The SCARLET LETTER 1936

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY
NEW BRUNSWICK
NEW JERSEY

THE SCARLET LETTER 1936

To James Neilson, member of the class of 1866, a true Rutgers man who has served his university loyally by his inspiration, his active participation on the Board of Trustees, and by his generous gifts to both the men's and women's colleges, and who is celebrating the seventieth anniversary of his graduation, the "Scarlet Letter" of the Class of 1936 is affectionately and humbly dedicated.

DEDICATION TO

JAMES NEILSON

FOREWORD

ADDING ONE MORE PAGE TO THE CHRON-ICLE OF OUR UNIVERSITY'S HISTORY, WE,
THE MEMBERS OF THE 1936 "SCARLET LETTER" STAFF, OFFER OUR REVIEW OF THE YEAR JUST CLOSING, AND HOPE THAT ITS READERS WILL ENJOY IT AS MUCH AS WE, AND THAT IT WILL RECALL TO YOUR MIND SOME OF THE GLORIOUS
MEMORIES OF YOUR DAYS AT RUTGERS.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1936

PETER KORNICKI
SECRETARY-TREASURER

WE ARE, with the last tolling of Old Queens during our undergraduate days, entering on a new life. A life quite as strange as Rutgers was to us four years ago. And yet the background and experience taught us during the past four years has made us eager to be forward and conquering.

It was a meek and unknowing crowd that gathered on old Rutgers sod one September several years ago. We were, as a whole, at a loss to explain the whys and wherefores of a Rutgers education. We strangely wandered from class to class with blank expression of awe on our faces. True, a "peerade" up the avenue subdued us even to a greater extent but when we broke the fire hose with which the sophomores were about to douse us, we began to realize the integral part that we filled in the total organization. Then came our first "exams" with the dropping out of our less fortunate mates. It was this realization of the seriousness of an education that prodded our intellectual awakening and found for us our true Rutgers. From then on we began to see our goals, one by one, until today, there are few of us who have not outlined a tentative life work.

Sophomore year ushered in a period of extreme superiority and self-confidence. Were we not entirely acquainted with college life? Perhaps we were a bit presumptuous (it is the duty of a sophomore to be gay) but that pushing attitude was largely responsible for our places in the various activities later on as gallant juniors and blase seniors.

As juniors, we placed our energies in scholastic and extra-curricular activities to the best of our several and various abilities. We were untiring in keeping the prestige and traditions of old Rutgers renewed. It was this year that we worked hardest and reaped most.

Then we returned to find ourselves changed overnight into seniors. Not completely changed, but the impetus has been given to the change. Like strange insects, we were metamorphosing into broad beautiful moths. From the narrow scholar we were developing the awareness and curiosity that marks the educated man. Not educated because of the letters we were soon to carry with our names but educated because we could use our experience in interpreting and solving the problems of life.

And the experience gained by us to meet the future battles of life came from various and sundry fields, but no matter how diverse the fields of endeavor, men of '36 could be found excelling. Strictly academic success was achieved to the 'nth degree by such men as Hal Haskins, Aaron Kaycoff and Bill Van Allen.

Football, occupying its preeminent place in the intercollegiate world, was far from slighted by the men of '36, for who will not carry with him fond memories of the deeds of these men. The predominantly senior team which fought the famed Princeton juggernaut to a standstill and only lost out in the last heartbreaking ten minutes will be remembered with its "one-man wrecking crew", our own all-American, Walt Winika, aided by "Twinkletoes" Nilan, the booming punts of Dan Van Mater, the trolley-wire passes of Moe Grossman and the deceptive laterals of Eddie Blumberg.

With Blumberg, Grossman and Kozusko furthering the name of the class and the Scarlet on the basketball floor, Fritz Faulkner contributing an intercollegiate diving championship and Dan Van Mater an All-American berth in lacrosse, 1936 must rate high among the classes of Rutgers athletically.

But we had heroes in other fields with Dick Keating, class president, student council president, and leader of Cap and Skull, pacing the class in its non-athletic activities. In charge of campus publications we found Lucien Truxillo rejuvenating the "Anthologist", Floyd Bragg with his headaches over the "Targum" and Gil Smith fighting for an early "Scarlet Letter."

But now our college years are swiftly ending and we must leave the place we love! We must leave the fond old scenes of Queens, Holy Hill, and College Avenue. To our professors and the administration who have worked with us and have been inspirations to us we pay tribute. The hours they have spent with us have not been in vain. To our class mates and fellow students may we extend the wish that you too will fully appreciate the advantages placed before you.

We must leave, but we will return. Yet, return to a changing Rutgers that is ever the same. It is our Rutgers that we helped build and maintain. We were important in her life and she in ours. She took four years of our lives; we took four of hers. Let us never let her challenge to us die. Let us keep the Scarlet in the van!

GEORGE EDWIN ADAMES

Education
809 Asbury Ave., Ocean City, N. J.

George says college's one fault is its brevity, but he's staying in the educational field as a teacher. He combines originality with intellect and common-sense; what's more, he shows good taste in all he does. Witty, sophisticated and charming, he is a fine person to know and a wonderful friend. Ambitious, capable, and responsible, he'll forge ahead.

French Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Anthologist (4); Winants Club (1, 2); Quad Club (3).

MARTIN Z. AGRONS

Sigma Alpha Mu Journalism
10 South Vassar Square, Ventnor, N. J.

"Scoop" is our estimation of what a well-rounded gentleman should be. At home in almost any form of athletics, a good student, and, last but not least, a leading socialite. We predict for him, whether it be in the field of journalism, or clothing the fair sex with sables, we'll stand by Marty.

Tennis (1); Targum (1); Interfraternity Council (3).

JOHN ANDREW ALLGAIR

Engineering
19 Codrington Place, Somerville, N. J.

Because his ultimate aim was to become a West Pointer, Johnny worked hard while at Rutgers to set a scholastic record without neglecting the more important things, such as football, bridge, the movies, and dates. We will remember him as an all around fellow and for the accuracy of his "slip-stick" calculations.

Football (2, 3, 4); Tau Beta Pi (3, 4).

MURRAY APFELBAUM

Tau Delta Phi Education
Union City, N. J.

'Tis with the greatest regret that Rutgers says goodbye to its own inimitable "Babe." His was the everlovable and fun-going spirit which endeared him to the hearts of all Rutgers men. We bid him Godspeed on his journey in life and we know that Pedagogy is gaining an able teacher in receiving into its ranks the idealistic "Babe."

R

JOHN ALFRED AQUILA

Kappa Sigma Journalism
Green St., Iselin, N. Y.

Here's to "Ack," the roly-poly with more names than a class-cutter has excuses. Enough to say that during his four years (no more, no less) here, he has merited the liking and respect of all in contact with him. Heads up, Hearst, here comes "Butch." Just watch him!

Football (1); J. V. Football (2, 3); Lacrosse (1, 2, 3, 4); Track (1, 2); Junior Prom Committee (3).

SAMUEL ROBERT ARONSON

Tau Delta Phi Biology
190 South Broad St., Trenton, N. J.

"Soapy," the left wing of Aronson, Kaufman, Inc., commuted to Rutgers from Trenton for four years. Now he proceeds to Med. School (he and we hope), to learn the art of giving professional advice in the same good faith as he gave advice in his capacity of spiritual advisor of Tau Delta Phi.

Biology Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Band (1, 2).

GEORGE WILLIAM ASAY

Alpha Kappa Pi Engineering
Imlaystown, N. J.

He is an engineer, but that is secondary alongside his character. Compounded of a strong dash of humor in an otherwise serious nature, he possesses a wealth of intuition and a depth of understanding. A sincere student of life, what he does not know he seeks to know. Of such is the salt of the earth.

Track (1); A. I. E. E. (3, 4).

MARION GORDON BAKER

Education
53 Butternut St., Warsaw, N. Y.

He came to college two years after graduation from High School after giving up hope of ever getting a college education. Marion's ambition has always been Physical Education and coaching. Now that he is prepared, all he asks is a chance to realize that ambition. In other words, "a job" is all he needs.

150-lb. Football (2, 3); Boxing (3, 4); Baseball (4); Track (3); Kappa Phi Kappa (4).

R

PELHAM ST. GEORGE BISSELL, 3rd

Delta Psi Liberal Arts
270 Park Ave., New York, N. Y.

Pelham came to Rutgers in January, 1935, having transferred from Columbia which he had attended for three years. Majoring in History and Political Science, when he was classified as a Senior in September, he became a member of the History Club.

History Club (4).

THOMAS BLACK, III

Chi Psi Liberal Arts
5 Brooklyn Blvd., Sea Girt, N. J.

Tommy is a regular all-around good fellow. With his genial personality it isn't hard to become one of his many admirers. Tommy captained the championship 150 pound football team of which Rutgers is so proud this year and his prowess as an end is fully appreciated.

150-lb. Football (1, 2, 3, 4); Basketball (1); Manager of Boxing (3, 4); "Scarlet Letter" (3, 4); Interfraternity Council (3); Board of Managers (3, 4); Manager Lacrosse (1, 2).

EDWARD CASSEN BLUMBERG

Sigma Alpha Mu Education
40 Commercial Ave., New Brunswick, N. J.

"Biggy," no doubt, in years to come will be turning out state championship football and basketball teams. This lad has the stuff and the ability to get it across. Besides being an outstanding athlete, Ed shows his versatility by ranking as one of our outstanding social lions, and is as well a student of no mean ability.

Football (2, 3, 4); Basketball (1, 2, 3, 4); 150-lb. Football (1); German Club (1, 2, 3); Lacrosse (1).

GEORGE WILLIAM BORDEN

Phi Gamma Delta Agriculture
Mickleton, N. J.

Leading candidate for the strong, silent type, George has made himself well known and liked on the campus by his quiet and unobtrusive manner. A wrestler of no mean ability and a keen thinker, Big George's shoes will be hard to fill upon his graduation.

Football (1, 4); Wrestling (1, 2, 3, 4); Lacrosse (1).

R

FLOYD HERMAN BRAGG

Theta Chi Liberal Arts
113 Hillside Ave., Verona, N. J.

Ask him how All-Americans are chosen! Yes, Floyd is that Home News writer who delights in taking the athletes for a ride. During his sojourn on "the Banks" he has gained valuable experience as the over-worked Editor-in-Chief of "The Targum," and in his other activities, which should aid in his chosen field of business.

Student Council (4); Targum (1, 2, 3, 4); Editor-in-Chief (4); Pi Gamma (3, 4); Neutral Council (1, 2); Philosopher; "Scarlet Letter" (3); Targum Council (4).

HERBERT DRAYER BROWN

Delta Kappa Epsilon Liberal Arts
69 Adelaide Ave., Highland Park, N. J.

Herb's very appearance commands respect and his actions demand it. An upholder of dignity and conservative tradition, he is a gentleman of the old school. The old idea of "if you want something done go to the busy man" applies strongly to "Brownie." His is a rare type — steeped in honest ability and in-born tradition: a true Rutgers man.

Water Polo (1); Scabbard and Blade (3, 4); Senior Ball Committee (4); Crew (2, 3, 4); Rowing Club (4).

JULIAN GLASEL BRAUN

Sigma Alpha Mu Liberal Arts
700 West End Ave., New York, N. Y.

If anyone needs an honest lawyer in 1940 or thereafter, refer him to J.G. His ability to apply all of his faculties to a given task, in addition to his leadership, took him a long way during his four years spent "On the Banks."

Honor School (2, 3, 4); Tau Kappa Alpha (2, 3, 4); Debating (1, 2, 3, 4); Spanish Club (1, 2); International Relations Club (1, 2); Tennis Manager (1, 2); Interfraternity Council (4).

LOUIS BROWN

Liberal Arts
98 Union St., Carteret, N. J.

Lou alternated in spending his time at the Coop, movies, and swimming pool. In his spare time, he attended classes. But withal, Lou managed to pass his courses (of which he took plenty) and with something to spare. Jovial, friendly, and ever ready to lend a helping hand, he will no doubt attain his share of success.

Liberal Club (1, 2, 3, 4); German Club (1, 2); History Club (4); Football (1, 2, 3); Waterpolo (3, 4); Lacrosse (1).

R

LEON CHANDO

4 Johnson Place, South River

Education

"Shampoo the Magician" was no magician out on the football field. Straight, hard play won him his place in the hearts of Rutgers fans, and the same type of action will win him his place in the world.

Football (1, 2, 3, 4).

ANTHONY VINCENT CHASE

10 Reading St., Manville, N. J.

Biology

"Chasey," who has been quite versatile in intramural sports under the banner of the Scarlet Aces, divided his time between N. J. Hall and Manville. His congeniality has made him one of the most likeable fellows in the biolog division. His scholastic record is commendable, for he is a frequent visitor to the honor school.

Honor School (1, 2); Biology Club (3, 4).

ARTHUR JOHN CLEAR

41 Third St., Fords, N. J.

Chemistry

Art, another exponent of the test tube, is a doer of big things in a quiet way. He came to the banks, added knowledge to his store and at the same time acquired a reputation as a man of honesty and fair play. His record as a chemist has convinced us that he'll make good in his field of endeavour.

WALTER ROCKFORD COBB

Canton, New Jersey

Agriculture

"Cobby" is one of the outstanding representatives of South Jersey. His election into Kappa Phi Kappa, into Alpha Zeta and his election as president of Ag Club are evidences of his achievements here. If his interest in Agriculture remains as ardent as it has for a certain young lady we know he will be a success.

Alpha Zeta (2, 3, 4); Kappa Phi Kappa (2, 3, 4); Ag Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Band (1, 2); Poultry Judging Team (3).

JUNIORS

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1937

(HARRISON F. MURRAY, Jr., Historian)

WALLACE C. PRINGLE
PRESIDENT

ROBERT J. METZLER
VICE-PRESIDENT
AND

MAX BARD
SECRETARY-TREASURER

THE three years since we entered Rutgers' ivy-covered halls to prepare ourselves for the great battle of life and to fit ourselves to be men have passed more rapidly than we could have imagined on the 11th day of September, 1933. At that time we looked forward with a great deal of zest and hope to the time when we would be juniors. That time came, but the intervening time proved fatal to a number of the original members of the class of 1937. Nevertheless, the large nucleus of our number still plodded wearily onward, doing its utmost to make our class rank with the other outstanding classes of our University that have preceded us.

During a conversation with one of the professors, he raised the following question, "What has caused the great increase in the spirit and general attitude of your fellow classmates of '37?" I was unable to give any definite answer and could only reply saying that the majority of my classmates realized the fact that as we grow older and more mature the importance of our life's goal or aim becomes more and more vivid. In pursuing this goal our spirit and attitude has increased by our broadening out in all fields such as curricular, extra-curricular, and social activities.

As we pause for a while to give due and honored congratulations to those of our fold who have succeeded in gaining a high goal in their scholastic studies, we find Bob Metzler and Fred Junker in the list of new members of Tau Beta Pi. Among the members of Beta Iota Lambda we recognize some more of our classmates: Milton Brown, Ken Schaffer, Aaron Robinson, Steven Bednarz, Joe Geller, and Charles Dotto. Our class is represented in Alpha Zeta by Eyunid Wahlgreen, Jack Fenn, Charles Gingrich and Johnny Seeley. Seven members of the class of '37 were recently initiated into Kappa Phi Kappa, including Jefferds, Krasno, Wilchinsky, Lundwall, Bender, Brazaites, and Popiel.

The extra-curricular activities here on the campus draw a large part of their nucleus from our class. On the "Targum" we find Cornin, Kammerman, and Rice working for the news staff, Mitchell and West writing up the sports, and Etingoff, Rowland, and Tilley reading the copy. Another student publication, the "Anthologist", offers a source of activity for Grounds, Rockafellar, Carling, Cowling, and Gardner. Apprenticing for the "Scarlet Letter" editorship we find Jack Williamson and Charlie McClure. In other organizations such as Glee Club, Band, Queens Players, Rutgers Christian Association, and many others, we will find scores of enthusiasts from '37.

Whenever the word athletics is mentioned there seems to be a general tendency to think of football. For this reason, the gridiron will receive first mention. In this field of athletics we see the names of Jerome Jefferds, Wally Pringle, Cuno Bender, Tony Naporano, Albert Lundwall, Anthony Ferrara, George VanDerNoot, and Mike Bullard in any article written about the games in which Rutgers participated. With all but the last named left to play "first string" next year, Rutgers should have very little trouble in "getting to town" on the gridiron.

After the football season had passed but had not been forgotten, the winter sports came into the limelight. Many of our class members turned out in full force to show that they were capable of winning a varsity "R". On the court we found Bus Lepine, Roy Lins, and Jack Jerabeck. In the pool there was Ed Simpson, Doane McCarthy, and Perry Bascom. In other places throughout the gymnasium we would have found Jess Elson, "Buddy" Allen, and many others training conscientiously.

The spring sports, such as lacrosse, track, baseball, tennis, and the minor sports, are all filled with our classmates, and as the records show, those of '37 who participated in these sports made a remarkable showing.

The Scarlet Key, junior honorary non-athletic society, has done an excellent job in performing its usual tasks this year. A notable example of this was shown by the fact that the organization received a note from Marietta College thanking Rutgers for the pleasing way in which their team was met and taken care of here. The Ohio school indicated its intentions and wishes of organizing a group to emulate Scarlet Key and asked our society to give some advice as to how the move should be started. With a full list of energetic and active men this organization has pushed forward despite many obstructions. In the past, other junior societies have suddenly deceased but this one should endure owing to the fact that this year a new set of regulations has been formulated effecting membership.

Bringing Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra to the "Banks" for the Junior Prom was certainly one of the most outstanding features that brightened up the college social life for this year. Bob Metzler and his committee deserve a great deal of credit and praise for making our Prom such an exceptional social success.

With the realization that next year will be our last year here on the "Banks" we are forced to pause and try to figure out where these last three years have gone and what they have meant to us; likewise, if we look into the future we wonder just what our Senior year will hold in store for us.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1938

(PETER HAIRE, Historian)

GEORGE M. HALLOCK
PRESIDENT

CARLYLE EDGAR MILLER
VICE-PRESIDENT
AND

ANTHONY J. FAMA
SECRETARY-TREASURER

AS another year rolls by we find the Class of 1938 approaching the mid-way mark of its undergraduate career at Rutgers, somewhat depleted by the tragedies of exams and other evils that forced some of our number to leave school before Commencement is reached. We find many of the predictions of a year ago fulfilled; accomplishments which will be inscribed in the history and traditions of Rutgers.

Since the close of our freshmen year, one of our fellow-classmen, who had endeared himself to the hearts of all who knew him, and who stood above the crowd, in athletics, as a member of the championship freshmen Intercollegiate Swimming relay team, and in scholarship, ranking among the top of his class, passed away—we pause for a moment in silent tribute to Ed Pillar.

The history of our freshmen year has already been written, and it has been seen that the Class of 1938 distinguished itself as freshmen. Since that time the cubs have become sophomores, and for the first time many found themselves representing Rutgers in intercollegiate competition. It is from this point that we must continue the history of the Class of 1938.

Steve Stanowicz, Art Perry, Morris Plevinsky, Hilly Simpkins and John Wirth all received their major letter for their work on the gridiron during the past season, while there were several other sophomores on the squad who will in all probability see more action in the next two years. The 150-pound football team continued to maintain the clean slate which it now has been able to hold for four consecutive years, and among the letter winners who helped to maintain this record during the past year were our own Walt Campbell and Joe Barile.

As was the case last year, the class of 1938 won the annual Interclass Regatta on the Raritan late last October. In the final race of the Regatta, the sophomore boat in defeating the Juniors, created a new record of 3:55, breaking the old record this same crew established a year ago. The boating of the sophomore shell was: stroke, Joe Whitehorn; 7, Dick Hammel; 6, Bill Collinson; 5, Charlie Hansen; 4, Bob Fisher; 3, Irv Polhemus; 2, Bill Walmsley; bow, Fred Menzenhauer; cox, Tony Saverese.

The swimming team, looking forward to a successful season, made an extended trip through the South during the Christmas vacation. The team stopped at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where it had several exhibition swimming meets with other colleges in the South, East and Middle West. Of those ten men who made this successful trip, four were sophomores: Jimmy Reilly, Ken Deith, Al Timko and Stan Rose. Other outstanding sophomores on the varsity swimming team are Ken McWhinney and Willie Whitmore.

At the time this history is being written, spring sports are just beginning to get underway, but we feel sure that on a basis of last year's performance of freshmen teams, there will be a considerable number of sophomores on all spring teams.

However, participation in athletics is not the only branch of activity a Rutgers undergraduate may take part in. Equally important are such non-athletic activities as membership in the Glee Club and the Debating Team, together with positions on the staffs of the "Targum", "Scarlet Letter" and the "Anthologist". In every one of these activities the Class is prominently represented.

Late last year, the class elected George Hallock and Carlyle Miller to the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. Shortly after school opened in the fall, Miller appointed his committee for the Sophomore Hop, consisting of Bud Fitzgerald, Tony Fama, Dave Hauben, Howard Nehms, Walter Colpitts, Horace Cox, and Morris Plevinsky. This committee began to function immediately to give to Rutgers its greatest Soph Hop in recent years. As the result of the coordinated work of the committee, the Hop was successful and approximately five hundred couples danced to the music of Tommy Dorsey's Orchestra which featured the voice of popular Edythe Wright.

The present sophomore class has shown throughout the past two years a loyal spirit and a unity which can be best exemplified by the large number of class hats always seen about the campus.

With this brief history of the first half of our college career, we take leave and hope that we return in September to enter our Junior year as strong in numbers and spirit.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1939

(RUSSELL B. FRIZZEL, Historian)

I N September, 1935, we left our various homes and flocked to Rutgers to begin a four year sojourn "On the Banks." Our first few days were spent in complete bewilderment, but, free from the discipline of the lordly sophomores, we took our ease. Upon the return of the second year men from summer vacation, however, they made their presence felt by enforcement of the rules set forth in the Freshmen Handbook. Rivalry between '39 and '38, on the whole, was confined to wordy conflicts between the members of those two classes residing in the quad. On the day of the traditional Freshman Parade, not a soph appeared to oppose our march, and with good reason too, for they were scattered over the campus while we freshmen were united and strong.

We enjoyed the privilege of being the first class entering Rutgers to receive a series of orientation lectures given by the Psychology Department to teach freshmen efficient study methods in order to reduce the mortality rate at mid-years.

By the first game of the football season we had learned all of the Rutgers songs and cheers with the aid of the class of '38. On that warm autumn Saturday afternoon we joined the procession up College Avenue to Nielson Field and even though we were disappointed that the first game which we witnessed as Rutgers undergraduates ended in defeat, we realized that victory was not a prerequisite to the creation of that loyal spirit which the student body at Rutgers proudly possesses.

The class of '39 showed its true spirit by turning out in large numbers for every campus activity. Football, cross country, basketball, crew, and swimming received our hearty support. We are proud of those men of '39 who earned their numerals in sport; we are also proud of those men who did not win the award but who nevertheless bolstered the morale of those on the teams.

But athletics is not the only one of the varied activities of undergraduate life at Rutgers to receive our participation. We sought and secured positions on the "Targum", in the Glee Club, and in Scarlet Rifles.

The only social event of the year at which our class was present as a body was the Freshman Reception at which President and Mrs. Clothier entertained the yearling classes of Rutgers and its sister college crosstown. After this initial introduction to the fairer sex we soon discovered the usefulness of those telephone numbers listed so carefully in the rear of our Handbooks. The advent of the long dreaded midyears brought with it the usual worry and woe. The majority of our class managed to survive and only a few of our number were dropped by the wayside.

The class of '39 throughout its performance in the school year has started to build an enviable record. It has been said that the first two years of college are spent in steeping oneself in the sacred brew of tradition and activity and that the last two years are spent in trying to dry oneself out. Be that as it may, the freshmen have made great progress so far toward the ultimate goal of graduation. May we continue in the same manner so that in the years to come we may with just and worthy pride affix to our names the label:

Rutgers '39.

NILAN OFF FOR A GAIN

RUTGERS

WHILE muddy waters flowed sluggishly down the Raritan Valley and through the cut past Neilson Field, hopes for a successful 1935 football campaign were even more passive as Coach J. Wilder Tasker drove a poor-looking squad relentlessly under a sweltering September sun.

Confronted by a suicide schedule which included games with Princeton, Columbia, and Colgate, ranking eastern grid czars, there was ample reason for a plethora of pessimism, unrivalled by neat tide on the river. Not only the coaches, but the experts, morris-chair quarterbacks, undergrads, et al, unanimously agreed that the departure of fourteen varsity men via graduation, coupled with the loss of four other stars, counted on as integral cogs in the new machine for the coming season, was too much.

There was Mike Bullard's operation which kept him out of the first two games, Bob Metzler's decision to give up the game to favor a weak shoulder, Babe Wallack's ambition to prepare for the bar by transferring to Boston University's law school, and Harry Lang's retirement with broken hands. And add to that the loss of two of the best freshmen prospects: Harry Brindle, bulldog back, transferring to Louisiana State University, and Wright Hare, slated to fill the center hole, not returning to school.

SO when the Scarlet launched its season two weeks later against West Chester Teachers' College, what had been considered a "breather" replacing the usually tough Penn Military College opener, turned into an even-money wager. The Teachers had beaten strong Franklin & Marshall and Ursinus teams in practice games and were on the right psychological and physical edge for the encounter.

Captain McGuinness sounded the cocky sentiment of his teammates before the game, saying, "The bigger this Rutgers team is, the better we are going to like it. We stopped F. & M. this year and everybody but all-America Bill Shepherd of Western Maryland last season. So bring on the Scarlet."

In a daring exhibition of lateral passing, the underrated visitors made good all boasts by upsetting Tasker's proteges, 19 to 7, before 7,000 spectators. Outplayed and outsmarted at every turn, the green Rutgers team never had a chance as the heavy Pennsylvanians played rugby at every opportunity and had the crowds roaring.

In the third period Remcho, West Chester, took Pringle's punt on his own 20-yard line, and while being tackled passed laterally to Nye who ran fifty-five yards to Rutgers' 25-yard line, where he passed back to Remcho who went on five more yards. A forward pass scored a touchdown. Rutgers' fourth-quarter score came after a barrage of passes that culminated with Cuno Bender carrying it over from the 5-yard line.

It was a much-improved Rutgers team that prepared for its second game of the year. The return of Walter Winika, who was destined to go on to All-America fame, and a week of severe drilling in blocking and tackling fundamentals, so noticeably weak in the opening game, augured no good for little Marietta College from the banks of the Ohio River.

So on a bright October Saturday Rutgers played her first inter-sectional rival since 1923 and before a home crowd of 5,000 registered a 26 to 9 victory over the plucky Westerners who were unable to fathom the well-conceived aerial attack of the Scarlet. Twice the winners filled the air with enough passes to carry them to touchdowns.

At the beginning of the third period Rutgers marched 85 yards for a score and again in the last quarter a sustained advance of some 80 yards resulted in a fourth touchdown.

The victory exerted a strong emotional reaction on the followers of the team and the multitudinous terms of opprobrium levelled at Coach Tasker by his severest critics subsided somewhat. News that Mike Bullard, one of Rutgers' greatest tackles of all time, was in uniform working out with the team bolstered spirits for the coming Columbia game.

GROSSMAN

ALL roads led to New York City the following Saturday and loyal New Brunswick collegians swarmed like bees up to the Morningside Heights football den, Baker Field, where canny Coach Lou Little held his pack of much-ballyhooed Lions in wait.

So after a hiatus of 33 years Columbia and Rutgers met on the football field for the renewal of an archaic series begun in the year 1870.

Rutgers received the kickoff and the Scarlet attack went off like a skyrocket. On the first play Moe Grossman rifled a pass to Bender who caught it in Columbia and galloped 10 yards before he was brought down. Grossman sailed around end for a first down. Twice in the wild and woolly first quarter Rutgers advanced deep into Columbia territory, once down to the 15-yard line. But no score.

Columbia struck swiftly thrice. On Little's pet teaser—the old K. F. 79 Rose Bowl scoring play—

Al Barabas sneaked around his left end, tossed a lateral to Foster, who went about 25 yards for a touchdown. And twice more the jungle cats took advantage of a temporarily disorganized Rutgers team for touchdowns.

Tasker's team was not to be denied. Late in the third period it hauled up in front of Columbia's goal post and Tony Naporano dashed ten yards around right end behind a wall of perfect interference for a touchdown.

AS bitter a dose as the Columbia loss was, Scarlet followers experienced an even more poignant thrust when the two principals of the birth of modern American intercollegiate football, Rutgers and Princeton, resumed a hoary series which had its inception in 1869—four years after Civil War strife—in back of the gymnasium on College Field.

For three quarters of the game at Palmer Stadium a Rutgers team fought the most glorious fight in the football history of Old Queens and threatened to make monkeys out of the newspaper experts who prophesied the undefeated Tigers to trample terribly on twice-defeated little Rutgers.

In the first period Crisler's outfit got two points on a blocked punt, but for the rest of the half Rutgers held the upper hand in their territory, and in the third quarter Grossman passed to Bender who caught the ball in the end zone. The jubilancy of the hysterical fans was short lived as the enraged cats threw in replacement after replacement, outmanning their opponents and rolling over the exhausted Queensmen four times in the last quarter.

Not since the days of Paul Robeson had Rutgers seen the end play exhibited by Walter Winika, who had played such a wonderful game against Columbia the week previous. Later in the year Coach Crisler said, "Winika is one of the strongest defensive ends we have faced this year. We had two men playing him all afternoon."

FERRARA

IF the Princeton and Columbia defeats did nothing more they did crystallize the potential power of the team. So when Tasker's pupils made their first defense of the Middle Three crown against Lehigh before a Home-coming crowd that jammed Neilson Field to capacity, the Scarlet was ready to pitch a three-ring circus for the first time.

And the truth is that the aroused Scarlet did all of that and some more. Four times the enthusiastic following that had journeyed down from Bethlehem winced as a Rutgers back zipped over the last white lime mark. Tony Naporano, who had electrified a Franklin Field crowd by running 54 yards against Penn the year before, dashed 55 yards down the sidelines for his first score and five for another. Jerry Jefferds, junior fullback, crashed over guard, feinted and eluded the secondary defense to go on a 72-yard jaunt for a touchdown.

Walt Winika continued his sensational bid for national honors. He scored the first touchdown on a short flat pass, snared passes, blocked punts, rushed passers and knocked down punt-receivers the minute they caught the ball. Al Lundwall, who shot to stardom in the Princeton game, continued his outstanding game at center.

WITH this victory Rutgers was ready for much-beaten Lafayette which had taken 54 to 0 and 67 to 0 thrashings from Colgate and Penn respectively on the following Saturday down at Easton.

As expected, Rutgers had little difficulty in rolling over Coach Herb McCracken's weakest elevens since he took over the tutorial reins at the Easton, Pa., institution. The sub-par Leopards had the debilitated record of scoring only one touchdown in six games while 163 points had accrued against them. Practically obscure Moravian and little-heard-of Albright had numbered Lafayette as a victim.

Coach Tasker made use of the game as an experiment laboratory starting his second-stringers. For the second straight week Tony Naporano stood out among the Scarlet ball carriers. The stocky, black-haired youth found the soft gridiron to his liking and sped to four touchdowns—one such a remarkable game that one of the Boston newspapers printed the headline: "Winika 12, Boston U 6."

The losers played their Jersey opponents to a 6 to 6 tie for the major part of the game until a last quarter drive by the Scarlet. Several bad breaks proved the undoing of Boston.

THE N. Y. U. game came and the bottom fell out of the "big build-up" which Rutgers football had been undergoing for the past three years of the Taster-Little dynasty.

The New York eleven was more than good. In fact, it was one of the ranking teams along the Atlantic Seaboard with Princeton. But in view of the fine battle that Rutgers had put up against Princeton earlier in the year, nobody expected the Violets to massacre her old rival in the manner so executed. Yes, a close battle was predicted by the New York sports pages.

Before the game was many minutes old, ghosts of the despot Chick Meehan's dynasty were parading before the eyes of old Rutgers grads who remembered vividly '27 and '28. Mal Stevens' aerial-minded actors passed their way to glory and when the shadows deepened over Ohio Field and made black the bluffs along the murky Harlem River, the score was 48 to 0. A Tasker team had suffered its worst defeat in his five year stretch as head mentor.

ceived leg injuries, and retired from the game at the conclusion of the first half. Mike Bullard played with his unbeatable spirit but that wasn't enough for a team seriously considered as a Rose Bowl candidate.

So there was little left in the hearts of Rutgers men in moleskins or in the souls of the Scarlet followers during the bleak tail-end week of November leading up to the season's finale with Colgate.

A DRIVING northwest snowstorm came out of the leaden skies to cloak the season with a white farewell and freeze the fingers of the players who went about their histrionics like twenty-two ghosts playing hide-and-go-seek in a grave yard.

Kerr's famed ball handlers were forced to abandon their hocus-pocus, razzle-dazzle by the elements, but they proved equally efficient with power plays on the slushy field.

Colgate's first score came when Van Mater's kick was blocked and Charley Wasicek fell on it over the goal line. Then with fullback Don Irwin leading a ground attack with his bull-like rushes the Red Raiders made sustained drives culminated when the Bull himself plunged five or ten yards for touchdowns.

The snow got heavier and wetter, making it difficult for the writers in the press box to type their stories so frozen were keys and fingers. The stands were deserted. The muddy field was black but a light burned in the press box through the dark as telegraph operators sent chronicles of the last chapter of Rutgers 1935 football season to metropolitan newspapers.

ZIPPING into its season in high gear, racing away from its first two opponents, bouncing off of a mid-season bump in the form of a surprise tie, stepping ahead of its fourth rival, and finally nosing out a truculent foe on the home stretch by merit of a dusky hero's legs—that's the story of Coach Harry J. Rockafeller's 1935 machine.

In the process of keeping its four-year record unmarred by defeat and maintaining an uncrossed goal line for the season, Rutgers won its third Eastern Intercollegiate Lightweight League championship by defeating Princeton on Thanksgiving Day and subsequently annexed a second leg on the George Foster Sanford trophy.

Rocky settled down to business with his protegees six weeks before their five-game schedule opened, with Pomp Chandler and Herb Richman leading the strongest backfield in the 150's history, and Tom Black, Ed Garrick, and Andy Jarema forming the nucleus for the line. Combining the Warner and Rockne systems, Rocky invented and applied a new style of play which accounted no little for the team's success.

Villanova's non-league outfit came to Neilson Field first. A pro-Rutgers crowd of 1500 watched and cheered as the Scarlet eleven romped to six touchdowns and a 43 to 0 victory.

A week later, on Armistice Day, the defense of the E. I. L. L. title began in Yale Bowl. Pre-game threatenings from Yale's Bulldogs were mostly bark and not much bite, for speedy Pomp Chandler heaved two scoring passes, dashed to one touchdown, and converted three times, to account for a 21 to 0 win for Rutgers.

Then came the Penn game on Neilson Field, to end just as it had started, 0 to 0. The Penn lightweight squad was out for Rutgers' collective scalp, however, and forgot it had lost to Lafayette and Princeton. The stubborn Quakers squelched Rutgers' four deep drives, to end a 14-game Scarlet winning streak and to give the Queensmen their first tie in three years.

Lafayette was destined to catch Rocky's gridsters on the rebound. The Marquis battled nobly but took a 20 to 0 licking on Neilson Field. Chandler broke away twice for six-pointers, tossed to Richman for the third, and converted twice, all in the second period.

A week later, Princeton's 150-pounders—undefeated, untied, and unscored-upon—came to Neilson Field on Turkey Day to have it out with Rutgers for the title. The two league leaders battled on even terms for 53 minutes of the 60 in the game. It looked as if the Nassaucmen would take the title, because of Rutgers' one tie.

It was fourth down when Chandler stepped back to punt on his own 13-yard line and then fumbled the ball. Scooping up the pigskin, the dusky flash dodged a bewildered right end, cut loose from the linemen, reversed, and made for the goal as fast as he could run. His placement made it 7 to 0, and the Tigers' last six minutes of aerial gestures failed to alter the count or to wrest the crown from the head of the Scarlet champions.

Coach
FRANK HILL

Manager
WILLIAM H. HESS, '36

POTENTIALLY the greatest basketball team Frank Hill ever coached, the 1935-36 Rutgers quintet failed to "click" over any considerable length of time and as a result was the biggest disappointment of the winter sports campaign, winning only eight games in fifteen starts.

Prospects for a banner season were unusually bright when Coach Hill marshalled his candidates on the court for the first time back in November. Only Lou Grower was missing from the high-gearred outfit which swept through 13 out of 16 games the preceding season, and nearly everybody—coach, sports writers, fans—figured this year's team would better even that record.

At times the team justified such pre-season optimism by playing like champions, notably right after the Christmas vacation when it knocked off Delaware, Gettysburg, and Fordham in convincing fashion. A record total of 69 points was rolled up in defeating the Mud Hens, while the Bullets, long champions of the fast Central Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference, didn't have a chance as the Scarlet steamrolled its way to victory. The season's peak, however, was reached in the Fordham game, when the Hillmen popped in baskets from all angles and distances to build up an early lead, and then withstood a spirited last-minute challenge by the New Yorkers to snap a long Ram winning streak 50 to 49.

At other times the team was far from impressive, dropping contests to Princeton, N. Y. U., Syracuse, Penn State, Lafayette, Lehigh, and Springfield. Three of the defeats—those at the hands of Syracuse, Penn State, and Lafayette—were close overtime battles which were decided by the narrow margin of one field goal or less.

Bus Lepine, slim, blonde forward, carried off high-scoring honors for the second successive year with a total of 144 points made on 60 field goals and 24 fouls. Roy Lins, burly junior guard, finished in runner-up position with 51 field goals and 37 fouls for a total of 139 points. In his first year as a regular, Lins was the outstanding man on the squad. In addition to being the second highest scorer, he was the best defensive man on the team and a tower of strength under the basket where he was especially adept at recovering the ball off the back board.

Bill Kozusko, 6-foot-6-inch center, and Jack Jerabeck, cat-like left hander, divided the pivot duties throughout the season. Kozusko's height was an advantage in controlling the tap, but Jerabeck was faster, had an accurate eye for the basket, and his one handed shots were a constant threat to the opposition.

Moe Grossman, at guard, and Eddie Blumberg, at forward, rounded out the first team. Both were good floor men and dangerous "set-shots" and had the assignment of "setting up" the Scarlet's plays. Carl Miller, ace of last year's freshman team, Frankie Strapp, Beanie Pennington, Chet Westcott, Ken Bradford, Fritz Tentschert, and Walt Campbell were reserves.

The Scarlet compiled 622 points during the season, an average of 41.4 points per game, to maintain the point-a-minute record hung up by the 1934-35 quintet. The opponents scored 538 markers for an average of approximately 36 points per contest.

COACH JIM REILLY'S Scarlet swimming team made good its final attempt to snare the Eastern Intercollegiate League title by overwhelming all loop opposition by lop-sided scores. Yale's invincible tank outfit, which handed Rutgers its only defeat, was dropped from the eastern circuit for failing to support a water polo team, after it had dominated the league in the seven years of its existence.

The strongest and best balanced Scarlet team since the heyday of George Kojac skyrocketed the natatorial prestige of Rutgers back to its former lofty position—second only to Yale. Bolstered by a flock of fine sophomores from an undefeated freshman team Rutgers plunged into the season in a convincing way, sounding the tocsin throughout the east.

City College of New York bowed in the Rutgers pool, 58 to 13, as Scarlet swimmers registered firsts in every event. Stan Rose, Far Rockaway rocket, who was high scorer for the season, baptized his varsity career with a brace of sprint wins.

Fordham's Rams came next and gave Reilly's proteges little trouble. The score was 49 to 22. Captain Bill Geisen accounted for the only Fordham firsts by upsetting Rose in the 50-yard dash and Captain Eddie Simpson in the backstroke. Jimmy Reilly won the 220 and 440-yard swims, while Al Timko, new soph star, appeared taking the first of his five straight stroke victories.

The weakest Navy team in years gave in by 53 to 18 at Annapolis, dropping all first places. Fritz Faulkner, intercollegiate diving champion of 1934, came back after a year of inactivity to beat Ken Deith, soph ace, for high total.

Penn put up a stubborn battle but lost out, 40 to 31, as young Reilly again scored twice in the distance pulls. Timko, Simpson, and Deith also registered first places. And four days later the Scarlet soused Lehigh, taking every first on the program. Reilly and Doane McCarthy topped the 220 and 440-yard races.

Princeton had good intentions and high hopes, but collected its first defeat as Rutgers scored, 47 to 24, to turn what had been predicted a close meet into a walkaway. Captain Howard Willey beat Simpson in the dorsal event for the only Tiger first place. Reilly beat Walter Spence's old pool record, in the 220, while Rose swam the 50-yard sprint in 24 seconds flat for his best time of the year.

So Rutgers came up to the Yale meet undefeated with much enthusiasm about snapping the miraculous 148 straight winning streak of the New Haven teams. And 2000 fans jammed every available inch to witness the meet. It was the largest swimming audience in Rutgers' history.

Hopes were soon dashed to the bottom of the pool, however, as the powerful Blue team, led by Captain Norris Hoyt, John Macionis, and Dick Cooke, smashed through every event for a 48 to 23 win. Even Wilcox beat Rose in the 50-yard feature. Timko suffered his first defeat in the breast stroke by Macionis, while Cooke set a new pool record of 2:13.4 in the 220-yard race, Macionis taking second, and Reilly of Rutgers third.

Rutgers closed its dual meet season with a fourth league win and consequently gained its first I. S. A. title. Rose was a double victor in the sprints, but Willie Roveto, Columbia's fancy diving star, rolled up 107.45 points to lick Deith in his specialty.

THE lack of suitable forward line replacements coupled with the pre-season skull injury of Captain Lou Eppel are possibly the prime reasons for Rutgers' Water Polo team placing third in the intercollegiate league this year. The loss of Lou Meyer, All-American forward, by graduation, was partially off-set by the matriculation of the frosh stars, Jimmy Reilly and Jake Vermeulen, into the varsity ranks, where, along with Lou Eppel they formed a fast and heavy scoring combination. Lenny Troast and Bob MacPherson, defense men, and Perry Bascom, goalie, comprised the almost impregnable backfield which held the opponents at an average of nineteen points per game.

RUTGERS' wrestling team enjoyed a successful season despite the fact that victories and defeats were split even at three apiece. The Scarlet licked teams from schools more her own size—Johns Hopkins, Gettysburg, and Haverford—and lost to three of the strongest squads in the East—Princeton, Penn, and Columbia.

Princeton overwhelmed Coach Cann's charges, 27 to 0, in the opener and George Borden, Rutgers' great unlimited grappler, suffered the first setback of his intercollegiate career in dual meet competition. Johns Hopkins was trounced at home before Rutgers almost sprang an upset over Columbia.

UNABLE to recover from the loss of intercollegiate champion Allan "Red" Volk, who failed to return to school in the fall, and Jess Elson, veteran heavy-weight, whose right hand was fractured in the second meet of the season, keeping him out of further competition, Rutgers' boxing team did well to break even with two wins, two losses, and one draw.

Coach Bud Gorman's favored proteges opened unimpressively with a 4 to 4 tie with M. I. VARSITY LACROSSE

AN erratic Rutgers lacrosse team opened its 1935 schedule auspiciously enough by winning four games in a row, only to fall into a losing streak which reached three game proportions before winding up its campaign with two straight triumphs for a record of six victories and three setbacks.

Coach Fred Fitch's charges were handicapped by the number of inexperienced men in the first string lineup. The weakness was especially glaring at the goalie position where Andy Jarema and Butch Aquila divided the duties. As the season progressed, however, the team improved noticeably and several of the stickmen who were playing their first season of varsity ball developed into capable performers.

The team was strongest on the defense where Bob Collett, Al Twitchell and Danny VanMater handled the assignments. There were several attack men who showed up well, however, and chief among them was Captain Sam Temple, who earned a position on the All-American lacrosse ten for the second straight year. Frank Palcanis, lanky junior, was another attack man who packed a scoring punch, while Duke Maddox, the unorthodox left-hander, and Carl Schwenker caused the opposition plenty of trouble.

The Scarlet ten opened its season with a narrow one-point victory over the Alumni, 6 to 5, when Maddox, Palcanis, and Temple built up an early 6 to 2 lead, and then Collet, Twitchell and VanMater fought off a last period drive by the losers.

After the Easter vacation, during which Rutgers won three straight practice games from Yale, the Scarlet traveled to New York City to defeat C. C. N. Y., 10 to 6. The Fitchmen proved themselves capable mud horses in this battle, scoring freely on a field that was a quagmire following a long rain. Frank Palcanis and Dick Chartrand were the big guns for the winners.

Twenty-six players were used as Rutgers romped up and down the field, scoring almost at will, to defeat Swarthmore, 10 to 4, for victory number three. Temple and Schwenker managed to tally three points apiece for the winners during the short time the first stringers were in action.

A rally in the last half gave Rutgers its fourth victory of the season, this one over Springfield, 11 to 8. The New England Ten pulled away to an early two-goal edge, only to succumb to a concerted drive by the Scarlet in the third and fourth periods.

The big home game of the season found the Fitchmen facing Johns Hopkins, the National Intercollegiate Champions, before a Prep School week-end crowd of 2500. Cliff Gilbert, the Blue Jay goalie, played a superb game, making several sensational saves to completely throttle the Scarlet attack, with the result the southerners walked off with a 7 to 0 decision. In spite of the one-sidedness of the score, several Rutgers' players stood out. The three ace defense men gave great exhibitions, limiting the high geared Hopkins' attack to seven goals, five of which came when Rutgers had one or more in the penalty coop.

Rutgers hadn't recovered from this setback by the time the next game rolled around, with the result Army had little difficulty walking off the field with a 9 to 3 win tucked in their crease.

Princeton's fast moving outfit added further woes to Coach Fitch's brow when they slammed home two tallies in the final frame to break a 2-2 deadlock and capture the decision. Throughout three quarters of the game Rutgers kept the ball most of the time in Princeton territory, but all of the Scarlet's shots either whizzed harmlessly by the goalie or bounced off an intervening player.

The Stevens game provided the opportunity for the Fitchmen to get back in winning stride with a 7 to 5 triumph, after which they closed out their campaign with a 13 to 4 smothering of Penn.

VARSIITY BASEBALL

BY winning its last two games of the season, Rutgers' 1935 baseball team just managed to finish on the right side of the ledger with a record of seven victories, six defeats and one tie. It was the best record compiled by a Scarlet nine in four years.

When the batsmen first reported for practice only one experienced pitcher, Roy Lins, was included among the candidates. Chances for a successful season were black, but Coach Tasker went through the rest of his squad with a fine tooth comb and came up with a catcher and a first baseman whom he said looked like they might make pretty good pitchers. The catcher was Bus Lepine and the first baseman, Cuno "Lefty" Bender, both of whom developed into capable hurlers to back up Lins.

Lepine turned out to be the most outstanding and versatile man on the squad. A heavy hitter with lots of baseball sense, he made good at every position he played. Starting the campaign as a catcher, he switched to the pitcher's box when Coach Tasker sent out his S. O. S., and later was drafted as an outfielder when the necessity arose.

His debut on the pitcher's mound was as dramatic as they come. Before the game with Lehigh, Coach Tasker told the sports writers he was going to try Lepine on the hill, although he had never pitched before in high school or college. "Mark my words," said Tasker, "he's a smart, heady player who learns quickly. He'll make good."

So Lepine pulled on his glove, went to work, and calmly mowed down the Lehigh batters with regularity. For nearly seven innings, one Engineer after another went back to the bench after a futile attempt to get a hit off the blonde Rutgers sophomore. Finally Whitey Ock, visitor's catcher, caught one of his deliveries on the nose and sent it deep into right field for a home run. But that was all, Lehigh failed to get another hit, eleven men went down on strikes, and Rutgers won the ball game, 7-1.

To offset a lack of pitching strength, and occasional wobbly fielding, Tasker's nine included a group of heavy hitters. Bender carried off top batting honors, finishing the season with a flat .500 average. Four other regulars finished above the .300 mark. They were Lepine, Arnie Truex, Lou Hemerda, and Lenny Frank.

Tasker had a lot of trouble with his infield before he found a workable combination. His 1934 keystone pair was completely wiped out by the graduation of Dave Burke and the ineligibility of Moe Grossman, but he soon formed another pair with Frank Strapp and Ric Palumbo. Strapp proved to be a fast dependable fielder but with a weak arm which gave him considerable trouble when making throws from deep short. Tom Rooney held down the hot corner for the second straight year, while Lou Hemerda, the team's leading home run hitter and clean up man, finally won the first base post.

Lenny Frank, Arnie Truex, and Al Chizmadia roamed the outfield most of the year, although Lepine broke into the trio near the end of the season when Chizmadia was benched for light hitting. Beanie Pennington, a smart receiver and good backstop, was first string catcher.

RUTGERS enjoyed its third straight year of prosperity on the track during the spring of 1935. Particularly succulent reminders of the successful season were decisive victories over two archaic rivals—Lehigh and Lafayette—and although the Scarlet trackmen came in third in a triangular meet with N. Y. U. and Columbia, they bowed out with a smashing triumph in the Middle Atlantic States track championships.

Coach Bernie Wefers had fine material at the start. Besides a nucleus, par excellent, of Bill Sperling, Wil Winika, and Dannie Smith, a bevy of fine sophomores reported including Buddy Allen, college record-holder for the 100-yard dash, Phe Smith, two-miler, Babe Wallack, football playing discus-heaver, and a junior find, Johnny Chandler, broad-jumping for his first year.

In the Lafayette meet, despite double victories scored by his brother Danny in the half mile and mile events, Phe Smith turned in the best performance of the day. Flashing fine form, he captured the two mile run in 10 minutes flat, only 1.5 seconds over the college record. High scoring honors went to Bill Sperling. The Scarlet timber topper won both hurdle events and placed second in the broad jump, amassing 13 points.

The usual point winners for the Scarlet carried the Wefermen to an easy victory over Lehigh by a score of 72 to 54. Winika and Danny Smith gained doubled victories, while Phe Smith, Allen, Babe Wallack, and Ken Doty posted single wins.

In a triangular track meet in New York City, the Scarlet received its only setback of the season at the hands of N. Y. U. and Columbia. Final standing: N. Y. U., 72½ points; Columbia, 67½ points; and Rutgers, 25 points.

The Scarlet could only garner three first places. The most spectacular came when Buddy Allen, running one of his fastest races, conquered Sam Maniaci, Columbia ace, and Johnny Kunitzky and Manny Krosney of the Violets. Allen's time was 9.9 seconds. Wilho Winika and Babe Wallack were other winners for the Scarlet, while Danny Smith ran well to place second in the mile, trailing Paterson of Columbia.

Seventeen colleges were represented in the climatic cinder carnival, the Middle Atlantic States championships, and Rutgers carried off top honors for the third successive year.

Rutgers won eight first places in fourteen events and scored 54 points to lead Lehigh, nearest competitor, by 22 points. Outstanding were Allen and Dannie Smith with double victories. The former won the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat and the 220-yard sprint in :21.6, while the latter scored in the half-mile and mile.

Repeating his triumph of the two previous years, Sperling won the 120-yard high hurdle crown; Chandler, with fine leap of 21 feet 9½ inches, took the broad jump; Winika retained his javelin throw; while Babe Wallack captured the discus heave.

CREW in its second year on the Raritan, coached by Ned Ten Eyck, enjoyed a successful season of three winning races, topping off the campaign by copping the Mid-America title at Marietta, Ohio.

Rutgers won the Marietta Regatta over varsity crews from Wisconsin, Manhattan, Rollins, Marietta, and the Penn third varsity. As a result of this triumph, Coach Ten Eyck's men were crowned Mid-America champs and became proud possessors of the Honorable Charles G. Dawes and Harry "Dad" Vail trophies.

The sweepswingers opened their season by stroking to victory over Yale's third varsity by almost two lengths. Rowing on the choppy waters of the Housatonic, the Scarlet held the lead all the way. Rowing on the Raritan Rutgers had no trouble in beating Princeton's third varsity, holding an advantage of four lengths at the finish.

Rowing in dilapidated shells, the Rutgers varsity of the 1935 season achieved an estimable record. All of the eights facing the Scarlet sweepswingers were better equipped than the Rutgers rowers, but none could match their fight.

Plans are being made for the acquisition of a new shell next year and this should add three lengths to the speed of the varsity eight. Retention of the Mid-America title at Marietta will result in the invitation to the annual Poughkeepsie Regatta on the Hudson and it is with this in mind that the crew has been practicing diligently in the gym all winter.

Eight new rowing machines have been installed in the upper gymnasium, and the varsity aspirants have been assiduously practicing on these this winter under the leadership of Coach Ned TenEyck, Captain Herb Brown, and "Commodore" Dick McCabe.

VARSIITY CROSS COUNTRY

COACH WEFER'S cross country team went undefeated over the autumn trails, winning three meets and beating four opponents. The harriers killed two birds with one stone by victimizing Lehigh and Lafayette in a triangular meet for the Middle Three crown.

Phe set the pace to defeat N. Y. U, 26 to 29, in the drizzling rain at Buccleuch Park a week before Rutgers ran wild at Easton to wrest the mythical Middle Three diadem. In the final meet of the season, Middle Atlantic States championships at Buccleuch Park, Rutgers was nosed out by Alfred College, losing by a single point. Phe and Dannie placed first and second respectively.

RUTGERS' fencing team reached an all-time low in the history of the sport on the campus during the 1936 season, losing every one of its six matches, all but one by decisive margins.

There was little first calibre material on hand from which Coach Pirotte could mold an even fairly formidable team, and Ray DeVos and Bill Plenty were the only returning veterans from last season's unsuccessful squad which lost 5 matches and won only one. The former and Aaron Goldman were outstanding in the foils division, while Plenty and Ben Lazansky gained a modicum of success in the sabre event. In the epee division the best men were Dick Hammell and George Kirsten.

INTRAMURALS

By CLIFFORD B. ROSS, '36, Manager

A TWO-YEAR reign at the top of the intramural roost by Delta Upsilon came to a halt when the 1934-1935 campaign was terminated, and the Scarlet Aces, a neutral organization, became the successors and consequently gained possession of the Keller Point Trophy—awarded to the club with the highest total of points accrued in all sports.

The Aces annexed the cup with a total of 58 points, while the D. U.'s and the S. A. M.'s followed closely on their footsteps with 51 and 50 points respectively. The new champions accumulated their many points through successfully capturing the basketball, track, and swimming championships, while the D. U.'s gained second place by winning the cross-country title and lasting until the semi-final rounds in the other playoffs. The Sammies gained the majority of their points by copping two of the big intramural titles—touch football and baseball—for the second consecutive year.

The D. U.'s started off in a manner that looked as if they would repeat for the third consecutive year and threatened right up to the spring sports when they were decisively defeated in intra-mural track for the first time in three years. The track defeat at the hands of the Scarlet Aces knocked their chances of victory into a cocked hat.

The cross country run was taken by D. U. when Buddy Allen, Shorty Van Houten and Vic Hurst came home in a bunch. The S. A. M.'s smashed through to another championship in touch football before the Scarlet Aces really got under way with a serious bid for the diadem by winning the basketball and swimming championships during the winter season.

In the spring intramural track meet, sponsored by Spiked Shoe, the Aces just couldn't get out of their winning habits and piled up a total of 51 and two-fifths points to win first place with ease. It was one of the most decisive victories in the annual event for the closest competitors, Delta Upsilon, could garner only 17 and three-fifths points. This definitely put the Aces "in" for the season's race. Nine teams competed in the track carnival, and following behind D. U. came the S. A. M.'s with 16 and a half points, and the Theta Chi's with 15.

The biggest stars of the meet for the Aces were Bill Lauro and Bob Cook who rolled up 17 points between them. Cook annexed both the 440 and the low hurdles, while Lauro came through with a first in the century and a fourth in the discus heave. Winters, Joe Costa, Tommy Markantes, and Tony Naporano were also prominent in the star-studded array, especially Winters who did well in the high jump, 220-yard dash and the high hurdles.

Spectacular performers for the other outfits were George Powers, D. U., who copped the mile in 5:32; Arnie Truex, Phi Gam, discus winner; and Stan Rose, S. A. M., in the weights.

The baseball championships was more or less of an anti-climax after the track meet, but there were exciting games and hot arguments right up to the final playoff game between the two great rivals, the Aces and the S. A. M.'s.

At the end of the regular playing season the six league winners were Phi Epsilon Pi, Scarlet Aces, Sigma Alpha Mu, Pi Kappa Alpha, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Theta Chi. In the preliminary playoffs the Aces had a tight squeeze to get by the Phi Ephs by a 3 to 2 score. S. A. M. and the Pi Kaps clashed in a free-scoring game with runs crossing the plate in bunches. The former team won, 15 to 12. In the third semi-final playoff Theta Chi put over four runs while holding the Tekes to one run.

Going into the finals the Aces subsequently knocked off the Theta Chi's, 10 to 4, giving them the privilege to meet the S. A. M.'s for the championship.

All the hectic squawking and umpire-baiting of a New York Giants-Brooklyn game was crowded into the game which went to the S. A. M.'s when they scored the only run of the game. Jim Oughton, who had been delivering the best brand of ball all season for the Aces, kept the Sammies well in hand, allowing them only one hit, until a four-base error by Tommy Markantes threw the ball game right into the laps of the winners.

The Aces did all right at the plate, collecting nine assorted safe wallops off Ike Paul's underhand slants and had him in hot water in the first, second, and fourth innings, but each time he managed to weather the storm.

The 1935-1936 campaign got under way in the customary fashion with the D. U.'s copping the annual fall cross-country fixture on the Buccleuch Park hill and dale area, but it was another organization that started to make the biggest bid to displace the neutral Scarlet Aces for the throne. This time it was Delta Kappa Epsilon making itself conspicuous in the early fall and winter race by capturing the touch football and basketball tournaments.

The cross-country derby drew entries from five different units—Delta Upsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Hertzog Hall, Theta Chi, and Lambda Chi Alpha. Once more the Van Houten-Hurst-Allen combination proved too much for the pack, and when they placed third, fifth, and sixth respectively it was quite enough to bring the title to D. U. for the third consecutive year. John Cook, representing the Quadrangle dormitory team, crossed first followed by Ted Hoffman, running in the colors of Phi Gams. Then VanHouten, George Enyedi, also of Hertzog, and then the bacon-bringing-home boys in the persons of Hurst and Allen. Cook's time for the mile and a half run was 8:34. The winner's total was 14 points.

The final team standing showed Phi Gamma Delta following the winners in second place, with a 19 point aggregate, Hertzog Hall, third place, and Lambda Chi Alpha, fourth place.

The usual great spirit and interest was once again present in the mad scramble for the prize of them all—the touch football championship. A heavy entry list made it necessary to divide the twenty units into five leagues of four teams each.

culty, the Scarlet Aces had duplicated the same performance in League II, as had the Lambda Chi's in League IV.

However, there were hot arguments in Leagues III and V. In the former bracket there was a three-way battle going on between the Raritan Club, Kappa Sigma, and the Phi Eps. Eventually the Raritan Club landed on top of their loop even though they did play a 12 to 12 tie with the Kappa Sigs. who likewise took part in one of the longest games of the year by playing two extra periods in a pouring rain on the banks of the Raritan to decide a tie between them and the Phi Eps.

In League V there was a triple-way battle going on for the loop crown and a passage into the playoffs. The bitterest of these engagements was between the ancient fraternity rivals, D. U. and D. K. E. Pi Kappa Alpha also added to the general tangle.

In their opening encounter the D. U.'s emerged victorious, 6 to 0, when little Buddy Allen, track luminary, intercepted a pass and ran the length of the field for the only score of the game. However, the Pi Kaps, in their turn, handed the D. U.'s a 12 to 6 setback in a very close game, decided only by an extra period. The Dekes tied the league up into a knot necessitating preliminary playoff games, when the Dekes beat the Pi Kaps, 12 to 0.

With Duke Maddox, Bill Reid, and Bob Metzler leading the way, the Dekes clashed in an extra period fray with the D. U.'s and managed to eke out a 12 to 6 victory after the losers had been hampered by a serious injury to their star back, Steve Connolly. Subsequently the Dekes beat Pi Kappa Alpha by one touchdown in a high-scoring affair, 24 to 18, which gave them clear title to the League V championship and opened their way to a grand slam into the ranking position. Maddox was once again outstanding for the Dekes, while Bill Evans played best for the losers.

In the first of the playoffs the Lambda Chi's were eliminated early and then the Dekes scratched out an 8 to 0 victory over the Scarlet Aces while the Delta Phi's were taking the Raritan Club into camp by a 14 to 0 score. This left the Dekes and Delts to decide it all between themselves.

The tricky Dekes, featuring a lot of hocus-pocus, outclassed the Delts 12 to 0 in their second attempt to decide the championships.

AT the end of the regularly scheduled campaign tabulations showed that the Delts had swept through League I without any diffi-

The two teams had previously battled to a 12 to 12 tie in their first effort to come to a decision.

The winners opened up the fray by pushing a score across before the Delts got warmed up when Bob Metzler intercepted one of Dan VanMater's passes and ran thirty yards to a score. The rest of the half found the Dekes continually threatening, but never getting the breaks.

The second half was merely a repetition of the first except that the Deke second touchdown resulted when Bill Reid grabbed a long pass to score.

Maddox was perhaps the outstanding star of the game, although Reid came a close second with his stellar exhibition at end. The Duke had the losers completely baffled by his calling of plays from the Notre Dame single wing, with or without a shift. And on occasions, he mixed it up with tricky double and triple shifts.

At the end of the season all-intramural first and second teams were picked with the following men gaining places.

First Team	Position
George Verrill, Raritan Club	L.E.
Harry Lang, Delta Phi	L.T.
Robert Patton, Delta Upsilon	L.G.

Arthur Frederickson, Pi Kappa Alpha	F.B.

The Dekes also repeated in the blue ribbon winter intra-mural event—basketball. And once again the Maddox-Reid combination was instrumental in bringing many victories to the Dekes. When the regular season wound up the Chi Phi's led League I, the Dekes League II, Scarlet Aces League III, Phi Epsilon Pi and Theta Chi tied for League IV, 150-pound All-Stars League V, Kappa Sigma League VI, and Chi Psi League VII.

The Chi Phi's drew a bye but were subsequently beaten by the Scarlet Aces who conquered the Kappa Sigs in the first round of the playoffs. In the lower bracket of the playoffs the Dekes beat the Chi Psi's in their first assignment and then took over the 150-pound All-Stars who had numbered Theta Chi as their first victim.

In the final game, although Pomp Chandler dropped in 12 points, it was not enough to enable the Aces to defeat the Dekes who thrilled the audience when Bill Reid flipped in a basket on a difficult follow-up of Ridge Moon's unsuccessful foul try with the stop watches showing only eight seconds remaining. The final score was 26 to 25. At the same time Paul Harvey of the Tau Kappa Epsilons threw in another last-minute attempt in leading his team to a victory over the Deke "B" team, by a 20 to 19 score. The game was a see-saw affair throughout and the successful heave by Harvey provided a fitting climax for the thrill-studded encounter.

Chandler took high scoring honors in the titular tussle with his dozen points. Reid was second high, racking up three field goals and four foul goals for ten points. Bernie Stollman and Maddox, each with six points, came next in scoring. The latter was an outstanding floor worker, teaming nicely with Reid, his running mate in the forecourt.

The all-league selections for the first and second teams in the "A" League were as follows:

DELTA PHI

Founded at Union, 1827

EPSILON CHAPTER

Established in 1845

EPSILON CHAPTER of Delta Phi was founded in the year 1845. Under the able leadership of William H. Ten Eyck, who had become acquainted with fraternities and the purposes and ideals of Delta Phi from the mother chapter of that fraternity at Union College in Schenectady, his home town, a group of nineteen men, six seniors, one junior, six sophomores, and six freshmen, undertook to organize the first fraternity at Rutgers. The purposes of these men were to consolidate their interests and at the same time mutually benefit each other, to maintain high standing as students and gentlemen and to foster cordial and fraternal relations. They applied to the chapters already in existence, were accepted and were initiated into Delta Phi by delegates from the chapters at Union College, Brown University, New York University, and Columbia University.

The fraternity secured rooms for its meetings here and there in the city during the first forty-two years of its existence. In 1887 the first chapter house was acquired. This house was located on Hamilton Street next to New Jersey Hall. It became the living quarters and meeting place of the brothers after several additions and alterations and served the fraternity until it was destroyed by fire in 1930.

Instead of rebuilding on Hamilton Street, a new and larger house was purchased. This new house was the former residence of John T. Hill, President of the Ninth National Bank of New York and later of James W. Johnson, President of the Johnson & Johnson Company. It was enlarged, made colonial in style and adapted to the uses of a fraternity.

The fraternity has always remained true to the principles set forth by its charter members. It has remained strictly a literary and social fraternity.

ZETA PSI

Founded at N. Y. U. in 1846

DELTA CHAPTER

Established in 1848

THE founding of the Delta Chapter of Zeta Psi forged the third link in the chain of the fraternity, coming a year and a half after the founding of the first chapter in 1846. At that time two literary societies controlled the campus, in spite of their professed aesthetic field. A battle was raging between the two societies and Delta Phi. The prospect was not very appealing, so Zeta Psi remained in seclusion for a full year.

Zeta Psi then began to make its mark on the campus here. Several Philocleans and Peithosophians were taken into the chapter, with the result that by the fall of '49 the chapter consisted of about a dozen well-selected and prominent men. In the next three years twenty-eight men were initiated.

Quite naturally, the Delta suffered severely during the Civil War. There were many Southerners in college at that time, several of them being Zetes. When hostilities broke out, nine of them went South, double that number serving on the Northern side; two men gave their lives for each side.

From surreptitious meetings in haylofts and back rooms, the chapter bought its first house, on the present site, in '89, in order to "keep up with the Delts," who had built two years previously. Twenty-five years passed before a new building was necessary. The present house was completed in 1925.

The world war brought trying times to the chapter, but it managed to survive, and in '19 a splendid delegation was obtained, largely through the efforts of alumni. From then on the Chapter flourished. In 1930 it furnished the ninth national president of the fraternity, and the members of Delta point proudly to the fact that it has possession of the record of the longest unbroken history of any chapter in the fraternity.

RUTGERS CHAPTER

Established in 1858

IN the year 1858, the attempts that had been made for eight years to establish an anti-secret society were successful and thus was born at Rutgers College the Rutgers Chapter of Delta Upsilon.

In Alonzo P. Peeke's room on the evening of May 24, 1859, a meeting was held. Among those present were Suydam, Beardslee, De Witt, Hageman, Skillman, Bodine, Wyckoff and Rogers. A letter was addressed to Amherst with a request for admission into the anti-secret confederation. In May, 1859, the Rutgers Chapter of Delta Upsilon was established and received its charter. The chapter was composed of 21 members. A room was secured on Church Street, a few doors from George, for which one dollar was paid per meeting. Later a room was rented at the same rate over an engine house near the corner of Schureman and George Streets. Considerable attention was paid by the society to literary activities. Rutgers was, moreover, present at every national gathering as covered by this chapter, except in 1873, when she was reported by letter. In 1864, she interceded and prevented the dissolution of the Confederation. At the same time, the chapter entered a period of decline and in 1866 it seemed it might disappear from the campus; however, it bridged the crisis and has ever since held a high place on the Rutgers campus, and among the chapters of Delta Upsilon.

She has contributed a number of famous men. Among those are: Harlan Besson '07, United States District Attorney; D. Frederick Burnett '01, State Commissioner of Alcoholic Beverages; Clarence E. Case '00, Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey; Valentine B. Havens '12, Rhodes Scholar and athlete, now a lawyer; and F. Marmaduke Potter '09, Rhodes Scholar, now Treasurer and Assistant Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church of America.

PHI CHI CHAPTER

Established in 1861

IN 1844 an earnest group of young men at Yale gathered together in order to form a literary society. This society subsequently bore the name of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. After its inception at Yale the group thought that they would carry their good work to other colleges and in 1861 founded a chapter at Rutgers.

The circumstances of the founding of the chapter do not differ materially from those of the founding of many other chapters of this fraternity. The Rutgers group met in a small room on Burnett Street. From there they moved to Hiram Street. Due to the increasing strength of the organization they found quarters at 78 College Avenue which provided ample room for their development. The present chapter house was erected in 1929, due to the work of the active chapter and the gracious gifts of the alumni.

The high ideals and traditions of the national organization have produced such outstanding citizens as President Theodore Roosevelt, Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Admiral Peary, Whitelaw Reid, Henry Cabot Lodge, and a host of others.

Phi Chi of Delta Kappa Epsilon has provided men of outstanding ability both to the nation and to Rutgers: Richard T. Greene, Prof. Alexander Titsworth, Dr. John Cook, Prof. "Poppy" Van Dyck, Judge William M. Stillman, and George Morris. At present the faculty boasts of two Dekes, Dr. Charles H. Whitman of Yale and Prof. Edwin Bell Davis of Dartmouth.

DELTA CHAPTER

A PETITION for a charter in Chi Phi was granted to John Brownson Church, Seymour Royal Smith, Asher Anderson, Graham Taylor, George Clarence Towle, Thomas Markle Trego, and John Ring Kaley, students at Rutgers, and on March 19, 1867, the Delta Chapter of Chi Phi was established. Since that time she has maintained a continuous and prosperous existence. Her roll contains the names of 482 members of whom 8 are affiliates and 83 are deceased. Twelve saw military service prior to 1917 and 77 participated in the World War, one losing his life in the struggle.

The present chapter house was built in 1910, the first living quarters on the Rutgers campus to be built as a fraternity house. The house is known as "Pinehurst", and the ivy upon its walls was transplanted from the Chapter at the University of Edinburgh, established during the Civil War by Southern Chi Phis attending that University. The House was rebuilt and modernized a few years ago.

Delta is the only surviving chapter of the Hobart Order of Chi Phi and is one of the four oldest chapters of the National Fraternity. In the spring of 1934 a banquet was held in commemoration of its two thousandth regular meeting.

The active members have always figured actively and prominently in campus affairs, and the alumni have given as good an account of themselves in the outer world. Throughout the years of her existence Delta has always been independent in her opinions and whether successful or not in furthering them, has always been loyal to the University. The move towards cooperation and closer relation between fraternities and the college administration is looked upon with great favor by the present Chapter members, who believe that this cooperation is needed to further the advantages of both.

BETA GAMMA CHAPTER

Established in 1876

THE ALPHA of Alpha Sigma Chi, a national fraternity of seven chapters, was organized on our campus by William Perry Watson '75, C. L. D. Washburn '73, and Elbridge Van Syckel '73, in 1871. In 1879 Alpha Sigma Chi was merged with Beta Theta Pi and the local chapter received the designation Beta Gamma. Since then Beta Gamma has enjoyed an uninterrupted existence on the Rutgers Campus. The Chapter house has been moved from time to time.

The total membership of the local chapter falls just short of half a thousand. The national organization comprised 87 chapters with a total enrollment of 40,000.

Though participation in athletics has been the forte of the majority of its members other activities have not been neglected. Many leaders in student life have been affiliated with the chapter. Beta Gamma not only has given the University many faculty members but also has contributed many illustrious names to Rutgers' great alumni body.

Its Alumni, who were the Scarlet in their undergraduate days, have been influential and materially helpful in the advancement of Rutgers University.

The annals of Old Queens College are filled with the exploits of Wittpen, Watson, Hazel, Terril, Kojac, White, Hall, Gardner, Garrett, Latimer, Julian, Waterfield, Butler, Meury and other greats.

Fostering clean living, application to study, and an altruistic attitude to fellow Rutgers men, the chapter has been held in high esteem by Queensmen everywhere.

ALPHA RHO

Established in 1879

ALPHA RHO of Chi Psi was founded in 1879. Its founders were men of high ideals, members of a local literary society called Alpha Theta, whose roster of fourteen men included eleven Phi Beta Kappas.

Chi Psi was the seventh fraternity to be founded at Rutgers, but it had the proud distinction of owning the first fraternity house in New Brunswick. The first lodge was located at the present headquarters and proved ideal for a fraternity house.

The war period was a time of despair for many of the brothers. Chi Psi suffered at this time as did all the fraternities on the campus, but during the post-war period a definite effort was made to bring Alpha Rho up to its previous excellent state. Thanks to the brothers who were in college at that time and to the support given by the ever-zealous alumni the Lodge was put back on its feet.

In 1923 the "Rhoboat", the Alpha publication, first went to press, and from that time to the present has continued to be a marked success.

One year later ground was broken for a new lodge, and in the ensuing two years the work of collecting the funds and building the new home was consummated. In the spring of 1926 the actives moved into the present lodge.

The fiftieth anniversary of Alpha Rho of Chi Psi was marked by an inspiring reunion and banquet. Since that time seven more years have been added to the history of Alpha Rho; fifty-seven years of toil, sacrifice, ambitions, progress, and hopes for the future.

ALPHA PSI CHAPTER

Established in 1904

IN the year 1904, the inception of the local fraternity, Gamma Sigma, took place with a secret meeting of eleven men at 17 Mine Street. Overcoming difficulties was only part of the task which confronted these men in establishing here at Rutgers the seed which was later to develop into a strong chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

On May 3, 1913, Gamma Sigma was initiated as the Alpha Psi Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, at which time a charter was granted by the Supreme Council. The initiation ceremony was administered by fifteen members from Alpha Upsilon, of New York University.

From its initiation, Alpha Psi, has enjoyed a favorable position among the fraternities here on this campus. In addition to the acquired prestige of Pi Kappa Alpha, its members had for many years been prominent in every phase of college life.

The first Chapter House, which had been occupied for some years by Gamma Sigma, was rented at 17 Mine Street. Meals were served in the house from the start, and this house was the Chapter's home until May, 1919, when a more spacious and attractive house on College Avenue was bought by the alumni of the Chapter.

After the World War, Alpha Psi continued where it left off. An examination of the achievements shows them to have participated and excelled in every existing form of life and activity that is desirable and honorable. Its members have achieved remarkable success in the world of affairs and a list of the outstanding men would be too long to include it here.

PHI ZETA CHAPTER

Established in 1913

PHI ZETA of Lambda Chi Alpha was founded on the Rutgers campus in 1913. The chapter was organized by a group of four undergraduates, and when they had succeeded in pledging enough men to join a national fraternity, the whole group was initiated as a chapter by the new national, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Lambda Chi Alpha was established at Boston University in 1909. Phi Zeta was the ninth chapter to be added to the chapter roles, which now included 84 chapters in the United States and Canada.

The first Lambda Chi meetings on the Rutgers campus were held in a suite in Winants Hall. In 1914 a house on Mine Street was rented, and the Lambda Chis had their first real home. The following year they moved to a house owned by the college at 502 George Street.

Phi Zeta purchased its first house in 1920 at 164 College Avenue, where it is now located. The membership continued to grow and in 1928 a three-story addition was built on the house, and the entire interior was remodeled.

More recent historical events within the memory of the present senior class include the episode of the gasoline which occurred two years ago. Seven hundred gallons of gasoline were emptied into the fuel oil tank of the fraternity house through a mistake in labeling, and a catastrophe of some sort or another was narrowly averted.

LAMBDA CHAPTER

Established in 1915

THE RUTGERS CHAPTER of Phi Epsilon Pi had its inception as a local fraternity under the name of Theta Phi. The organization was started in Winants Hall in 1914. Shortly after meetings were held in Ford Hall.

The group was soon reorganized as Lambda Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi and received its charter in 1915. The first house was located at 44 College Avenue. As the fraternity grew in strength, the chapter was moved to what is now the Dutch Reformed Church House on the corner of College Avenue and Mine Street. Eight years ago the present edifice was constructed and has been the home of Phi Epsilon Pi since.

At the present twenty-three loving cups, all won in various campus activities in addition to scholarship achievements, grace the mantel in the living room. We, of the Lambda chapter, are proud of having won more cups at the national convention of Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity than any of our other chapters.

From the original nucleus of four men we have grown into a chapter that averages thirty active members each year. The Fraternity points with pride to one or two outstanding men on the campus every year. Among the active men who have graduated as Lambda Fraters are Judge Rosen of Philadelphia, "Tex" Rosen, Dave Moscovitz, and Jack Grossman, all of whom excel in their various fields of endeavor. The chapter also claims title to an outstanding associate member, Abe Jelin, former Commissioner of Highways in New Jersey.

In view of this history and in consideration of these achievements, we, the present members of the Lambda chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi, feel that we have a tradition to uphold that bows to none.

GAMMA UPSILON CHAPTER

Established in 1918

THE GAMMA UPSILON CHAPTER of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity received its charter from the national organization in 1918. On the sixteenth of April in that year members of the Queens Club, prominent local group on the Rutgers campus, were initiated into the brotherhood of Kappa Sigma by Pi Chapter and Alpha Phi Chapter from Swarthmore and Bucknell.

The Queens Club had originally organized as an eating club in 1909 but soon grew in size and adopted the principles and forms of a local fraternity. Their membership grew and they became in a few years one of the foremost groups on the campus. The distinction won by the society is well attested by the fact that within a decade of its founding the club was adjudged acceptable by the neighboring Kappa Sigma Chapters and by the Supreme Executive Committee.

The present home of the chapter was formerly the residence of the Johnson family, prominent in New Brunswick society and in the pharmaceutical world. Previous to the occupancy of the house by the Johnsons, the building bore the name of Rogue's Castle because of the current rumor that an absconding bank employee had hidden his loot in the walls of the house. Even today the Kappa Sigs occasionally go exploring the hidden passages between the walls and in the ceilings; but sad to relate, although all the space from cellar to cupola has been carefully searched, the booty of the bank robber has not been found.

Among the notable graduates of Rutgers who are Kappa Sigmas we find such men engaged in educational fields as Ching Lee of the Agricultural faculty; Luther Martin, Registrar of the University; and Edward Heyd, Director of the Bureau and Personnel and Placement.

NU BETA CHAPTER

Established 1917

AS with practically every other chapter of the various national fraternities, Nu Beta Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta began its existence as a local club on its own campus. To quote the original minute book, "The first meeting of Rho Sigma Zeta was held October 11th, 1909 . . . in room 43, Winants Hall." This room belonged to two young men by the names of Martin and Glanders. Mr. Glanders was appointed secretary, elected President, and an interesting history was begun. Rho Sigma Zeta continued to meet until December of 1910, when the Scarlet Club was founded.

It seems that from the very beginning, the Scarlet Club had but one objective in mind, that of eventually becoming a chapter of Phi Gamma Delta. As the Scarlet Club, the first chapter house came into being. This house was located on the corner of George Street and Seminary Place. This old brownstone house now belongs to Dr. Demarest. In the years between 1910 and 1917, this objective was kept in mind. Big placards reading "Phi Gamma Delta or nothing" were in every room of the house. The Scarlet Club prospered and became influential in campus affairs until the year 1917 when, at the National Convention of Phi Gamma Delta, a Charter was granted to the Scarlet Club upon the recommendation of many of the fraternities on the campus at the time. This national convention was held in December of that year and for that reason, this chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was not installed until April 6th, 1918.

In the summer of 1930, an addition was built onto the present house and since that time constant inside and outside improvement and a growing chapter roll has shown Nu Beta to be steadily on her way up and striving consistently to keep and uphold the high ideals of Phi Gamma Delta.

IVY CLUB

Founded at Rutgers in 1913

THE IVY CLUB was formed in March, 1913. The founders were: E. T. Paxton, E. R. Schmid, C. S. Beckwith, G. R. Maxson, A. C. Metcalf, all '14. On December 12, 1913, this fraternity was incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey as the "Ivy Club of Rutgers College." The original club house was located at 118 Hamilton Street where the club remained until the following September, when it moved to 41 College Avenue. This house was occupied until 1923, with the exception of 1918-19, when it was vacated temporarily to provide quarters for a hospital to serve the Student Army Training Corps Unit of the College. The property at 60 College Avenue was purchased in 1923, and has remained the permanent address of the Ivy Club ever since.

Glancing over the alumni roster, one will find that Ivy has produced many men of distinction. Perhaps the most well-known alumnus is Ozzie Nelson '27. Ozzie's voice and orchestra have brought him national fame and popularity.

A few of the others who have succeeded in gaining prominence are: George F. Baier, after graduation from Harvard Law School, returned to New Brunswick and is now one of the city commissioners. Bryce MacDonald, who taught chemistry at Rutgers following his graduation, is now an executive of the Rutgers Alumni Association and President of the Alumni Interfraternity Council. Russ Jackson, a graduate of Harvard Law School, is now chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Ivy Club. He is practicing law in New York City and is manager of the Harvard Law Club. Edward Roberts was a letter winner in football, basketball and lacrosse, being captain and all-American in the latter and is now President of the Rutgers Varsity Club.

RARITAN CLUB

Founded at Rutgers in 1922

THE RARITAN CLUB came into existence in April, 1922, when a group of undergraduates living in Winants Hall, formed the organization.

These men, most of them engineers, were juniors and seniors, who through their college years had become so attached to each other that a firm bond of friendship was created among them. The bond became so close that it asserted itself in material form, and the juniors, looking forward to their senior year, were suddenly struck with the idea of securing a house in which to live and thus more thoroughly enjoy the existing comradeship.

It was learned that Phi Gamma Delta was moving from 542 George Street to its present house, so the Raritan Club negotiated with college authorities and in June, 1922, moved in on its first home.

For two years the Raritan shingle was seen outside of the "old stone chateau", which is alongside of the Bleeker Place tennis courts. Then Dr. Demarest resigned as President of Rutgers College and the trustees turned the house over to him, leaving the club without headquarters.

The fraternity moved again in June, 1926, to the present house on College Avenue. It was after this that the new fraternity, which had been struggling along, picked up more strength. As the alumni body grew, the undergraduate organization received more backing. The new house, although far from palatial, was an improvement over their previous home and the Raritan Club moved forward.

TRITELION LODGE . . .

Founded at Rutgers in 1923

I N 1923 a group of non-fraternity Phi Beta Kappa men formulated the idea of organizing a social club for the intellectuals on the campus, and thus the College Lodge of Rutgers came into existence. They leased the property at 502 George Street, next to the Ballantine Gymnasium, and induced prominent leaders in sports to join them. Their idea was to restrict membership to only the highest type of student, but this abstract principle was not feasible. A charter was obtained from the university and a bona fide fraternity was established under the name of Tritelion Lodge.

The infant fraternity prospered and in 1927 it purchased its present property, the home of Professor Titsworth, one of the older faculty members. The remodeling of the house was done by the engineers of the Lodge, who had extensive plans for the future development which were stifled in their infancy by the depression.

The alumni of the Lodge are mostly engineers and their occupations have carried them far and wide. The house, although still young, boasts of an alumni group of about one hundred and fifty members. Depression or not, the alumni have amazed the present members with fourteen prospective Rutgers men.

While the ideas of the original founders may have suffered in the transition from an intellectual club to a social fraternity, the ideals of high scholastic standing rank with extra-curricular activities and the social program have never been forgotten.

ALPHA SIGMA RHO

Founded at Rutgers in 1925

ELEVEN YEARS ago ten Rutgers students living up in Hertzog Hall founded Alpha Sigma Rho. Those ten have long since graduated; but in their wake, year after year, other groups of Alpha Sigma Rho brothers have followed—each inspired with the principles of the founders. The group has sent men out into many fields—into a consulate in the Southern hemisphere, into schools and colleges as teachers; many have gone into the ministry and other professions; and many into business.

We recognize our place is not at the top of the fraternities in many respects, though for many years we have led in scholarship. Our policies have not always allowed us to head the list in all ways; but we know we are growing, and in that fact we feel justly proud.

We are near enough the period of the foundation of the fraternity to realize the vigor of our fraternity. Eleven years—yes, and what a lot has been done! We have bought a house, and we are constantly improving it. Even better, we are adding to a building fund for a bigger home. We are living and learning fast—our future looks bright. To our brother fraternities we give thanks. They have helped us along greatly. Our fraternity is maturing by leaps and bounds. We have come to the point where we can live up to the purpose of the founders more fully in working with other living groups in making the Rutgers of the future the place where the ideal college is to be found.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

New York, 1909

SIGMA DELTA CHAPTER

Established in 1928

IN 1928 the Sigma Delta Chapter of the national fraternity, Sigma Alpha Mu, took its place in the life and activities of the students of Rutgers. A new spirit was instilled in the local club, Sigma Delta, when it became part of the national body. That this spirit, that this life, was to find worthy outlets in the history of Rutgers in the years following can be easily ascertained by a glance at the records of student activity here. In the short span of eight years, the local chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu has carved a permanent niche in the Rutgers Hall of Fame.

Athletics have played no small part in making the name S. A. M. a byword on the campus. To football, basketball, track, lacrosse, baseball, crew and swimming, the fraternity has contributed its worthy representatives. The academic aspect of collegiate life has not been neglected by the chapter, and high scholastic average has been maintained.

Embarking enthusiastically on the intramural program recently set up by the University, S. A. M. has been among the leaders in many forms of this type of athletic endeavor.

As regards the social phase of campus life, one needs but to quote from the roving reporter of the "Targum": "We had intended Saturday night, to go around and visit all the house parties, but, somehow, we never quite got further than the S. A. M. house."

The brotherhood formed here by Sigma Alpha Mu has become an integral part of Rutgers lore and tradition and as long as Rutgers shall exist, so long, we hope, shall this brotherhood continue.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

39 CHAPTERS

Founded at Illinois Wesleyan, 1899

ALPHA ETA CHAPTER

Established in 1930

ALPHA ETA CHAPTER of Tau Kappa Epsilon owes its inception to the friendship and strong mutual respect existing among a group of young men on Rutgers University campus. About eight years ago this nucleus was gathered together through the efforts of John Mulhern '27, Charles Kiesewetter '29, and Salvatore Salerno '29, and united in the bond of a new fraternity with thirteen charter members.

Due to the tireless devotion of these men the major questions of organization were settled by December, 1926. This saw the completion of a constitution that would serve to govern the body; the name Phi Sigma Tau was adopted; a pin and pledge button were designed; and the colors of French Blue and Gold officially chosen.

A petition for recognition was presented to the Board of Trustees of Rutgers University on January 14, 1927, and due largely to the hearty recommendation of Dr. Fraser Metzger, Sigma Tau was accorded the somewhat unusual distinction of having a charter granted in response to its first petition.

The group was then forced with a housing problem. Because of low finances and the difficulty of finding a suitable location, the best that could be done was a house situated at 102 Richardson Street. On December 29, 1928, the fraternity was incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and in February, 1929, a sinking fund was established to provide for the eventual construction of a permanent home.

On December 27, 1929, permission to petition a National Fraternity was granted by the proper authorities in the University, and June 4, 5 and 6 of 1930, saw the installation of Phi Sigma Tau into the national ranks of Tau Kappa Epsilon as Alpha Eta Chapter. The fall of 1930 saw the chapter move to 10 Bartlett Street, where it has since carried on the work left by those taken away through graduation.

ALPHA KAPPA PI . .

RHO CHAPTER

Established in 1931

THE chapter of Alpha Kappa Pi originated as Phi Lambda Sigma, a local fraternity at Rutgers. It was organized in 1926 by a group of men from the class of 1927 who sought to perpetuate the common bonds of friendship and scholastic interests which has held them together during their three years of college life. This group enlisted the aid of nine members of the class of '26 and three members of the class of '28. The Trustees of the University, influenced by the excellent record of the petitioners, granted them a charter in May of that year.

That summer a house on the southeast corner of Easton Avenue and Hamilton Street was leased for one year. Next in the minds of the members was the thought of purchasing a house for the Fraternity, and the present location at 26 Union Street was obtained.

In the spring of 1929 the custom of having an annual alumni banquet was instituted. A total of thirty men attended this first banquet and did much in discussing the welfare and future of the Chapter.

In the summer of the same year, the Collegiate Brotherhood, a local fraternity which had existed on this campus from 1893 to 1906, voted to affiliate with and be absorbed into Phi Lambda Sigma for membership in the Alpha Kappa Pi national fraternity was accepted, the Rho chapter was formally inducted into the rites and rituals of that organization.

THETA CHI

50 CHAPTERS

Founded at Norwich University, 1856

EETA DELTA CHAPTER

Established in 1932

THETA CHI, national fraternity, was founded at Norwich University, Norwich, Vermont, in 1856. Beta Delta chapter on the Rutgers campus was originally established as Theta Zeta fraternity in 1922 under the inspiration of Anthony T. Wooley '24, who was elected the first president. As a local Theta Zeta increased in membership, strength and campus prestige until 1932, when it became the fiftieth chapter of Theta Chi.

The fraternity was organized for the purpose of "developing a spirit of friendship and brotherhood and not for political and interfraternal strength." Its aim was "to uphold the best tradition and customs of Rutgers in all its actions." Both the aim and purpose of the local fraternity correspond closely to the principles of Theta Chi and are retained to the present day.

Promotion of scholarship is the cardinal principle of Theta Chi. Beta Delta chapter prides itself upon its scholarship record, thirteen of its members having been elected to Phi Beta Kappa during the twelve years of the group's existence. In the academic year 1926-27 Theta Zeta won permanent possession of the Interfraternity Scholarship cup, having stood highest in the council for three years.

Amongst its alumni four Theta Chis are particularly outstanding on the Rutgers campus: A. Stuart Demarest '28, editor of publications, extension division; Ernest E. MacMahon '30, Alumni Secretary; Ralph N. Campbell '31, assistant director of Public and Alumni Relations; and Harry Von Bulow '32, an instructor in Psychology.

TAU DELTA PHI . .

Established in 1934

TAU GAMMA of Tau Delta Phi was introduced to the Rutgers campus in 1921, when a group of students with the same interests at heart, founded the Evergreen Club. This body of men, although relatively small, made up in quality and activity what they lacked in size. They were vitally interested in the activities of Rutgers and participated whole-heartedly in the various events conducted on the campus—social, scholastic and athletic.

As this group grew in importance and strength it felt that expansion was in order. Accordingly, in 1928, it became the Eta Chapter of Omicron Alpha Tau. As in the past the group tended towards cohesiveness, towards a membership that had the same interest, that had the same ideals, and that was concerned with all that is Rutgers. It, as well as the Evergreen Club, produced men who have since proven their worth in the economic, social, political, scientific and educational fields of endeavor.

Then, in June of 1934, because of the benefits that would be deprived by both parties concerned, the entire Omicron Alpha Tau Fraternity merged with the Tau Delta Phi Fraternity and the best features of both were combined. The Rutgers' chapter became known as Tau Gamma of Tau Delta Phi.

Tau Delta Phi contributed new ideals, a new spirit. It is known in fraternity circles for its ideal administrative program, its selectiveness, and progressive, ever-expanding spirit. It was founded at the College of the City of New York in 1910 and now has twenty-one chapters at the larger universities from coast to coast and from Canada to Texas.

IVY LODGE

SINCE the main body of the 1936 "Scarlet Letter" has gone to press, there has been a combination of two of the societies on the campus. These are the Ivy Club and Tritelion Lodge. They have combined and now form one society, Ivy Lodge, with headquarters at the former home of the Tritelion Lodge. The staff of the 1936 "Scarlet Letter" wishes the Ivy Lodge every success.

JUNIOR PROM

THE class of 1937 attained outstanding social preeminence by the presentation of its annual class dance in the Rutgers Gymnasium on Friday, February 28, 1936.

Taking advantage of the Administration's new ruling relieving the Prom Chairmen of any personal financial responsibility, Robert Metzler and his committee consisting of John N. Gulick, John F. Gordon, Elmer Klinsman, Jerome S. Jefferds, Edward B. Bergen, and William Reid outdid themselves in making an assured success, socially and financially, of the affair.

Entering the realm of "big time" dance orchestras the committee was unanimous in its selection of Glen Gray and his Casa Loma Orchestra.

The Casa Loma Band is one of the most popular dance orchestras in the college social world and on the radio today. Originating in Detroit a few years ago the band immediately centered its attention on making arrangements that are a little different than other orchestras and, because of that fact, they have become the popular favorites of the day. The vocal interpretations are very capably handled by Kenny Sargent and Pee Wee Hunt, both of whom also play with the organization.

In exact contrast to the slow rhythmical tempos of Casa Loma, which remind one of the Sunny South, the Committee chose to decorate the Gymnasium in an Arctic atmosphere. In past years the Prom has been in the tropical mood and this year's departure to the other extreme was quite a diversity. To further change the effects, the individual fraternity booths were separated by hanging drapes. The swimming pool was again used as a background and the whole scheme was novel and pleasing, the orchestra having been moved from the center to the right side of the middle entrance.

The programs were a combination of a novel favor and dance order which was designed for future usefulness. The cover was of hammered silver, on the center of which was inscribed a Rutgers seal. Designed in an oblong fashion this could be later converted into a bracelet. The rest of the dance order of seven pages was printed on the traditional Rutgers color, black on a red background.

Among the guests of the Class of 1937 were President and Mrs. Clothier, Deans Leah Boddie and Margaret Corwin of the

JUNIOR PROM COMMITTEE

SOPHOMORE HOP COMMITTEE

New Jersey College for Women, Dr. and Mrs. Frazer Metger, Dean and Mrs. Partch and Dean and Mrs. Read. The Chaperones for the affair included Dean and Mrs. Parker Daggett, Professor and Mrs. James Slade, and Professor and Mrs. William Cole.

FRESHMAN RECEPTION

THE success of last season's innovation was proven on October eleventh when more than six hundred freshmen of Rutgers and the New Jersey College for Women attended the second annual reception of this University. The freshmen were welcomed to this affair held in their honor by Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Clothier.

As last year, the purpose of this reception was to afford an opportunity for the freshmen of the two colleges to become better acquainted. The Student Relations Committee of the Woman's League, assisted by the Student Council and the Scarlet Key Society, helped in the success of the affair. They provided a diversified program of dancing to Jack Little and his orchestra, entertainment, and games. They were, moreover, responsible for the refreshments served during the intermission. In fact, to them the class of 1939 owes a vote of thanks for their help in making this reception a paramount success.

SCARLET KEY DANCE

AS an introduction to this year's social calendar, nothing could have been more successful than the fourth annual Football Dance held in the Gymnasium on Saturday, October fifth, and sponsored by the Scarlet Key, junior host society of this campus.

Perc Arnstein and his eleven-piece orchestra furnished the music for the evening's entertainment. Already popular throughout many eastern colleges, over radio, and on the screen, "Perc" received proof of his popularity on this campus by the apparent satisfaction of the two hundred and fifty couples who attended. His music was augmented by two versatile vocalists. A novelty dance and several songs were employed in making the dance even more attractive. The event was made more significant by the presence of Assistant Football Coach Arthur L. Matsu and the members of the Marietta football team, as guests of honor.

To Kenneth Butler and the members of his committee, we would like to express our appreciation of a highly satisfactory evening, and an affair which will be looked for with similar enthusiasm on the advent of next year's fall term.

SCARLET BARB DANCES

IN honor of our Midget Champs of the grid-iron, the Scarlet Barbs presented with admiring success their First Annual Dance held in the Gymnasium on Saturday, November second. It is needless to say that the scintillating rhythm of our own Jeff Jefferay and his orchestra proved itself popular with the two hundred couples present.

In order to completely round out their social program the Scarlet Barbs provided two Houseparties for their members. On October 26th and February 29th, Bishop House was transformed. Instead of the usual straight back chairs and monotone voices, there was color, music, and laughter. Indeed to Phillip E. Marucci and his committee we extend our congratulations for the success of their program and we all unanimously join in crying: "Long live the new Neutral Council," "Long Live Scarlet Barbs."

SOPHOMORE HOP

EVERY dance committee sets for its goal a dance better than the preceding one. Consequently this year's committee, ably guided by Carl Miller, had a task requiring no mean ability. Realizing this, the committee interviewed several of the leading bands of the country and finally decided on one Tommy Dorsey, famous second part of that well known combination—The Dorsey Brothers. As a result approximately four hundred and fifty couples visited the gym sometime between nine and two o'clock, Friday evening, December sixth.

The gym, resplendent in its transformation to a southern garden (at dawn) lent a soft smooth atmosphere to what was already the beginning of a very successful evening. Silvered leaves and limbs gazed serenely at the dancers. A small silver forest at the Southern end of the pool provided a path for the dancers who desired strolling under more or less rustic surroundings. The pool, re-opened after a year's rest, again induced the overly warm couples to partake of its coolness. But a picket fence and a well drilled sense of convention kept such desirous beings a good twenty feet from the edge of the lagoon. And to lure the dancers still more, a constant spray of water played on the placid surface reflecting myriads of sparkling jewels. All in all the gym was extremely well decorated, and the Hortus Club headed by William Collins is to be congratulated.

Edith Wright, a product of our own town, sang wonderfully well for the dance she had so many times attended as a guest. Mr. Dorsey led a band that pleased everybody here as well as it pleased the many hundreds of guests that danced to its music at Glen Island.

The black calf-skin programs with the silver seal will be assets to many girls' "memory books." Professor and Mrs. Henry J. Keller, and Coach and Mrs. Edward Ten Eyck were chaperons.

The week-end carried on Saturday with tea dances, movies, and walks in the afternoon, followed by the usual house parties in the evening. The result, all in all, was one of the most successful and best enjoyed week-end dances since "Promenading" became an institution at Rutgers.

CONCERT SERIES

THE 18th year of "The Rutgers Concert Series" commenced with a pre-season performance. In an effort to raise enough money to send the glee Club to Bermuda a prominent gypsy orchestra was engaged under the leadership of Edith Lorrain, internationally known violinist. This delightfully different music was enjoyed by an almost capacity audience. November 21st marked what could be called a command performance. The Don Cossacks returned to New Brunswick, bringing with them their portfolio of Russian and Cossack songs, and as before, this male chorus brought the audience to its feet. Rutgers was fortunate in hearing "The reigning sensation", Mme. Kirsten Flagstad, who held her audience spell-bound on that stormy evening of Dec. 19th. While beginning to worry about exams we were for the moment induced by the Barrere Little Symphony to forget such worldly troubles. The same night of Jan. 13th will always be connected with that great flautist, Barrere.

Shortly after the second term began we were thrilled with that unique combination of Viola Mitchell and Arthur Fear. Miss Mitchell, to quote the critics, "is the best woman violinist we have had since the days when Maud Powell was at her artistic best." Mr. Fear is the leading English Baritone of the Covent Garden Opera, London. The final concert of the series, and perhaps the best attended and best enjoyed was that of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. "It is impossible to imagine a more fitting climax to a brilliant season than a concert by this leading American organization."

Looking back, it seems that this year's series exceeds the preceding 17. Prof. McKinney is to be congratulated, and the university is indeed fortunate in having so capable a person directing its concerts.

BALLET RUSSE DE MONTE CARLO

REPEATING the remarkable success of last year, when at its premier performance in New Brunswick, Colonel W. de Basil's Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo sold out to a capacity audience, the Ballet again returned to "The Banks" on Friday evening, March twentieth, with an entirely new repertoire of Ballets.

In the company there were sixty-five dancers, twenty musicians and numerous other staging experts who are all needed to make the performances the remarkable success they are.

The principal performers were Leonide Massine, maitre de ballet, Irina Baronova, Tatiana Riabouchinska, and Tamara Toumanova, youthful ballerinas, and David Lichine, leading male dancer.

All these performers excelled themselves in delighting the audience last year and as confidently expected surpassed themselves when they revisited the scene of their former success.

THE LECTURE SERIES

THE Luther Laflin Kellog Foundation again responded to the interest aroused last year by presenting an interesting and educational series of lectures by leaders in the current thought of the day.

On Wednesday, December 4, 1935, the Foundation presented the first lecture of the series for this year in the Rutgers Gymnasium. It was a very enthusiastic audience that welcomed Admiral Byrd again to our campus. On his previous visit Rutgers had the privilege of bestowing on the Admiral an honorary degree of Doctor of Law. On this occasion, however, he came to the campus for the express purpose of relating the experiences that befell him and his expedition during their second visit to the Antarctic.

As the result of Byrd's two expeditions over 250,000 square miles of land much of which is rich in mineral resources has been claimed for the United States. Admiral Byrd was introduced to the audience by Dr. Earle B. Perkins, associate professor of zoology and biologist of Byrd's expedition.

This lecture was followed by one given by Francis Hackett on January 8, 1936. The topic discussed by Mr. Hackett was "Should History be Dull?" As an author Mr. Hackett is well known, especially in the field of biography, his outstanding work in this field being "Henry VIII." It is said that this book led to the famous Tudor boom in England.

Mr. Hackett was well qualified to speak on his chosen topic as his long career as a lecturer began when he became connected with the editorial staff of the "Chicago Tribune." After his work there he became editor of the New Republic and since giving up that position he has devoted his time to lecturing here and abroad.

The third lecture of the series was given on the evening of March 19, 1936, by Glenn Frank, an outstanding leader of thought in the world of today. Mr. Frank had a world of experience to speak from, having been editor of the "Century Magazine," from which position he resigned to become President of the University of Wisconsin. Also widely known as an author Dr. Franks has published two noteworthy books, "The Politics of Industry" and "An American Looks at the World." Therefore it was with the greatest pleasure that Rutgers welcomed Dr. Frank to its campus as a speaker where his message, "Some Social Changes Ahead," was enthusiastically received.

MILITARY BALL

ALTHOUGH this yearbook will have been "put to bed" long before the Military Ball takes place, certain advance information is available concerning it. This year is to mark an innovation in the annual social function of Scabbard and Blade. An honorary Cadet Colonel and two honorary battalion Commanders will be chosen (by a means not yet decided) to preside at the affair. The honorary colonel will present the regimental colors to the troops in the afternoon, and should greatly add to the final drill of the year. This plan, while new at Rutgers, has worked successfully at many colleges, and should make for a better week-end here. It is also hoped that a few screen celebrities and a prominent illustrator will be present as guests; this, too, would add to the glamor of the week-end.

Many prominent bands have been interviewed, and we are assured of a good one. The chaperones have already been selected and are: Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. John H. Stutesman, Captain and Mrs. William H. Collett, and Captain and Mrs. Kenneth E. Kline.

I. Robert Kriendler, '36, is chairman, and has as his committee: H. D. Fritts, '36, T. R. Rastall, '37, Robert Zimmerman, '36, and J. R. Keating, '36. Judging from past performances, this week-end should be highly successful.

QUEEN'S PLAYERS

QUEEN'S PLAYERS emerged from a period of inactivity this year with the announcement of the production of last season's Broadway success, "Petticoat Fever," by Mark

MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE

SENIOR BALL COMMITTEE

Reed. Mrs. Jane Inge of the dramatic arts department at N. J. C. was invited to direct, and a business department and stage crew were brought into being to serve in the production of the play.

Members of Queen's Players took part in all of the productions of the Little Theatre Workshop Group at the New Jersey College for Women under the direction of Mrs. Inge. The major productions of the group were Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," and "The Shining Hour," by Keith Winter.

WINTER SPORTS WEEK-END

SNOWDRIFTS, tobogganing and skiing, reasoned the optimistic, will offer a welcome relief to examination headaches. Accordingly, since several hundred so reasoned the annual Rutgers-N. J. C. winter sports week-end was so successful that the Inn at Buck Hill Falls was inadequate to accommodate the unusually large group of winter sports enthusiasts.

As in previous years the week-end was sponsored by the Glee Club and was held during the interim between the first and second terms. The highlights of the week-end included skiing (with all its evils for the uninitiated), and other winter sports, followed by a glee club concert, dance, and barbeque in the evening. Following another day of outdoor sports the week-end was brought to a close Sunday afternoon with everyoe thoroughly recovered from all danger of nervous breakdowns due to over-study.

THE SENIOR BALL

THE coming Senior Ball at present writing is the great mystery of the dim and hazy but not so distant Senior Week. Coming as it does on the evening of June seventeenth, preceding graduation, little in the way of definite plans is known. However, Clark Crane Vogel, the people's choice in the electoral battle of a year ago, has promised us that his campaign pledge of "a Senior Ball of which the class of 1936 may be proud" has not been forgotten. The concluding event of our college social life—we are looking forward to it—and trusting in Clark. We understand that assisting him on the committee are: Edward Weh, Herbert Brown, Thomas Black, Robert Zimmerman, Morris Davidson, and Robert Kriendler.

Julian Braun, a devoted student of Spanish, was riding in the subway in N' Yawk City the other day when he observed a young couple standing opposite him speaking the language of Spain. So Julian sociably enough queried, "Hablan ustedes espanol?" . . . Whereupon the man turned around, whipped out a knife, and said in perfect English, "What did you say?"

When it was all over, Jack unfolded about eight feet of DeRosa from a front row seat while a chorus of "Ahs" and "Ohs" greeted the magnificent display from the feminine contingent.

Expert craftsmanship;

Engravings by EMPIRE

Nine different technical operations have been required to make each halftone in this book. From the time copy arrives in the Empire plant until the finished plate is delivered to the printer a total of ninety-eight details must be carefully dispatched.

The phrase, "Engravings by Empire," is a mark of distinction because it is a guarantee of accurate and painstaking craftsmanship. It is a pledge of good faith between customer and engraver.

Experience in business is not so much an indication that a firm has been long established as it is a sign that its craftsmen have mastered their art through constant study and practice over a number of years. Engravings by Empire reflect this experienced skill.

As college men you naturally appreciate quality in craftsmanship, and for this reason we are complimented to serve you once more as engravers for The Scarlet Letter. When in future years you take your place as executives in business — as surely you will — we shall be happy to continue serving your engraving needs.

Freshman Year to Cap and Gown . . .

REVISITED

SOME day you'll go back. You'll see again the friends you know so well . . . the old familiar places rooted in your heart. You'll go to class again, swim, walk the paths, sing on the steps, wave a hand across the morning campus. Some day you'll go back . . . by year book!

For the college year-book, this book, is a living record and a history. Over its pages pass the glamorous procession from freshman year to cap and gown. It freshens the memory, kindles imagination's fire, recalls, in vivid hue, the pageant of four years. It brings to life once more all that made life at college so deep and real.

To the printing of the college year book, Lyon & Armor bring a skill and imagination born of years of knowing how. You see the finished book. But months ago, Lyon & Armor selected the right type face . . . chose the right papers . . . diligently watched over all press-work. If, as we believe, the completed book is a distinguished example of the printers' craft, it is because painstaking care has been taken to make it so.

Lyon & Armor are printers of year books, magazines, house organs, and of commercial and school work in all phases.
