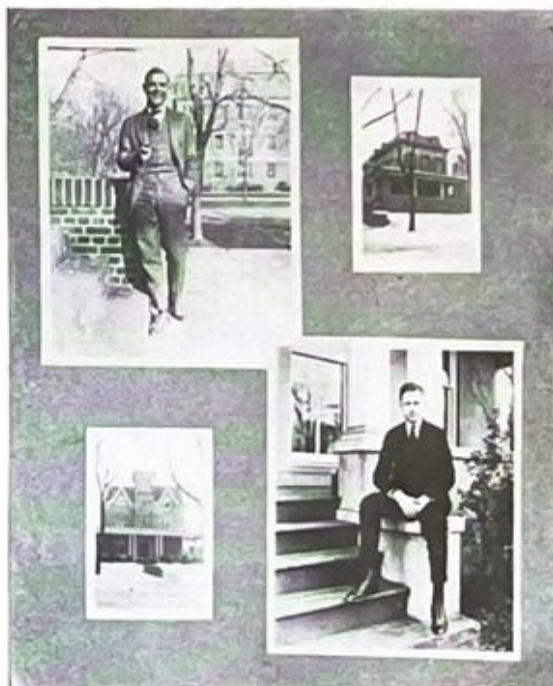

Say, boys, you ought to see that show;
The music was just grand,
And when they played the S. S. B.,
It even made the music stand.

MERRILL HAZLETON THOMPSON

"Tommie"

He goes on Sunday to the chapel
And makes an awful noise.
That mixed quartette
Is one sure bet
To keep awake the boys.

DONALD VAN BRAKLE

"Don"

In French he is a star,
In spite of the "Van" in his name;
He eyes us from afar—
Us dumbbells—in disdain.

GEORGE JONES VAN DERVEER

"Van"

We thought this farmer lad was slow,
But now we must acknowledge
That he has broken out a bit
Since he came down to college.

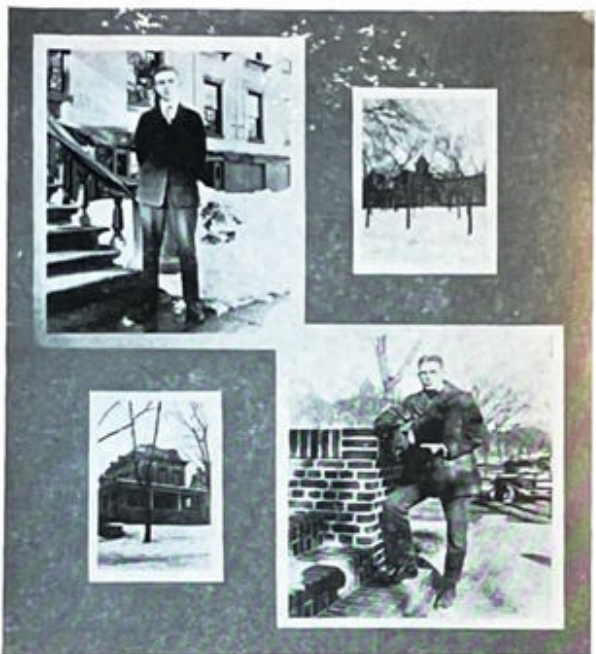

PHILIP STANLEY VAN ORDEN

"Van"

They sent Van to college
To gather some knowledge,
But he plays baseball instead.
Though in education,
With Herr Doctor Payson,
The class helps him knock 'em dead.

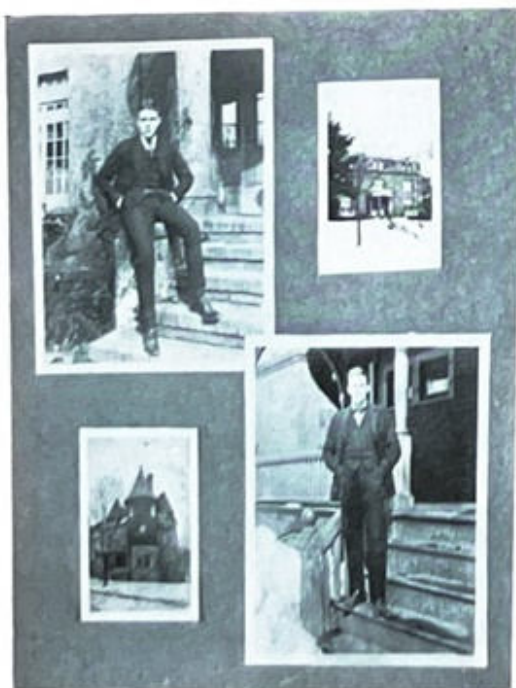

EDGAR VAN SLYKE
"Fan"

A blue-stocking son of the Empire State,
His shadow's more noisy than he;
Hunting cats early and cutting them late,
His taste runs to Biology.

JOHN RIGLEY GILL
VAN WINKLE
"Rip"

"Rip" Van Winkle, J. R. G.,
Is a Civil Engineer.
His business in the O. T. C.
Is to strike the Freshman heart with fear.

EDWARD ABBOTT WILLARD
"Jess"

Behold we here a handsome youth,
Beau Brummel of the class;
When ladies look upon his face
They fall for him en masse.

JAMES WILLIAMS
"Jimmie"

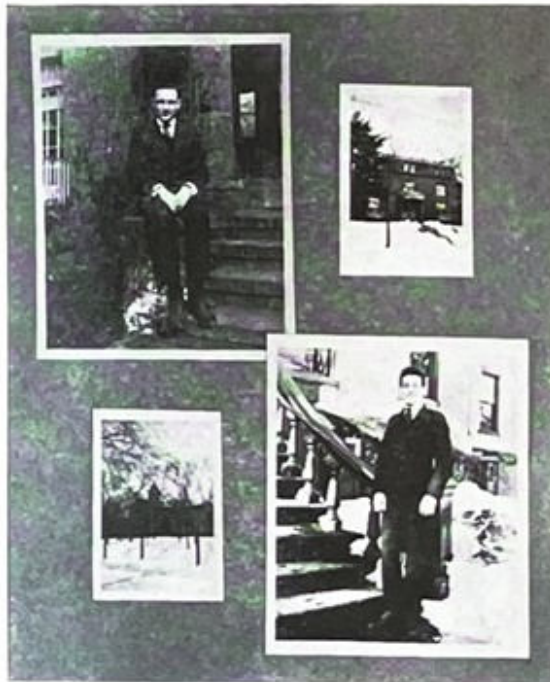

'Oh, father, I see a handsome man,
Oh, pray, who may he be?'
* * * * *
"Tis only a lovelorn Irishman;
Beware of such as he."

SEWARD HAFF WILLS

"Sue"

A quiet man, unknown to fame,
This Biolog to Rutgers came.
He aspires most a doctor to be
In a little town in North Jersey.

GEORGE DEWEY WOOD

Up Holy Hill at the sign of the pump,
George will soon wend his way,
Learning to hand out old Satan a bump,
And stumping for Judgment Day.

ROBERT WOODRUFF VORHEES

While Voorhees in person is lean,
He's endowed with an intellect keen,
He will sit by the hour
With his book, in a bower,
That knowledge may enter his bean.

PRESIDENT MOLINEUX

History of Class of 1922

The Class of 1922 returned in September for its Sophomore year to carry on the traditions of "Old Rutgers." Not the least of these was the training of the incoming Freshman class. Hard as this has been, for the training which we received in our Freshman year could hardly be called thorough, and large as the Class of '23 is—outnumbering us by more than two to one—we have not shirked.

"Proc" night ushered in another year of Freshman caps and ties. The rush was a success, not only because it was a hard-fought victory for '22, but because of the despatch and spirit with which it was carried out on both sides. Although we were overcome in the Cane Rush, it did not take long for us to impress upon the wearers of the green-button caps and greener ties that they were asleep. One sunshiny noon we filed out of Chapel and had our class picture taken on the steps of the Ballantine Gymnasium. As the Rope Rush was a tie, two men on each side having been rendered helpless, we still held the upper hand.

Crowning all these achievements was the Sophomore Hop. The committee earned the praise which they received. Never before have there been such decorations; and the music from the balcony above completed the charm.

A lasting paradise as yet has not been found on earth, and so this one had to give way to preparations for midyears. Every effort has its compensation. This was brought home to us by the complete success which we attained at our class banquet.

Just before the Easter holidays we took the Freshmen by surprise and came out with our class hats. When they finally realized that we were formed around President Molineux waiting for them, they made an attempt to dislodge us, and for a time the fight waxed hot, but the result was never in doubt, and again '22 came out victorious.

Turning aside from the academic and the social to athletics, both class and college, we find no slackening of spirit. Though the class football game was not played, baseball was—to the sorrow of the Freshmen. We have been well represented in every college sport—on the gridiron, in track, on the basketball court, in the pool, on the diamond, and tennis court, and in cross country.

Hard have we striven and fittingly have we been rewarded. Before us stretches the third lap—men of 1922, make it a year worthy of our greatest effort.

THE SCARLET LETTER 1921

PRESIDENT GIDLEY

History of Class of 1923

The Class of 1923, numbering two hundred and sixty-five, entered Rutgers with the largest enrollment of any class in the history of the college, and up until the Christmas holidays only fifteen of that number had decided to leave college. Among our numbers are many who had been in the service of their country during the war with Germany.

In athletics we have done our share, especially in football, swimming and basketball. On the Mandolin and Glee clubs, Targum staff, and in other college activities we have stepped forward and taken the place which befits the largest Freshman class which has ever rallied to the support of the Scarlet.

In our relations with the Sophomores also we have well upheld the honor of the class. True enough, the Senior Council awarded the "Proc Rush" to the Sophomores, although public opinion favored us, but we avenged this defeat when we stole the march on them and posted our procs declaring our independence from Sophomore regulations the week before the Christmas holidays. In the Cane Rush we proved ourselves the superior class, and in the Rope Rush held our own, when it resulted in a tie. During the chapel rushes, which took place on an average of once a week, we also were able to repel all attacks of the Sophomores, and our class yell was always heard.

Up to the present time we have not had a very good chance to demonstrate what can do in interclass athletics. In the fall interclass handicap track meet we obtained second place, allowing the Class of 1921, and not the Class of 1922, to defeat us. The annual football game did not take place, due to the Varsity's taking the attention of everybody. In baseball we were forced to bow to the Sophomores in a game which took place at a time when we were not very well organized.

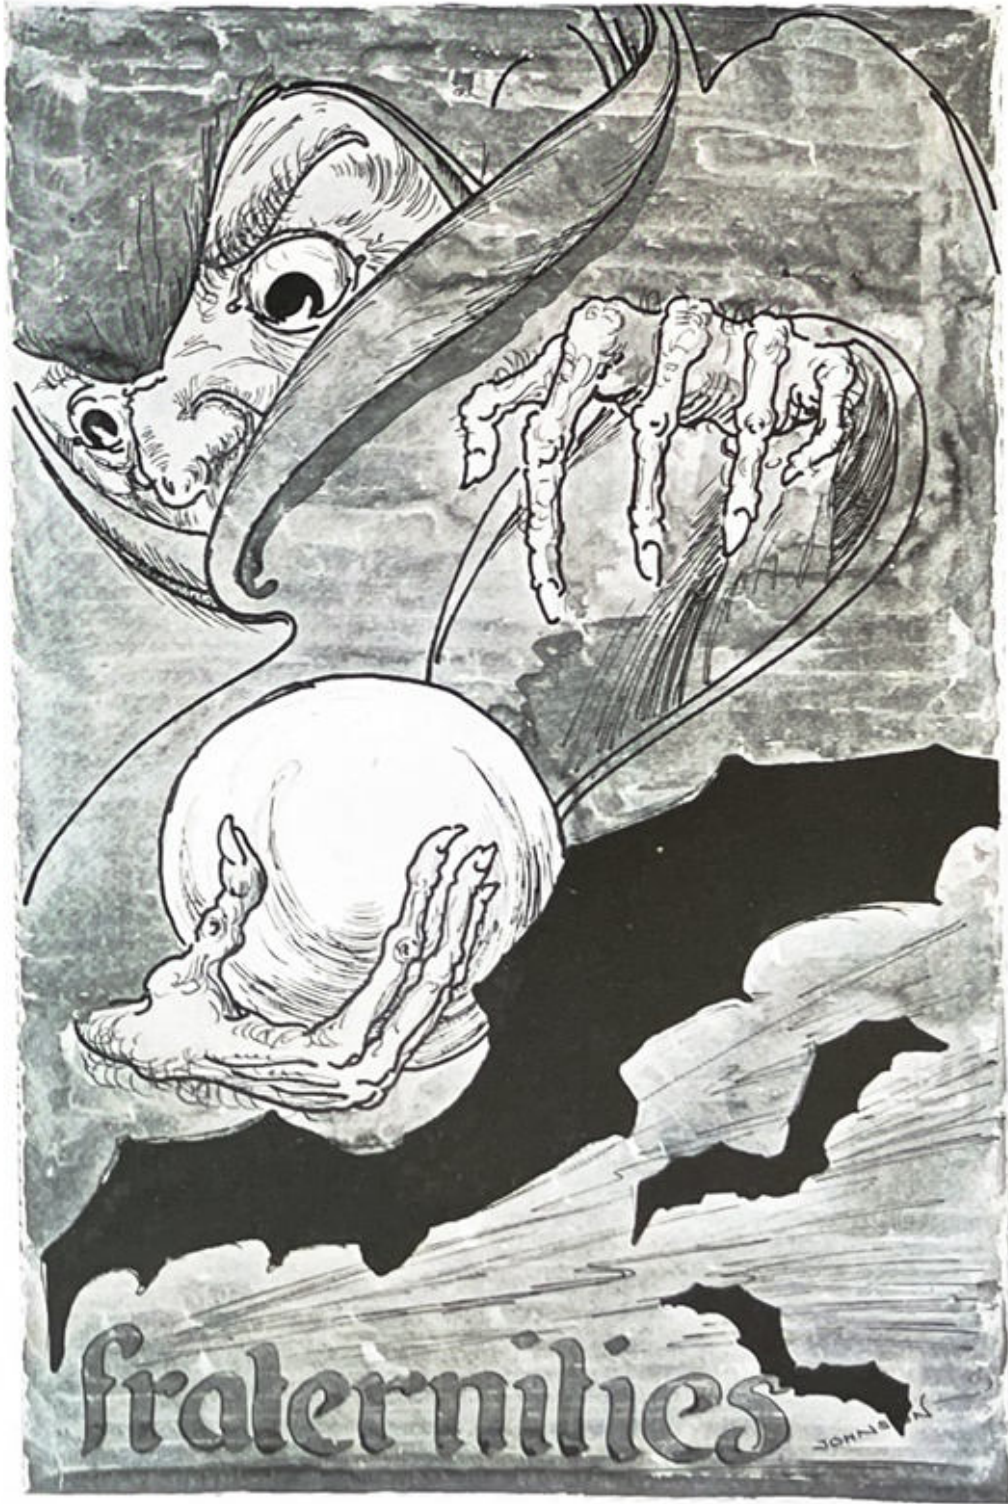

The Class of 1923 is now well embarked upon its course through Rutgers. We have started to make a name for ourselves, and thus far have been successful. Throughout the remaining years of our stay on the banks of the old Raritan we expect to keep up the high standard which we have set for ourselves, namely, to do our best for Rutgers and to make the Scarlet stand for the highest and best in college traditions everywhere.

Never before in the history of football has the season been so full of startling surprises as was this past season. A team would, at one moment, bring applause from the whole college world, and the next, down to defeat it would go before another eleven. During the season the championship was claimed by many teams, who, one by one, were defeated and humbled by some lowly contender.

The first of the season looked bright, with many of the old men back and a large number of new men to combine with this nucleus to make the best team which had ever represented the Scarlet. However, every team has its disappointments, and Rutgers seemed to have more than its share, for Rollins and Franke did not return to college, while Kelly was kept off the team on account of some question as to his scholastic standing, and he later left Rutgers to enter the Senior class at Yale. This loss of three regulars upon whom Coach Sanford had been counting to help him develop the younger players, left a great hole in the line-up, which had to be filled in by the new men.

Slowly but surely the team developed, however, and when the time for the first game finally approached, they were ready to show their strength. This point had only been reached, of course, through great effort on the part of Coach Sanford and the loyalty and fight shown by the scrubs.

URSINUS 0, RUTGERS 34: The first opponent was our old rival, Ursinus, and this victory made it the second in two years. Baker and French worked together well, supported by a hard-hitting line. It was a one-sided game, but had many interesting plays which pleased the spectators.

NORTH CAROLINA 0, RUTGERS 19: The gridiron defenders from the South came up here confident of victory, and returned defeated. The interest of the game was greatly increased by the speed exhibits of French and the nosing of Gardner through the line. Storck was always on hand to nip the forwards, which the opponents started in the second half. Garrett was also back in the game and held back Coleman, the Southerners' mainstay.

LEHIGH 19, RUTGERS 0: After two victories to our credit, the team went down to South Bethlehem, and, although they fought hard, they were defeated. Rutgers outplayed the Lehigh eleven, but whenever they would gain any ground they were penalized for holding or being off-side. This was not the fault of coaching, but of the individual desire to get into the game. Summerill ran seventy yards for a touchdown, but it did not count.

N. Y. AGGIES 0, RUTGERS 14: Much to the surprise of all the fans, and to the team itself, the N. Y. Aggies succeeded in holding Rutgers to a fourteen point score. This was done by a series of shifts, which naturally took a long while to execute. It was the policy which they had to adopt because they were outweighed. No doubt they would have been less successful against the regular backfield, but Gardner, Summerill and Duffy were out with injuries, as was also French. Mort Redmond played the game that day, making both touchdowns and kicking both goals.

SYRACUSE 13, RUTGERS 0: With practically all the student body and scores of alumni at the Polo Grounds on Election Day, Rutgers was defeated, that is in the actual score, not in spirit. To the ten thousand persons it was apparent that the defense work of both sides was very nearly impregnable. They defeated us by using open forward passes. Baker and Garrett managed the team well, and Storck was in every play until he was removed from the game, seriously injured, in the last quarter.

1921 SCARLET LETTER 1921

BOSTON COLLEGE 7, RUTGERS 13: The much-lauded Boston College eleven, which had defeated Yale earlier in the season, was defeated on its home grounds by the Scarlet fighters from New Brunswick.

The defensive work of both teams was not of stonewall calibre, but the Rutgers defense was stronger than that of the Boston team, and with French back in the game the Scarlet was able to make long gains. The backfield worked together like a machine, and undoubtedly surprised the conquerors of Yale. It was a rough game from start to finish, and it is a question as to which team got the worst of it. The Boston team was outplayed in every line, and the Scarlet came home with the bacon.

CAPTAIN-ELECT GARDNER

MANAGER-ELECT ABBOTT

WEST VIRGINIA 30, RUTGERS 7: In a fast and spectacular game, before the largest crowd which has ever witnessed a game at Neilson Field, Rutgers went down to defeat before the husky eleven from Morgantown, West Virginia. During the first two periods the Scarlet machine was working at its best, and played the visitors off their feet, and when the half ended it looked as though Rutgers was due to celebrate.

But the tide turned in the second half, when the West Virginians opened up and used their forward passes almost to perfection. Rodgers was the centre of all these plays, standing back until the crucial moment and then passing the ball, with amazing accuracy and speed, straight into the hands of one of his teammates.

In spite of the hard defeat, it was far from disgraceful, for the varsity showed great improvement, and there was no weakness in our defense against anything they put forward in the way of straight football.

NORTHWESTERN 0, RUTGERS 28: The last game of the season was played in Newark, when the Rutgers delegation met the Northwestern University team from the West. It was a true example of the superiority of the East over the West, and Rutgers had the honor of being the team to defeat the Westerners.

French went through the whole line for a touchdown, running seventy-five yards and completely outstripping the whole Northwestern aggregation. Captain Garrett played his usual game, and was in every play.

Thus the season, on the whole, considering the many reverses and misfortunes, was very successful, and as Captain Garrett and Baker leave, they will remember a great year of football, when Rutgers came up against eight of the big colleges and universities and made a very satisfactory showing, winning five and losing three.

With the close of the season, Manager Letson and Manager-Elect Abbott at once set about the task of making up the schedule for the 1920 season. According to this schedule, which is more or less tentative, Rutgers will encounter even larger universities during the coming season, and with "Turk" Gardner as captain, the prospects for a big year in football seem very bright.

*Opportunity

Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by Hovel and mart and palace—soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!

If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise, before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore;
I answer not and I return no more!

COACH SANFORD

George Foster Sanford

AN APPRECIATION

By CLIFFORD N. BAKER, '20

Mr. George Foster Sanford came to Rutgers seven years ago and started building the "Scarlet Scourge," of which we hear so much today. Football, at that time, was in a progressive state but needed some commanding figure who could, by hard work and force of character, establish a firm foundation for future years. And anyone who believes that it hasn't been hard work should take a trip up to the athletic field some nice rainy day in the fall.

From the time Mr. Sanford set foot on the Rutgers turf, a radical change took place. "Football is method and not men," but it takes a forceful personality to bring out these methods and instill them in the player. Rutgers was blessed with both.

Fine methods! Yes, and more than that, a great personality and ability which really has never been tested. Words cannot express the vividness with which Mr. Sanford stands out before his charges. A Rutgers alumnus has said: "To know 'Sandy' is to love him." And this is the feeling with which the men on the squad regard him. He is not a driver, in fact just the opposite, a man who has the confidence of all his men. Whenever any of the team are in trouble, it is Mr. Sanford who listens to their troubles, who gives them sound advice and who helps them.

The game of football he has learned from A to Z and has applied this in everyday life. Thus he points out to the player the road to true sportsmanship in football and in life. He is not only a teacher of football but a teacher of life as well.

Rutgers is very proud of her record on the field of play. Very seldom has a Rutgers man lost his temper and done any mean thing to an opponent. Each player in that game gives it all he has and has a keen regard for the player next to him. The team is like a big family. It fights hard, it wins hard, and it loses hard, because it is taught that in that effort, in that total abandonment of self alone, lies the true road to success. It is taught that in the coming years, except for the love of a woman, there will be nothing greater than the respect which a man has for those other ten men who have fought side by side with him in victory or defeat, ever giving all they had. This sentiment, this power, can be traced directly to Mr. Sanford.

As a member of three of Mr. Sanford's teams I would like to say that his dressing-room talks have taken deeper root and have taught me more personal lessons than a Sunday School class could in twenty years. And that isn't lessening the worth of the Sunday School either. As a teacher of boys and men there can be no better.

And, I wonder, just how many Rutgers men have stopped in at Mr. Sanford's office in New York. There is no question but what they are always welcome. Yet, it is an odd fact that most of the boys seem to arrive at the office just before dinner time, when they are sure to enjoy a hearty meal with Mr. Sanford. Probably the reason is that Mr. Sanford is so busy at other times of the day.

However, it is this pressure of business which has forced Mr. Sanford to be relieved of the responsibility of being present every day. During the entire seven years of coaching at Rutgers he has never missed a day's practice unless he has actually been confined to his bed, and they have been few and far between. Mr. Sanford is not going to leave Rutgers, but simply wishes to establish a system whereby the football which he has given her can be taught by her own men. In any undertaking one of the greatest tasks is a guarantee of its future. Mr. Sanford has established Rutgers football for the present and he is now endeavoring to prepare for her future. Thus we take this football, Rutgers' football, as a gift from Mr. G. Foster Sanford, and so will he always stand in the hearts of all loyal Rutgers sons.

After numerous discouragements, the managers arranged a fine schedule of games with many of the large colleges of the East, thirteen in all. Of these Rutgers won five, lost seven, and tied one.

The main weakness of the team was the lack of pitchers. Rule had pitched wonderful ball for the Pelham Bay sailors, but was unable to get his arm into effective condition for Rutgers. Captain Weller, although he had never pitched before, took up the work on the mound and did some fine pitching. The fielding qualities of the team were good, and the batting very good, but in the pinches the team, as a whole, did not seem to have the "punch."

Besides all this, the unsettled conditions in college, due to the war, kept many men out, as they were unable to obtain their discharges as early as was expected. The weather, too, prevented regular practice, and, on the whole, the outlook for the "General" was not a bright one.

Although almost two-thirds of the games were lost, in most cases they were not decisive victories for our opponents. The only teams against which we were unsuccessful in scoring were Syracuse and Swarthmore.

Our old rivals, Stevens, defeated us in the ninth inning of what was probably the most interesting game of the season, but with a series of defeats behind them the team went up to Hohoken and came back with a victory over Stevens.

The game with Crescent A. C. was also lost in the latter part of the playing, and its close score was due largely to the fine pitching of Leon. Relieving Rule and Weller, he developed into a valuable pitcher, and should prove a reliable mound-man for the coming season.

The fielding of the team was, on the whole, very good. The infield, composed of Mike Whitehill, Tom Gargan, Captain Weller and Leel Taliaferro, aided in overcoming the weakness in the pitching department. The outfield, with Aut Rice, Cliff Baker and Ralph Van Orden, came through not only in the fielding, but also in the batting.

Roby kept his old place as backstop, and too much cannot be said about this all-round athlete. His wicked swing of the bat and his big, broad smile accounted for many a victory.

The most important event of the season was the game with Princeton. A record crowd attended the game. The Tigers came up very confident, having defeated Penn the week before, and they expected to trim Rutgers. After a splendid rally, they were defeated by the score of 5 to 1. It was the first time in many years that Rutgers had defeated Princeton in any sport.

So much for the team. Coach Cox and Managers Meury and Taylor did the rest. Cliff Baker was elected captain for next year.

Manager ----- M. HAROLD HIGGINS

The season of 1919 was the most successful season the Rutgers Track Team has ever had.

In the Penn Relays the relay team, composed of Rice, Barbehenn, DeWitt, and Fuller, won the Middle Atlantic States championship, establishing a new record for that event. Joe Breckley won the pole vault with a jump of twelve feet.

In the Dual Meet with Columbia, we came out on the long end of a 66-48 score.

At the Middle States Championships, the Scarlet again came out ahead with a score of 48 as against 33 for Swarthmore and 31 for Lafayette.

At Swarthmore Rutgers won by the score 74-37.

In the Intercollegiates at Boston, Rutgers also showed up well, though it was forced to accept ninth place.

Too much credit can not be given to Coach Anderson for his splendid work, and Captain Bellerjeau, who led his team in individual points scored.

Walt Rice was elected captain for the season of 1920.

The year 1919 saw Rutgers represented in still another branch of athletics, cross-country running. Unfortunately we can not describe the season just passed as entirely successful, but, considering it all in all, our first venture in this new field was not entirely void of good results.

On October 25th we met Stevens at Branch Brook Park, N. J., and we carried off the honors quite easily, everyone of our team finishing within the first ten places. Encouraged by this, we looked forward more confidently to meeting the strong Lehigh team the following week. The mountain climbers from South Bethlehem, however, found our New Brunswick course with its gentle slopes entirely to their liking and led our team to the tape with the final score of 40-75.

The final meet was with Columbia at Van Cortlandt Park. Running over this difficult course for the first time, we made a very creditable showing, but were defeated 19-36. This closed the season and Crane, '20, was elected next year's captain.

The past season, under the direction of Coach Hill, has been the most interesting and most successful season through which the Scarlet has ever passed.

Although the team was defeated three times, the first was in the opening game of the season and the other two were each lost by one point only.

With three veterans as a nucleus, Coach Hill built up an excellent team which, under the leadership of Captain Meury, played fast and hard through the whole season.

Loyal support was given to this branch of athletics by the student body. The gymnasium seating capacity was enlarged, and the attendance at all the home games was far above that of any previous year.

In the opening game with N. Y. U., the team showed the need of smoothing off the rough places, and with the help of the coach, they succeeded, so that when the Syracuse quintet came down they were forced to carry away a defeat.

At Swarthmore the Scarlet was successful, and when Muhlenberg and Temple came here to play both were defeated.

In one of the most thrilling and exciting games of the season, the Scarlet suffered defeat at the hands of the C. C. N. Y. quintet, but only by a foul shot in the last five seconds of play.

The next game was with our old rivals, the Tigers. Princeton sent up a team with determination to add another victory to their long line, but the tables turned and, after an extra five minutes of play, Rutgers shot the foul that won the game.

Pittsburgh, West Virginia, and Carnegie Tech all suffered defeat, but the games were interesting to watch.

Last, but not least, come our old rivals, Stevens. At Hoboken all were prepared to see Rutgers and Stevens clash, but none knew what an exciting time they were to witness, and it was not until the final whistle blew that they realized that Stevens had beaten the Scarlet by one point.

The varsity letter was awarded to Captain Meury, Taliaferro, Hall, French, Benzoni, Dornan, and Manager Casey. The scores follow:

RUTGERS, 27; N. Y. U., 45; at New Brunswick.
 RUTGERS, 30; SYRACUSE, 20; at New Brunswick.
 RUTGERS, 29; SWARTHMORE, 26; at Swarthmore.

 RUTGERS, 28; WEST VIRGINIA, 22; at New Brunswick.
 RUTGERS, 46; CARNEGIE TECH, 26; at New Brunswick.
 RUTGERS, 42; STEVENS, 43; at Hoboken.

At the close of the regular season, the Rutgers team was selected as one of the eastern representatives in the National A. A. U. Championships, held at Atlanta.

Sixteen teams from all over the country played, and, by a gradual elimination, Rutgers reached the finals, having defeated University of Georgia in a very fast and spectacular game, in the last few minutes of play by a score of 36-33, the University of Utah by a score of 35-32, the Young Men's Order from Detroit by 33-17.

This left N. Y. U. and Rutgers to contest for the championship.

Although defeated by a score of 49-24, the Rutgers team fought to the finish, and came home with a fine silver runners-up cup and individual silver medals.

To add to these honors, French and Benzoni were selected as All-Tournament guard and forward respectively, and the Scarlet was the only team to have two of its men chosen.

"Art" Hall was elected to captain the team next year.

In a post-season game with the Alumni, the varsity scored another victory, defeating the old-timers by the score of 33-12. It was a more interesting battle than the score indicates, however, and such stars as Neuschafer, Robeson, Rockafeller, Coleman, Searle, and Wittpenn were once more seen in action.

Swimming Season 1920

Captain ..... P. W. LUKENS
Manager ..... N. R. MEHRHOF
Coach ..... JAMES REILLY

The past season has been the most successful one in the history of the aquatic sport for the Scarlet mermen. Yale and Princeton, for the first time in five years, failed to appear as opponents. Rutgers, however, won every meet.

The schedule originally called for meets with Johns Hopkins and Williams, but these meets were canceled.

Swimming as a sport has just begun to reach the point for which Coach Reilly has for many years been striving. Through his energy and influence, fine material has been procured, and through his untiring efforts, a team undefeated this year has been moulded.

Captain Lukens had a few veterans to build the new team on, and with the entrance of Giebel and Ross in college, all records were shattered.

C. C. N. Y., 9; RUTGERS, 44.—In the first meet of the year the relay team lacked their captain but won the race. Giebel won two first places, lacking 1/5 of a second of equalling the college record. Ross, Post and Sherwin placed, the first in the 100 and the last two in the dive.

LEHIGH, 22; RUTGERS, 49.—The relay team entered in the meet with two substitutes. Lukens won the 50-yard dash. Giebel was first in the 100-yard dash. Ross won the 220-yard dash, Mason coming in second. Post and Sherwin both placed in the dive.

SPRINGFIELD Y. M. C. A., 19; RUTGERS, 34.—The Scarlet took every first place in this meet, with the exception of the dive.

SWARTHMORE, 14; RUTGERS, 39.—With only one varsity man in the race, the relay team took first place. Giebel took three firsts, Sherwin and Post were first and second respectively, in the dive. A new find in this meet was Schaeffer in the plunge.

SYRACUSE, 19; RUTGERS, 52.—With the return of Captain Lukens and the recovery of Ross, the relay team broke the college record of 1/45/4 which compares with all colleges except possibly Yale. Syracuse only succeeded in securing two places, the plunge and the breast stroke.

Middle States Championship at Swarthmore:

OPPONENTS, 34; RUTGERS, 41.—The Scarlet sent two relay teams, and took both first and second places. They secured more points than all the other entrants together. Three places were taken by Rutgers in the 50-yard dash. In the 100-yard dash Giebel came first, with Ross second. In the 220, Ross was first and Mason fourth.

HARVARD, 14; RUTGERS, 39.—The relay team, minus Giebel, just won out, with a narrow margin. The 50-yard dash was won by Ross. The 100-yard dash was won by Lukens, with Redmond second. Ross took the 220. Sherwin placed first in the dive.

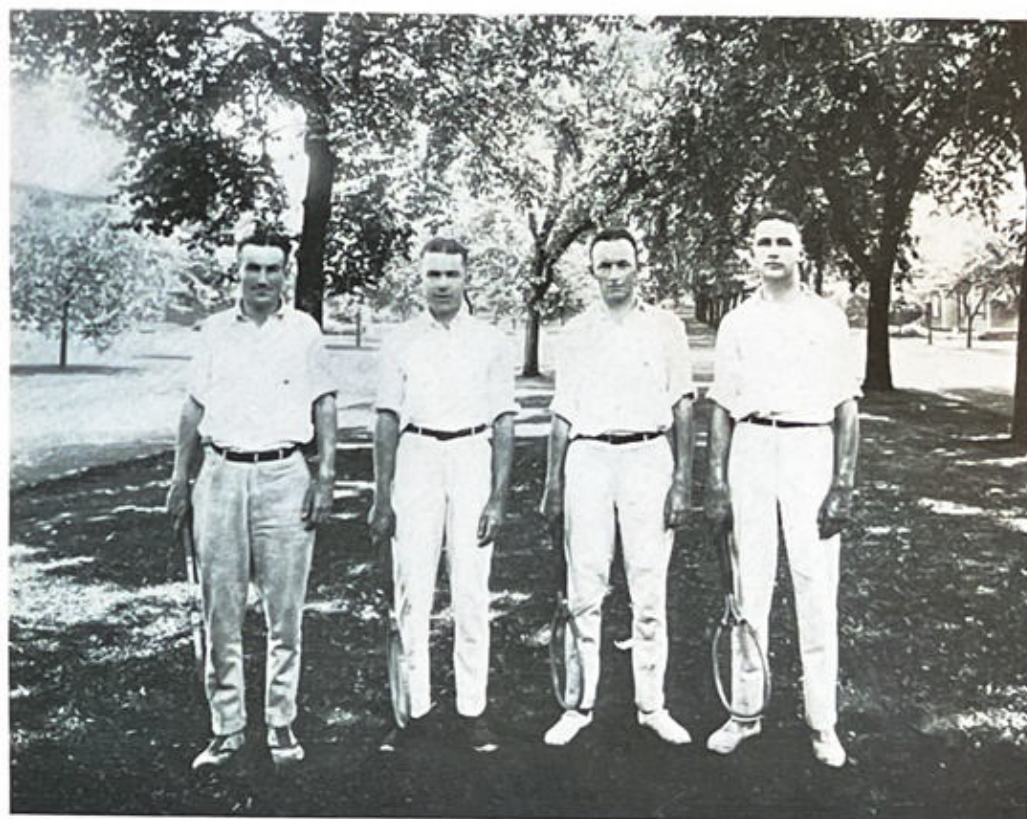

Individual points scored:

Giebel .....	86	Schaeffer .....	8
Ross .....	54	Herben .....	5
Lukens .....	34	Hearn .....	3
Sherwin .....	21	Redmond, C. ....	3
Mason .....	17	Knitter .....	3
Redmond, M. ....	16	Hance .....	2
Pettengill .....	15	Summerill .....	2
Gardner .....	10	Brenner .....	1

On account of the splendid showing, the Board of Managers has decided to award the regulation block "R" to all the members of the swimming team who placed in the Middle States or Harvard meets.

These men are as follows:

Captain Lukens	Sherwin
Gardner	Mason
Redmond, M.	Giebel
Pettengill	Ross
Post	Schaeffer

Captain.....F. L. MacWATTY
 Manager.....C. B. BOOCOCK
                   Wm. BOOCOCK                   R. BRANET                   E. T. DAVIS

The tennis season opened with very bright prospects, and a good schedule was arranged by Manager Boocock, which included matches with most of the colleges of the East. Several promising ones, however, were canceled. The scores of the games played follow:

Rutgers		Opponents	Played at
4	Lafayette	2	N. B.
1	Columbia	6	N. B.
2	Union	4	N. B.
5	Stevens	1	N. B.
0	Princeton	7	Princeton
5	New York Univ.	1	New York
0	Navy	5	Annapolis
1	U. of P.	5	N. B.

The Lafayette match was the most interesting to watch, and Captain MacWatty played the best game of his college career in his singles.

At the close of the season, H. G. Parker, Jr., was elected manager, and C. B. Boocock, captain, for the year 1920.

The honor of going through the season of interfraternity basketball without a defeat and thereby claiming the championship goes to the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity.

After a hard fought contest with the Phi Gamma Delta in the final game they proved their superiority, and thus won the silver cup which is to be awarded.

TARGUM CABINET

The Targum, 1919-1920

The Targum has seen its fifty-first year of publication in the months of 1919-1920. It was founded in 1867 as an annual, but the need of a monthly paper was realized in 1869, when it was issued as such. The Targum changed with the growth of the College, first to a bi-monthly, and finally to a weekly publication, in which form it now exists.

An innovation has been introduced which has brought forth many expressions of approval. This is the change from the magazine form to the newspaper form. Through quicker publication of each issue, the news has been more recent and interesting. The newspaper form has been well received by the majority of our readers.

Our relations with the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association have been continued and two delegates were sent to the meeting at Lafayette College. Many helpful suggestions are obtained by keeping in touch with the men representing other college publications.

The staff has been well organized, so that each associate editor has been responsible for one specialized part of the work. The positions have been filled by men of merit, who have worked conscientiously to make The Targum an expression of the voice of the undergraduate body. It has been

With the country back on a peace basis and a large number of service men returning to college, the work of the Y. M. C. A. began in September under very different auspices than those under which it functioned in the previous year, and it found itself facing a number of entirely new problems.

Rutgers was represented by five men at the great summer conference in Northfield, and this year we are looking forward to an even larger number of delegates to the same conference which has been changed to Silver Bay on Lake George.

The week-end before college opened, the Cabinet met in a "setting-up conference" at Ocean Grove, when plans for the year were formulated and details of the prospective work discussed.

The usual edition of the Hand Book was published during the summer, under the direction of the Campus Service Committee, and a copy mailed to every incoming Freshman. The unusually large class this year made still greater demands for the new student work. The fact that many of the men were obliged to find rooms off the campus gave an excellent opportunity for this new form of service in helping them to secure suitable accommodations, and later to assist in deciphering their schedules.

A majority of the Freshmen were visited in their rooms during the first week and enlisted for church and Bible school attendance according to their denominational preference.

The annual Y. M. C. A. reception to the Freshmen was held on October 2, and, with the fine speakers, music and eats, proved a great success.

The year has not been at all exceptional in that we have had our trials and tribulations in getting the busy college men out to the weekly meetings on Wednesday evening, the backbone, we believe, of our Christian Association work. Our record attendance was 145. We have had excellent talks by a number of outside speakers on topics of world interest, the meetings ending with popular discussions.

After the Christmas recess, the regular Tuesday evening Bible Classes were organized in the fraternity houses and dormitories, under faculty leadership. Enough time could hardly be found which could be given to these interesting discussion groups.

The Rutgers Employment Bureau, which has long been an indispensable part of our work, has just passed through its record year for activity. Scores of students were seeking work. The people of the city were appealed to and a great response received, with the result that hundreds of both temporary and permanent jobs were secured in helping the "self-made man."

One Rutgers delegate was sent to the International "Y" Convention at Detroit in November, and over New Years a delegation of five attended the largest student convention ever held in America under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement. In the same measure that we have seen it the cause of "real action" this spring, we hope the inspiration and new ideas received there will be felt for a long time to come in our Christian work.

This year marks the sixth successful season for the Interscholastic Debating League. Starting from beneath Philoclean's wing with a small group of sixteen schools, it has spread its work over the whole of New Jersey, and even into New York, numbering over 110 schools. Besides the steady increase in numbers, the years have meant the perfecting of the executive machinery, so that this once troublesome feature now works without a slip. The movement has proved itself more than an idle dream of a college student. So important do the state educational authorities consider the work that no less a person than the Hon. H. C. Runyon, then Acting Governor of the state, addressed the assembled delegates at their annual conference.

The Philoclean Literary Society has been exceedingly active during the 1919-1920 college year, and those few persons who still claim that the present-day college student is not degenerating from the cultural standards of his fathers, can find much encouragement in the past year's history of Philo. The attendance at the society's regular meetings has been substantially increased; the programs have been novel and varied, and the interest taken in the meetings and in the conduct of the society itself has been very gratifying.

During the first term, Beta Chapter of Alpha Gamma Phi was established at the New Jersey College for Women. Through the hard work of the student committee appointed from Philoclean members, the Interscholastic Debating League again resumed its program, and it can be stated that this year's Interscholastic Debating League Conference was one of the most successful ever held at Rutgers. The Literary Society also continued the interest in intercollegiate debating, and as usual played its position of prominence in this activity.

Philoclean, with its present body of firm adherents, looks forward to a bright future and can be expected to continue in its present state of prosperity for years to come.

The Rutgers Menorah Society, a branch of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, was organized in 1913. The purpose of the society is primarily to promote an interest in Jewish idea's and culture. It aims to invoke a knowledge of the wealth of Hebrew literature, in relation to its contribution to American thought.

The society is all-inclusive, non-partisan, and non-sectarian. The membership consists of men of divers convictions, and private religious opinion is left wholly to the individual desire. It can readily be seen that the strength of the society lies in the true catholicity of its spirit.

Among the speakers for the past year were the following: Alexander Lyons, Ph.D., Dr. John H. Raven, Sylvan Kohn, Benjamin Harrow, M.D. Dr. Ludwig Roeder, Prof. Louis S. Frieland and Rev. John A. Ingham.

Agricultural Club

President .....	F. R. DULANY
Vice-President .....	A. H. SAXE
Treasurer .....	N. R. MEHRHOF
Secretary .....	G. M. McVEY
Publicity Manager .....	J. R. PERRY

The Agricultural Club started off the season with a smoker at the Chi Phi House and election of officers.

The Club makes many trips to farms all over the state and studies practical farming methods. A few members also attended the meeting of the New Jersey Horticultural Society at Atlantic City.

Meetings are addressed largely by faculty members, and many benefits are derived from the social contact between faculty and students. About fifty active members were on the roll during the past year, and meetings were held on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

Chemical Club

President.....N. F. DAHL
Vice-President.....M. K. McWHOOD
Secretary-Treasurer.....J. L. DEVRIES

The Chemical Club began a successful season by electing some good officers. It meets once a month and has some very interesting lectures by men prominent in the industrial world. Mr. Symmes, of the Hercules Powder Company, spoke on "Acids Used in the Manufacture of Explosives," in a lecture that was extremely interesting and not so technical but that it would appeal to the average man. Among a good many other speakers was Dr. Hill, of the Barrett Manufacturing Company, who lectured on "Recent Developments in Coal Tar Chemistry." A get-together smoker was held on the evening of January 12 at the Phi Gamma Delta House. Meetings were held regularly on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, and the active members numbered about fifty.

Mechanical Engineering Club

OFFICERS

President ..... F. WAITZ
Vice-President ..... J. A. MERQUELIN
Secretary and Treasurer ..... J. G. HUBBARD

The Mechanical Engineering Club may for its origin be traced back to the Electrical Engineering Club, which was founded at Rutgers in 1907. For two years the membership consisted only of students pursuing the course of electrical engineering. A reorganization in 1909 brought about the inclusion of members of both the electrical and mechanical courses. From that time on the club enjoyed great success, until the latter part of last year, when the club dropped out of existence.

The revival this year brings a new organization. Membership is limited to students pursuing the mechanical engineering course. The program for the monthly meetings consist of papers, lectures, and discussions on appropriate subjects, delivered by members and men prominent in the engineering world.

This year the club is working with renewed vigor and greater effort to attain a worthy goal—a student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Although, due to an insufficient number of senior and junior members, the goal cannot be attained this year, the club is doing all in its power to pave the way for an early victory next year.

Civil Engineering Club

President .....	EDWIN W. BARBEHENN, '20
Vice-President .....	JOHN L. MILLER, '21
Secretary-Treasurer .....	GEORGE A. MEAD, '20
Historian .....	ERIC FLEMING, '20

For the first time in two years the civil engineers of Rutgers, encouraged by the Engineering Faculty, revived the Civil Engineering Club at a special meeting on September 25, 1919, at which temporary officers were elected.

On October 21 officers for the year were chosen, and an executive committee, composed of Riker, '20; Leber, '20; Campbell, '21, and Williams, '21, was appointed. In order to interest all engineering students in college, a smoker was held on October 31. Talks were given by Mr. McDaniel and Prof. Marvin on "The Qualifications of an Engineer" and "Why Men Enter the Engineering Profession," respectively, at the conclusion of which refreshments were served.

The interest manifested by the underclassmen at this meeting led to the adoption of an amendment to the constitution admitting Freshmen to membership in the club. Lectures by speakers obtained through the untiring efforts of the Engineering Faculty enlivened the club's sessions throughout the year. Among the most interesting were "Right Habits of Mind," by W. H. Fogarty, and "The Miami Conservancy Project," by Eschenfelder, '20.

Biological Club

President.....A. W. DURYEE
Vice-President.....J. JANKELSON
Secretary.....R. B. KIRK
Treasurer.....J. F. MULLER

The Biological Club has had another very interesting and profitable year. As an innovation, at the regular meetings, lectures were not given by professors or outside authorities, but members took turns in addressing the meeting. Such a method as this could not but be helpful to all concerned, and it was enjoyed by all.

A smoker was held at the Pi Kappa Alpha House on the evening of December 18. We hear that they "cut up" to quite some extent. It surely is hard to get away from these laboratory methods.

Meetings were held the first and third Thursdays of each month, and during the past year the active members numbered about twenty.

In order to bring together the students of Rutgers College interested in radio communication and to gain more knowledge pertaining to the science, the Radio Club was formed on October 2, 1919. The above officers were elected at this time. During the year a course of fifteen lectures covering the radio field was given.

Of the seven Rutgers Seniors who went to the Camp Devens R. O. T. C. encampment during the summer of 1919, three made the camp rifle team which competed in the National Matches at Caldwell, N. J. With the re-opening of college came the desire for a Rutgers rifle team, and with the aid of the military department this club was organized in November. Negotiations were then undertaken for affiliation with the Intercollegiate Rifle Association.

Practice was started at once on the gymnasium range and in the armory. With the coming of spring, outdoor work was begun in earnest at Camp Raritan. Penn and Lehigh accepted invitations to compete, but at the time of writing a team had not been selected. The club members are very enthusiastic, however, and, even if outside competition has not begun this year, it surely will next season.

The Rutgers Aero Club

President .....	A. L. GRIMME
Vice-President .....	A. F. PEIRCE
Secretary .....	H. H. THOMAS
Treasurer .....	J. SUTTON

The Rutgers Aero Club was founded in February, 1920, and in March was admitted to membership in the Intercollegiate Flying Association.

Its membership is open to all students who are interested in aviation. Many of its members are men who served in the Air Service of either the Army or the Navy during the war.

The objects of the club are two-fold: first, to foster interest in the development of flying, and, second, whenever possible, to represent the college in Intercollegiate flying activities. With this last object in view, the president, A. L. Grimme, has been endeavoring to arrange a Rutgers entrant in the coming Intercollegiate Air Race. At the present writing the possibility of such an entry is very promising.

The club meetings usually take the form of a smoker, at which problems and developments of aviation are discussed. These meetings have been well attended, and the club has been very fortunate in securing as speakers some of the foremost aviators in the country.

The Glee and Mandolin Clubs have had a very successful season this year, due principally to the efforts of the manager, H. Griffiths Parker, Jr. An unusually varied list of concerts was arranged in the following cities: Freehold, Westfield, Perth Amboy, Cranford, Plainfield, Montclair, Bloomfield, White Plains, N. Y., Tarrytown, N. Y., Middletown, N. Y., and Albany, N. Y.

Joint concerts were arranged with Lehigh at Trenton and Philadelphia, and with Lafayette at New Brunswick and Easton, Pa. The clubs also played at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City, and at John Wanamaker's New York store. This was the best list of concerts the clubs have ever enjoyed, and it should improve with every year, for a college has no better advertising medium than its musical clubs.

Mr. McKinney's abilities as a coach were fully displayed by the work of the Glee Club. The Glee Club Double Quartet and the String Quartet played at the Steel Pier, Atlantic City, before the convention of the New Jersey Horticultural Society.

The Freshman Class supplied many excellent voices, and the response from '23 was very gratifying, presaging a busy future for the clubs for the next few years. The Musical Clubs supply a mode of social activity enjoyed by many in the college, and furnish a means for bringing before the people of the various communities a sample of the quality of work which is being carried on at Rutgers, not only in musical lines, but in many other fields.

Queens Players

Season of 1919-1920

OFFICERS

President .....	HOWARD H. THOMAS
Business Manager .....	BRUCE W. ANGUS
Secretary .....	JASON S. PETTINGILL
Treasurer .....	DR. WHITMAN

The "Queens Players" started practice early, under the direction of Miss Barbour, who has again returned as coach of the Dramatic Club. Under her excellent supervision, rapid progress was made on the new play, "The Road to Yesterday," and it was presented with complete success on Thursday evening, March 25th, in the auditorium of the New Brunswick high school.

This success was due in great part to the excellent co-operation of the Women's College, from whose enrollment all of the female parts were filled.

It is planned to present another play in the Spring, during Commencement Week, in which all of the characters will be chosen from "Queen's Players."

Annual Concert Course 1919-1920

The concert course this year opened on November 12, 1919, with a splendid concert by Madame Louise Homer, the famous contralto, who had so charmed her hearers upon her former visit here in 1916. She, of course, needed no introduction to a New Brunswick audience, and Ballantine Gymnasium was filled to capacity.

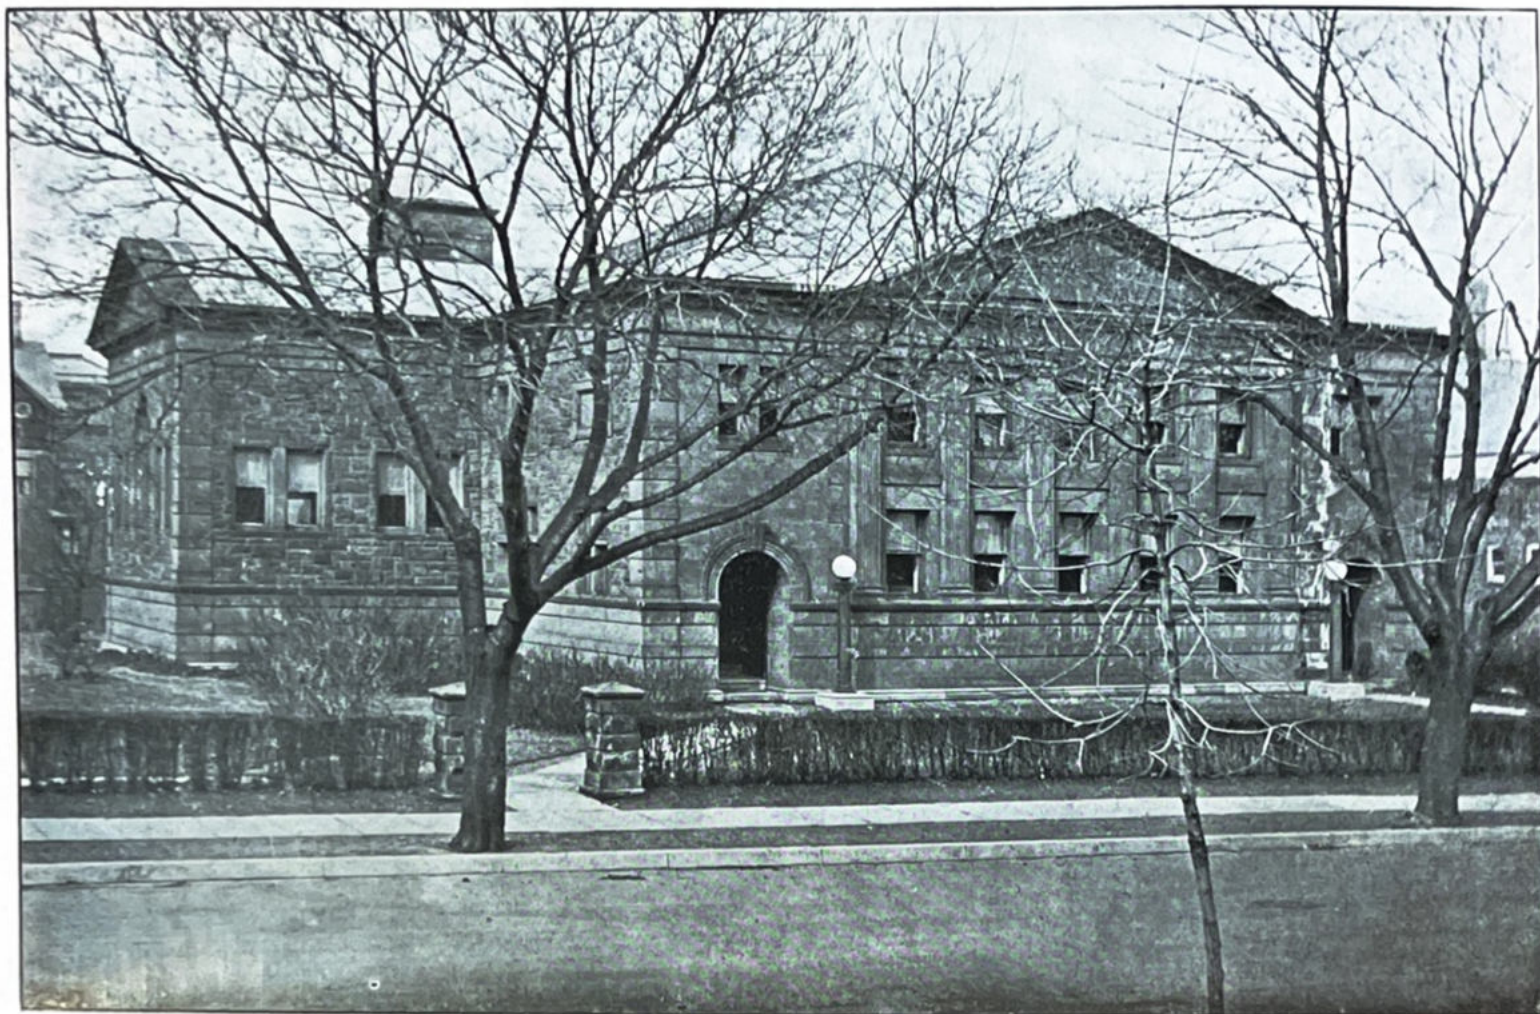

The second concert was given by May Peterson, noted soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, in the High School Auditorium on December 8, 1919, and all who heard it declared it a rare treat.

Ballantine Gymnasium was the scene of the third concert, in which Lambert Murphy, tenor, delighted a large audience, on the evening of January 23, 1920.

The last concert of the season was given on February 16, 1920, in the High School Auditorium. The New York Chamber Music Society furnished the talent for this occasion, and many instrumental selections of rare charm were rendered.

The course was altogether a most successful one, and was fully appreciated by music-lovers of the college and city, who are looking forward with much interest to the coming season, when an even more attractive program is promised.

Fire-light Fancies

There's a hint of fairy music
 In the laughter of your eyes,
 And a gleam of April sunlight
 From the gates of Paradise,
 Falling in a golden glory
 On the shadows of your hair—
 That recalls forgotten mem'ries
 Through the still, expectant air;
 That remembers incense, wafted
 On the Summer breeze's wing,
 And the Spring-time flowers that tremble
 'Neath the tripping feet of Spring!

(I cannot forget that evening
 By the moonlight on the sea—
 And each year when Spring trips northward
 You will come again to me!)

When the sun is in the pine trees
 And the wind of Spring-time strays,
 Very soft across the mountains
 Glides a dream of golden days—
 When the winding, silver brooklet,
 As it tinkles to the sea,
 Serenades the woodland flowers,
 Comes a whispering to me:
 Comes a longing through the sunlight,
 And a calling from the rain,
 Till my restless fancy harkens
 To an old-time song again.

(By the hearth-fire I shall dream it,
 When the Spring-time flowers blow fair—
 Magic, in a night of silence,
 —And a ghost upon the air!)

RONALD BARRETT KIRK.

Light

Through the voidness of the deep broke forth the light;
 At God's command deep darkness changed its form,
 And warmth and light and gladness left on earth
 A priceless gift, the source of life and love:
 God's symbol of His love for lowly man.

Through the thickness of the Stygian night
 Of anguish, woe, and heart-felt pain,
 Of doubt, misunderstanding, age-long hate,
 That like a pall hangs o'er the human race,
 A rainbow ray of hope doth penetrate,
 Doth pierce the awful blackness of the night,
 And fills man's careworn soul with a new light—
 Firm faith in God and in the right—
 That is man's symbol of his love for God.

N. T.

Reality

The caress of your hands is like the sun
 Slanting in ineffable glory through the old trees
 And touching the rough-hewn cross
     On the top of a woodland chapel,
 Or the breath of a low wind through a garden,
 Coming down the long valleys
 Like an old, oft-remembered dream.

    But the caress of your hands is only a memory—
 The firelight brought it back—for that was a long, long time ago—
 Only the embers wink tremulously
 Before they go out!

RONALD BARRETT KIRK.

For Her People

I sat in a corner of the broad verandah
 Sipping Chianti; the mango tree
 Was in full bloom and the band was playing softly
 An old-time air, that carried me back
 To a forgotten day—
 The soft patois of the natives and the low lights—
 And the moon.

The white beach—and the sea coming in—
 Have you ever heard the low wind come down the valleys,
 Gently, like the caress of dream-fingers,
 Or the first April rain in the hill country?
 That was the surf gathering there from the sea-distances.
 A boat came in; dancing, light as a farewell kiss, with the sun
 On the waters. Straight and beautiful and graceful,
 Her paddle breaking the spell of sun-magic in the surf—
 It was some goddess of the islands.
 Her cheeks were like roses in an old garden
 With the moon on them—fragrant with the blush of June.
 There was a sudden light in her eyes—the light of glory
 Or the call of a forgotten Summer.

(It was the music that brought it all back—
 The soft Hawaiian ukelale that had the voices of the surf
 And the picture of the white beach and the sea coming in,
 And the magic of her eyes, mingled into one—)

She beached her boat—her brown young body,
 Vivid—like a sunset over a mountain peak,
 Rhythmic as music—gleamed golden. . . .

We lay stretched out on the sands where I had first Glimpsed her. The months had gone swiftly—for her and me—
 Months golden as a dream of home in a faraway land.
 But the end was near:

For there existed some strange age-old tradition
 Of the islanders, whereby the first daughter of the chieftain must,
 In the bloom of her fair youth,
 Be offered up to their great Sea-god—a tribute and sacrifice.
 She must go in a canoe, as she had come to me, on the broad waters
 Far, far, out into the very west—to the sea-distances—
 To be seen no more.

I told her I would follow her fast; that we would travel
 Westward, and live and love in a far country.
 But Pagan as she was—true to her father and her god—she made
 Me swear no—bade me be still, with that characteristic,
 Wantonly regal toss of her golden head—I loved it so!

So we lay there on the sands
 That last morning—she and I—gazing off into nothingness . . .
 And I saw her go finally—young, straight, strong,
 And oh, so beautiful.

She pushed her canoe, decked as did befit
 A chieftain's daughter,
 Brave as the daughter of a king,
 From the beach, and lightly sprang away.
 (The wind hushed down to nothing, in the valleys,
 And the flowers ceased dancing.)
 Her paddle flashed—again and again against the red sky—
 Far out at sunset.
 Into the golden west—her paddle dipped in farewell . . .
 Soon there was only a speck on the horizon-red . . .
 At sunset, far, far into the west she went—
 Straight, and strong, and beautiful.

I was sitting in the corner—my glass was empty—
 Only my cigar glowed dimly through the dusk.
 The mango tree was in bloom;
 But the band was still—
 The verandah deserted—

A moon that was waning . . .
 (The wind-weary waves coming in and the white beach
 And the voices of the surf and the magic of her eyes, mingled,
 Faded and were gone . . .

The soft music had called them forth—
 And the music was dead.)

To My Pipe

There will be made a place for you, old friend,
 Wherever it is written I should go—
 Intrepid, brave, beyond the trail's far end,
 Into the darkness that we do not know.

And if my sun should there forever set,
 Falling behind me on the dewy lawn
 That follows little ripples of the wind,
 It shall be said of me when I am gone:

He that found faith and hope and work and dream
 In the low amber haze around his brier,
 He has been faithful in his turn to it,
 Lighting his last trail with its sacred fire—

And then, forever in the great Beyond,
 Though skies be not so blue as now they are,
 They shall not part, they that were friends so long,
 For each man walks in his accustomed star—

And such things as I love shall see me still Enveloped by a flame that is divine—
 Knowing that on the desert or the hill
 Fulfillment of desire will still be mine.

And all the dreams so mutable and fair,
 Fashioned alike from firelight and thy haze—
 Shall live in wine from earth as fair as ours—
 Mellowed by suns that herald bluer days:

Since I, who smoke you now, will still be true
 And you will be my solace through all woe—
 We'll raise our sparkling glass to friendship new
 By future hearths, old friend of long ago.

A Memory

(F. B. K.—upon leaving Rutgers, 1919)

Along the campus ways the red leaves fall
 Each year when Autumn winds are blowing down,
 And by the eaves the ghosts of Autumn call,
 Softly and low, with voices dead and brown:

Resplendent in her crown of red and gold,
 And garlanded with ghosts of Summer flowers—
 Autumn shall come, as was her wont of old—
 To drink the ripened wine of August hours:

Autumn shall come again—and Summer wane
 Into the limbo of forgotten ways;
 Ah, poignant is the memory again
 Across the sunshine of October days.

He will be gone, but in his stead will be
 His ghost, come traveling down the Autumn wind:
 Rustling the crisp, dead leaves of memory
 Under the eaves, with dreams he left behind.

No one will know, but that it is the night
 Filled with Autumnal sounds, the brown leaves tryst
 No one will know but me—for I shall sight
 Autumns of other years blown through the mist.

And I shall come to wander here again,
 If I should think his spirit had been dead—
 To hear at night the dreams that perished there
 Under the leaves that flamed one moment red!

Chanson du Retour de Printemps

To the windward of the mountain
 Where the sun will never fail,
 And the stars keep nightly vigil,
 Spring has found her old-time trail;
 She has tripped across it lightly
 With her scented, sandalled feet,
 And the rills she touched have blossomed
 With a Springtime glory sweet . . .

They have sprung to silver laughter,
 They have broken into fire,
 And the flowers are dancing northward
 On the the trail of her desire.

Like a rhyme of haunting sweetness
 Spring has come to us once more,
 By the pathway she discovered
 To the trysts she kept of yore;
 And the nymphs have held it sacred
 As the lanes in Arcady,
 By the whisper of the west wind
 And the love-song of the sea.

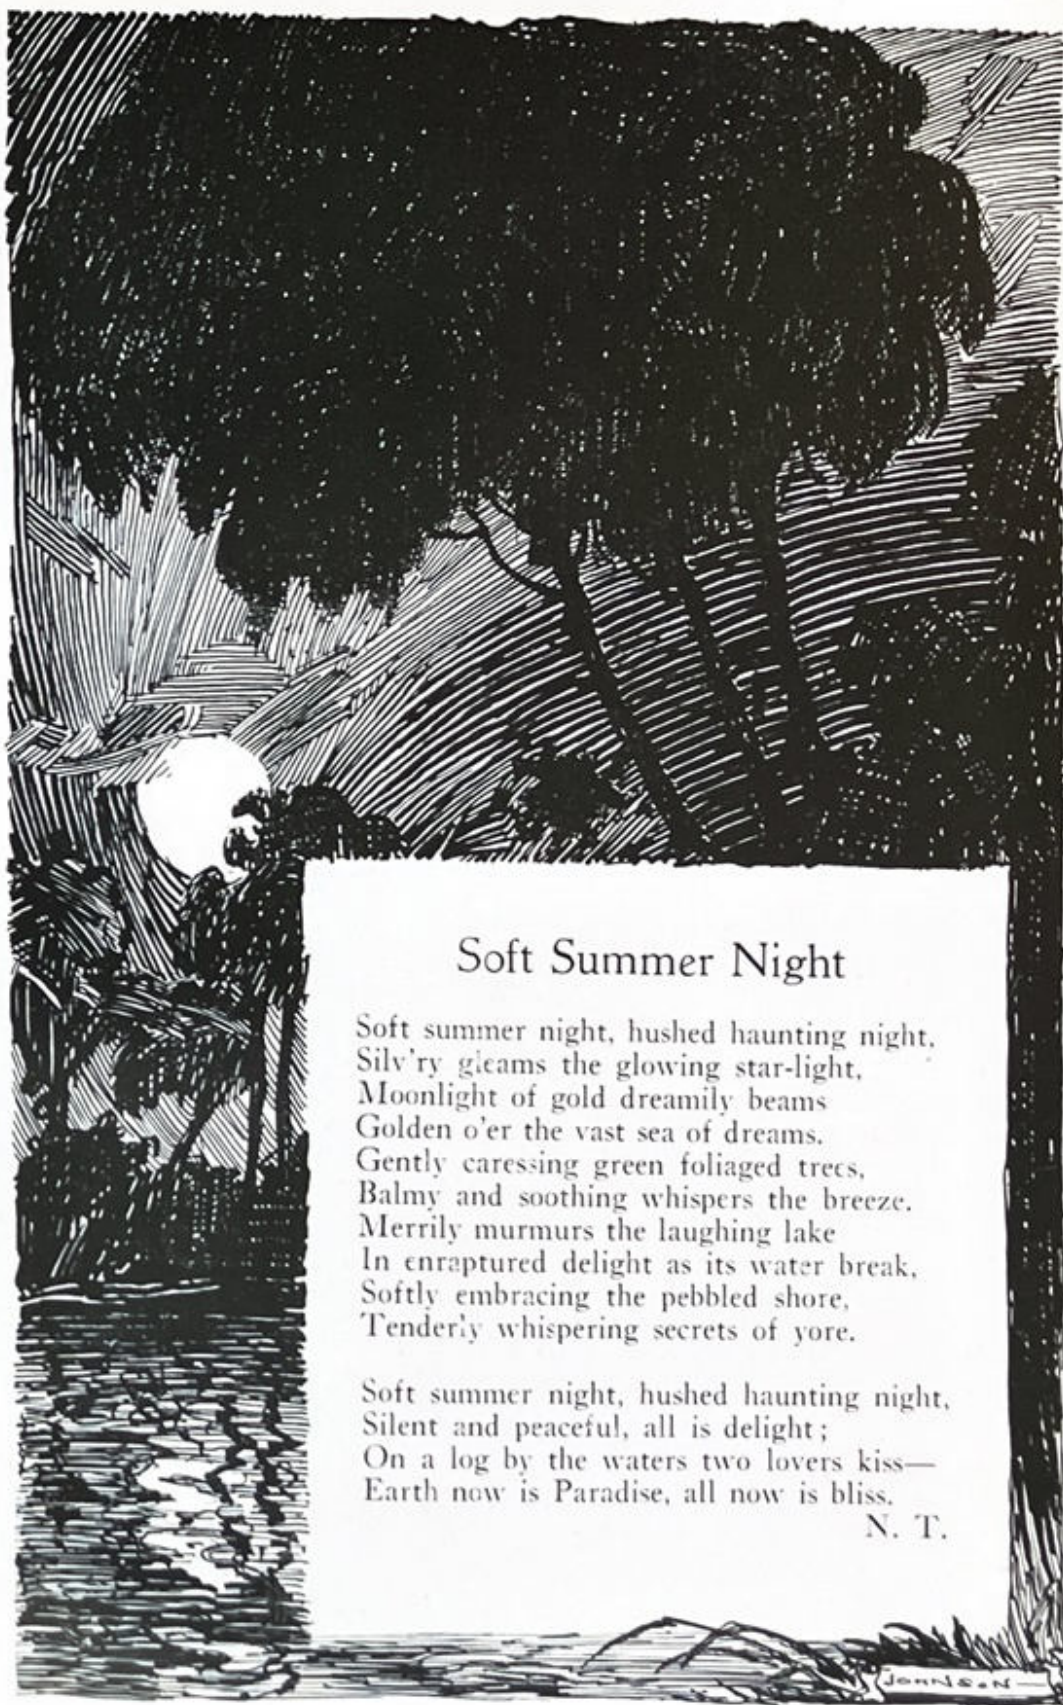

They have hidden it with laughter
 Like a swift consuming flame;
 They have written it in silver
 With the magic of her name.

You have heard the rain of April
 And the little winds of Spring
 Venture forth with golden music
 As the mountain dryads sing:

She is dancing, from the valleys,
 When the low moon meets the dawn,
 From the hillsides and the heavens
 Where her feet have kissed and gone—
 They have hidden it in star-dust
 On the trail she left behind;
 They have cloaked it with a sunset;
 They have winnowed it from wind:

Hush, for Spring comes down the mountain
 By the old-time trail anew—
 Winds of scented dreams caress her—
 And her hair is drenched with dew.

Soft Summer Night

Soft summer night, hushed haunting night,
Silv'ry gleams the glowing star-light,
Moonlight of gold dreamily beams
Golden o'er the vast sea of dreams.
Gently caressing green foliaged trees,
Balmy and soothing whispers the breeze.
Merrily murmurs the laughing lake
In enraptured delight as its water break,
Softly embracing the pebbled shore,
Tenderly whispering secrets of yore.

Soft summer night, hushed haunting night,
Silent and peaceful, all is delight;
On a log by the waters two lovers kiss—
Earth now is Paradise, all now is bliss.

The Road to Old Romance

Along a vanished way I roam,
All decked with golden light—
And faces—ah, I dream, come home
Down Romance Road to-night.

So I will drop my years' long load
And see with weary eyes
The old, old road, the starlit road,
The road to Paradise.

And haunts my wind-blown casement there
Under the rain-wet eaves,
The ghost of you on Autumn air,
All brave in Autumn leaves.

Till softly, like a dream at night,
You dance in through the rain—
Come back to lead the long way home,
Down Romance Road again . . .

NONSENSIA

HIAWATHA

OR

HE STOOPS TO CRANK 'ER

Should you ask me whence this building,
 Whence this cheesebox on the campus,
 With the odors of the kitchen,
 Pregnant odors of Mac's kitchen;
 With its hallways dank and noisome,
 With its stairways steep and fearsome;
 Where the gas it always leaketh,
 Where the water never runneth;
 Where the rooms are painted bilious
 In the bright and varied colors
 Of the master of the paintpots;
 Green and ochre are the colors,
 Colors brought from lands afar off,
 Colors brought from Jersey City,
 From the totem of the Dutch Boy,
 From the wigwams of the traders;
 If still further you should ask me
 Saying, "Whence come all these breezes, Whence come all these icy zephyrs?"
 I should answer your inquiries
 Straightway in such words as follow:

. . . . .
 Through the walls of porous plaster,
 Where the wall should be, but is not,
 Through the mighty cracks and breeches
 Comes the wind-god from the campus,
 Comes the mighty Foo-Foo-Ha-Ha
 From his caves across the river,
 'Cross the Raritan's deep torrent,
 From the land of the Metuchen,
 From his lodge amid the hayseeds.

. . . . .
 From his dwelling on the Subway,
 From the land of the Manhattoes,
 Came the kindly sachem, Winants,
 Came the wealthy Garret Ellis;

Rich he was in beads of wampum,
Skins of reindeer and of buffalo.
Came this sachem grand and mighty,
From the wilds of Thirty-third Street.
Met he Prexy on the campus;
On the green and verdant campus;
Smoked they then the fragrant Peace Pipe,
Filled with saw-dust and Bull Durham,
-Bowl of red clay, stem of elder,

Hung with feathers of the jail-bird.
Thus he spake, this mighty Chieftain
To the Prexy of the College:
"Many strings of wampum have I,
Of the long green paper wampum;
Too long have I watched the students
Wildly roam—unhoused—unsheltered,
And it grieved me in my bosom;
So I give you now this wampum
Saying, 'Go and build a wigwam,
Build of good red brick, a wigwam.'"
Then upon that spot assembled,
Many pick and shovel artists:
Straightway they commenced the building.
Soon the place was dedicated
To the gods of greasy grinding,
To the Clan Phi Jakey Snapper.
But when everything was ready
And the President stooody steady
With the trowel in his mud-hook,
And the Profs. around him gathered,
Then the boisterous Foo-Foo-Ha-Ha
(He the wind-god rough and sportive),
Just to please his passing fancy,

Blew away the gown of Prexy:
Then, By George! Ye Gods!! and Horrors!!!
Add to this, By Gosh! Consarn IT!!
Was revealed a crime blasphemous,
Stood revealed our Prexy's torso
Clothed in undershirt of flannel;
Red it was, bright red in color.
Sacred was this shade of red to

Gitche Manitou the Mighty;
Then the profane Yenedizzi,
They, the freshman, green and verdant,
Simpered, giggled, even snickered.
Gitche Manitou the Mighty,
In his anger, smote the building,
Smote the house which Winants builded;
Smote the inside, spared the outside,
Smashed the plumbing, wrecked the gas jets,
Gummed the works and queered it all.

Thus it comes, that, in the winter
Bloweth all these icy zephyrs,
Through the wall of porous plaster
Where the wall should be, but is not.
Thus it comes, that in the morning,
In the cold and clammy dawning,
That the water never runneth,
That the faucet merely mocketh.
Thus it comes that in the evening,

When the crap team tries for sevens,
That the gas it always leaketh,
Merely whistling impotently.
Thus it comes, that all professors,
To remember the eventful
Day that Prexy wore red flannels,
As a sign of pain and sorrow,
Decorate their necks with halters.

Halters stained a bright red color;
Halters made like bat-wing ties,
Halters tied like four-in-hands.
Now you know from whence this building,
Whence this cheesebox on the campus.
And you also know the legend,
Ancient legend of our fathers,
Why the Profs. affect red neckties,
Neckties of a bloody color.

C. MESSERSCHMITT, '21.
LEO STEINER, '21.

She wore a dress. I laughed at it—
For brevity's the soul of wit.

A Sound of Revelry

FIRST VOICE (deep and manly): Hello! Hello, N. J. C.?

SECOND (deep and stern): Yes. What can I do for you?

VOICE NO. 1: May I speak with Miss X——?

VOICE NO. 2: Sorry, but it's 8:05 P. M. After hours, you know.

VOICE NO. 1: (very weak): But this is her father speaking.

VOICE NO. 2: Old stuff, try again.

VOICE NO. 1: I should like to speak with Miss X—— on an important matter relating to the Play.

VOICE NO. 2: A very original excuse; I'll call Miss X——.

SCENE: Dance at N. J. C. to which the above was prologuz. Cu'prits file in. Take off coats. Men faultlessly dressed in evening clothes hired exclusively for the occasion. Each arrival mumbles something to the hostess which sounds like, "How's the stew." One man (Freshman) rushes in with the firm expectation of being immediately taken to a darkened room, to participate in the orthodox college girl spread, a la "Betty Wales, Freshman." Instead he is lured by a fair N. J. Collegian to the drawing room. (So called because they draw you in there, draw up chairs, and draw you into an incriminating conversation anent Neoplatonism, etc.)

SPECIMEN CONVERSATION:

N. J. C. (ardent W. C. T. U.): Don't you think that Miss Willard did a great work for the country?

RUTGERS (gorilla from Bayonne): Well, ah, if she'd on'y started Jess on his boxing lessons earlier, he might have been champ yet.

(Sickening silenc.—all adjourn to gym to cover confusion. Arrived at gym, men seek partners. Music. One man, bold dashing sharpshooter from S. Jersey, leads a quaint, demure New York girl on the floor. He teaches her "new" steps which she hasn't danced since Davy Crockett was a tender-foot, and which she forgot since Jack Rose quit teaching Sunday School.)

HEARD IN A CORNER:

RUTGERS (social climber from Brooklyn): When do they serve the beer?

RUTGERS (habitué of N. J. C.): Sh! They don't serve beer.

RUTGERS (S. C.): Why, I just saw a girl rush past with a bung-starter.

RUTGERS (Hab.): That wasn't a bung-starter; that was the Victrola handle. They have been using it to turn the ice-cream freezer.

HOMeward BOUND:

HE: Well. G'bye.

SHE (in an ether-sweet voice): Good-bye.

HE: I had a dam— I mean I had a hel— (Panic-stricken.) Well, g'bye. (In a weak, inaudible voice.) May I call again, sometime?

SHE: Yes (looking at tips of ruined shoes)—sometime. Good-night.

Nothing Much

Scene—Chapel. Time—Any Day, 12 M.

Students file in with the looks of men about to be executed. Five men stand over the heat register with a persistence worthy of a better cause.

Finally, after snatching neighbors' hats and various other side-splitting humorous acts, students are seated. Through the bedlam comes a lonesome chord from the organ. Organist looks surprised that he can hear it himself. He might be playing "Alcoholic Blues" for anything anybody can hear.

More chapel conversation. (Carried on somewhat louder than a profane coal-heaver.) Dean now opens hymnal. Waits until feet-scuffling has stopped, gives apologetic smile and then states that he hopes students will continue the good order. Certain Juniors bet neighbors hymn will be No. 432. Neighbors bet on No. 748. Dean announces No. 4.

Everyone rises. Organ plays. Professors prepare to look pious. All except three. Two look surprised to find themselves there. One looks indignant. (Probably some dumb-bell gave a good recitation in the morning when Prof. didn't expect it.)

Singing starts. About half the hymnals have "French Grammar" or "College Algebra" printed on the cover. The other half are headed "New York Times." One man sings: "X square minus BX minus Zero" to test out the assertion of Engineering Prof. who stated that there was poetry and romance in Algebra. Gives up in disgust.

Informal chat by students during hymn. All except man in front pew, who starts singing desperately because Dean is staring at him. Sudden commotion in choir. Time out while two members in back row decide who took "odds" and who took "even."

In a rash moment of violent insanity dog enters chapel. Whistles by students. Some back-slider pinches dog's tail. Obligato of howls to the hymn. Hymn ends.

Scripture reading. Profs. stare around to decide who they're going to stick. Prayer by Dean. Aforesaid dog runs up aisle and looks trustingly up at Dean. Violent struggle by Profs. as to whether to act human and smile or to observe proprieties. Propriety conquers.

During prayer men wonder what "Mac" will have for lunch. It being second Tuesday after fourth Wednesday, they decide on beef stew.

After prayer, announcements. Dean bows out lords of creation. (No, not the Sophomores, the Profs.) Sort of safe conduct before the riot.

Dean bows students out. Students have been on toes since the prayer. All try to occupy an aisle accommodating two abreast. Result is a display of riot and massacre, making the panic in San Francisco earthquake and the Mansion House on Class Day look like a Prohibition South Sea Island with a smallpox epidemic for loneliness and quiet order.

(Fade Out.) Dean standing in the pulpit meditating on "The Vanity of Human Wishes."

Shakespeare a la Mode

Scene: Office of the Mayor of the City of Rome. On the floor an opal cuspidor with Caesar's arms on it, consisting of a man heaving a good-sized bull superimposed on an inkwell, with motto, "I toot my own horn."; Stenographer seated at typewriter chewing "Pride of Persia" gum very obviously, and arranging hair before a burnished silver mirror. Enter CAIUS JULIUS CAESAR in street toga. CAESAR walks over to clothes rack, puts on business toga of black alpaca and hangs his laurel crown on the rack.

CAESAR: Hail! Ariadne McGuinness. (Lays newspaper on desk.) Well, let's get to work. (Stenographer takes waxen tablets and stylus.) Take this down.

STENOG.: Go ahead. (Performs on chewing gum aforesaid.)

CAESAR: Caesar's Commentaries on Prunes.

STENOG.: Yes, sir.

CAESAR: All Mesopotamia is divided into three parts.

STENOG.: How do you spell Mesopotamia?

CAESAR (rubbing chin): Le's see. M-e-s—er—M-e-c— No. M-e-s-s— Oh, hell! make it Gaul . . . All Gaul is divided into three parts.

(Enter POLICE COMMISSIONER OF ROME.)

P. C.: Come on, Jule, let's go down and look at the ticker. The bears are making a raid on the market and Appian Way Paving Co., Preferred, won't be worth two dinerii.

(Exeunt P. C. and CAESAR.)

(Enter STENOG. No. 2.)

2ND STENOG.: Hello, Ariadne.

1ST STENOG.: Hello, Tillie. (2ND hands 1ST a ticket.)

2ND STENOG.: You going?

1ST STENOG. (reads): "V Annual ball of Local number XXIII., Amalgamated Charioteers' Union, at McGuire's Hall, St. of the Seven Silversmiths. Music by the Nubian Jazz Band." Who you goin' with?

2ND STENOG.: Oh, he's the grandest fellah. One of these athaletics. Champeen discus heaver.

1ST STENOG. (taking newspaper): I see where the Marcus Antonius' week-ended at their Grecian Villa in Pompeii.

2ND STENOG.: She's some oilcan. Way out o' date. Why she goes to the arena with her own husband.

(Enter citizen in a litter carried by four Ethiopian slaves. Litter is marked "City of Rome Street-Cleaning Dept. For Official Use Only." Citizen is very soused.)

CIT.: Where's the mayor? (Enter CAESAR.)

CAES.: Here I am. What do you want?

CIT.: I'm the chairman of the Roman Pro'bition Party. I want you to take a referendum on the question, "Can a fish lay bricks, and if so, why not?"

CAES.: You're a Prohibitionist?

CIT.: Yeah.

CAES.: I'll have to refer you to the Fire Department. They have charge of the water wagons. (Exit citizen.) Well, Ariadne, things are going against me.

STEN.: Think so?

CAES.: Yes; there's going to be a Democratic landslide soon and I'll have to step from under. (Reflects.) Ah, I have it. I'll call up my professional rebels, tell them to jazz things up and then I'll quell them. Just like I did in Spain.

STEN.: Then that telegram of "Veni, Vidi, Vici" was a stall?

CAES.: Sure, I only lapsed into epigram to give the collar-button manufacturers something to name their product for.

(Enter BRUTUS and his gang with beards on faces, patches in togas and holes in sandals.)

BRUT.: Hello, Jule!

CAES.: Hello, Brute; how are you? What's up now?

BRUT.: The Workman's and Soldier's Council of the All-Roman Soviet has just elected me President. I want a coupla demands.

CAES.: What are you, Workman or Soldier?

BRUT.: Say, I'll have you know I'm a gentleman; I neither fight nor work. First, the striking Gladiators demand twenty per cent of the gate receipts, mahogany sawdust in the arena instead of yellow pine; they also want jobs as policemen when they get retired.

CAES.: (dazed): Yeah?

BRUT.: They want no profiteering on their armor, either; papier mache helmets may look all right, but they don't wear well.

CAES.: With all these demands, I think I'll go away and fight the Gauls to get a little peace.

BRUT.: No, Jule; the plot of this show says I'm to crown you, so I guess the jig's up.

CAES.: Without even arranging my affairs?

BRUT.: Sure. (Turns to gang.) That would detract from the tragic force. Is it not so gentlemen? (Raising hand.) How many agree with me?

CHORUS (Very unanimous—all except BURKHARDT): You said it!

CAES.: Wait. Don't bump me off without an epigram. Get me my copy of "Epigrams for All Occasions." (Turns pages.) All right, here goes. (Strikes an attitude.) HERE'S TO CRIME. (BRUTUS draws beer—excuse us—Bevo bottle and crowns CAESAR, who falls under enlarged tintype of Pompey taken at Naples in midst of bathing beauties. Exit BRUTUS and his gang.)

STEN. (Calmly powdering her nose with "Cute Cleopatra" powder): More stuff for movie plots.

(Curtain.)

Morning Scene—
College Ave.

Our Contribution Box

Follows the only voluntary contribution we received during our entire editorial career. In spite of repeated ads conspicuously placed in Rutgers' leading weekly, The Targum, we had to beg, borrow or steal to get enough stuff to fill the modest space allotted to us.

But on or about April 31, just as we were in despair, with one more page to fill, someone sneaked into our room while we were out, deposited the MS. below upon our table, then quietly stole away. His identity has not yet been discovered, and, after reading his effusion, we don't blame him much for keeping it hidden. However, it was a life-saver to us, and we pounced upon it with "wim and wigor." Besides we've often wondered the same thing ourselves. Haven't you? The unabridged MS. follows:

DEAR ED.:

Here is a little smile, perhaps a laugh, in the form of a dyed-in-the-wool sonnet, having, as you may observe, its full quota of fourteen lines, a-b, a-b, c-d, c-d, etc.

The inspiration is the large quantity of space used in fiction by our three heroes, where they carry a heavy burden.

Of course our imagination assigns some action to fill in for the line of stars we find cutting the page, but what really happened there?

Sincerely,

"JAY."

The Mystic Symbols Three

There is a language I would learn to speak
Or just the hidden meaning I would know,
That tongue our airy poets vainly streak
On countless virgin pages, row on row.

A tongue, from rules of spelling strangely free,
Draws clearly hero's death, a jester's frisk—
These pictures raise, with letters only three:
The dash, the dot and then the asterisk.

What anguish hidden in that mystic leaf!
What joy, creations of an author's toil!
What tragedy, what happiness, what grief,
Like dead men in a dungeon, rot and spoil!

These ghostly dreams ne'er brave a "critique risk,"
Conceal-ed by dot, dash and asterisk.

"JAY."

AFTERWORD

We've mostly edited this book in two brief weeks of strain and stress, and now we'll take just one last look and send the gol-darned thing to press. Before it goes, there's one more word which must be said regarding those who, as you all have surely heard, wrote all our poetry and prose, and those who drew the pretty things which brighten up our pages so, and painted elephants with wings, and sweet co-eds from Borneo.

The first we'll mention's H. L. Mason—he was the one who got the ads—and you can bet he had to hasten to gather the elusive scads. And then, as editor of art our Johnny simply can't be beat: he worked along right from the start—they say he'd rather draw than eat. As scribe of all our meets and games success also attended Prat. He didn't like to furnish names, but yet he was darned good, at that.

Our blond-haired Ronny follows now, a man of literary graces. If I'd space I'd tell you how he led me many merry chases. Fraternities were handled well by Charlie Irwin Post: he had to work like Verihel to get results from most. Then next comes Jason Pettengill, a very busy youth, who gathered verse and stuff to fill some space devoid of truth.

The hardest worker of them all was A. Wilbur Duryee, collecting photos, large and small, and working every day. And Messerschmitt could use his bean and always get a laugh, so, all in all, as can be seen, I had a right good staff. But, now we've finished everything, we'll send it off to press, and then, you bet your good right wing, we'll take a good long rest.

EDITOR.

If you don't get that picture by July 1st it won't get in!

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.

Rutgers Preparatory School

NEW BRUNSWICK, NEW JERSEY

The school is under the management of Rutgers College—a guarantee of thorough college preparation.

It is the most moderate in its charges of all the high grade preparatory schools, because it can use much of the elegant equipment of Rutgers College without the cost of duplication.

Every boy receives personal individual attention.

The four dormitories are new, beautifully situated, safe from fire, and models of comfort.

The athletics are well-managed and coached, so that the teams have been successful in hard schedules.
