NEW BRUNSWICK · NEW JERSEY

TO GEORGE EDKIN LITTLE, father of a new era of athletics at Rutgers, we dedicate the 1939 Scarlet Letter.

We acclaim all that George Little has done—sponsored large-scale intramurals to provide “athletics for all”—conceived and developed a vast athletic plant—revived rowing—as director of athletics encouraged athletes of seven Rutgers classes—travelled, dreamed, and fought for Rutgers—fostered policies which exalt the ideal of sportsmanship.

We acclaim all that George Little is—thoughtful, creative, impulsive, dynamic, generous—bubbling over with ideas and enthusiasm—unflagging in labor and effort—a champion of progress.

Rutgers and the world need more men like George Little.

PREFACE

No catalogue of scintillating arrangements of word and picture, this 1939 Scarlet Letter. What is probably the most effective device of modern yearbook designing has been abandoned; we have departed from the trend of the times. What sort of unique result we have achieved your judgment must define.

The book was visualized through the perspective of time, and every precaution taken lest it be accepted for anything less than a permanent volume. The intention was that it should forever grace the bookshelves of the men it describes and ever be to them a reference and retrospection into their college lives. Thus the volume is compact and modest, simple in design, and illustrated as completely as possible. According to intention it does justice to Rutgers and her men as fully as the best modern engraving and printing permit.

"Bookish" has been the watchword of the editors from creation to correction, in fact and fancy. It did not seem appropriate that a permanent book should be put out in the modern style of typography so common to catalogues, magazines, and more or less temporary publications. Nor did such ultra-different diagonal designs suit the rich tradition of Old Rutgers. And so the new selection of paper and types in keeping with the custom and spirit of fine printing.

Together with a thorough renovation of typography and composition we have incorporated several innovations in the content which we feel are entirely necessary and justifiable for the completion of this more "personalized" yearbook. These include a cumulative index of the student body and the identification of individuals in the group photographs.

With pride we present our 1939 Scarlet Letter. An exciting adventure to the creators, we hope it will prove a lasting one to the readers . . .

1. THE STORY OF RUTGERS

George the third, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King, defender of the faith, &c. To all to whom these presents shall come, greetings: Whereas our loving subjects being of the protestant reformed religion . . . thinking it necessary and being desirous that a College might be erected within this our province of New-Jersey . . . presented a petition to our trusty and well-beloved William Franklin, Esq., governor and commander in chief, in and over our Province of New-Jersey . . . for a charter . . . we are willing to grant this reasonable request.

FROM SECOND ROYAL CHARTER

TRUSTY and well-beloved" Governor Franklin may have taken the original charter of Rutgers, granted in 1766, to his grave, for it has not been seen since he fled from the province a scant step ahead of the angry rebels. Consequently, Rutgers historians must be content with the Second Royal Charter of 1770, quoted above and pictured at the left. The charters were only the final links in a long chain of events, however.

This old, old college had its real beginning in the mind of one Theodore Frelinghuysen in 1755. Following up unfruitful letters to the Classis of the Dutch Reformed Church in Amsterdam, the colonial promoter made the long sea voyage to the Netherlands to plead the case for his project. His death after the return voyage left the task in the hands of a vigorous young minister, Jacob Hardenbergh, who, incidentally, married Frelinghuysen's widow. Constant efforts won their reward on November 10, 1766, when King George III of England granted the first charter and the college was named "Queen's" in honor of the royal consort, Charlotte.

"The Sign of the Red Lion," a fine old colonial tavern situated at the corner of Albany and Neilson Streets, first housed the infant college, and eighteen-year-old Frederick Frelinghuysen, nephew of old Theodore, was appropriately enough appointed the first tutor. The year 1791 saw Queen's moved to a small frame building at George and Livingston Streets, where a monument now commemorates the event. And, finally, in 1809, the trustees purchased a site and engaged John McComb, a noted architect, to design Old Queen's building in order to bring the college "to that pitch of public utility which the present view of things seems to encourage."

In an era of hard times soon after the completion of this structure, the Dutch Reformed Seminary was brought to New Brunswick to give the college a strong supporter. Two decades later, in 1825, Colonel Henry Rutgers became interested and donated the bell which still rings out from the cupola in Queen's building. When looking for a name more in keeping with the spirit of American independence, to replace the misnomer, "Queen's," the trustees naturally selected "Rutgers College" in honor of the rich philanthropist.

A great increase in enrollment brought with it the first fraternity, Delta Phi, in 1845, and from that time forth the Greek-letter groups flourished. "Holy Hill" took shape after the students complained to the church of the crowded conditions in Queen's in the hot summer of 1856. Rutgers was selected as the land-grant college of New Jersey at the close of the Civil War, and the increased funds available permitted establishment of the Rutgers Scientific School, now known as the College of Agriculture. Many buildings were added in this century, including Geology Hall, Kirkpatrick Chapel, New Jersey Hall, Winants Hall, Ballantine Gymnasium, and the Voorhees Library.

Rutgers' outstanding contribution to American sports sprang from the form of soccer played by groups of students in the early 'sixties. By 1869, rules had been evolved, and on November 6th a large crowd of spectators lined the fences of College Field, where the gymnasium now stands, to see Rutgers defeat Princeton in the first intercollegiate game of football. The intense rivalry which ensued was one of the causes of the famous "Cannon War" with Old Nassau in 1875—part of the rich tradition of both institutions. The Targum had begun publication in 1867, in time to record these great events.

After the turn of the century the growth of Rutgers was rapid. Dormitories were added at intervals to develop the facilities now extant; Engineering, Chemistry, Ceramics, Van Dyck, and other classroom buildings were erected; all these after the donation of Neilson Campus in 1906. Students began attending classes at the Summer Session two years before the 150th Anniversary Celebration of 1916. Two years after this event New Jersey College for Women was established by the trustees as a part of what had become the State University of New Jersey in 1917.

With the addition of the School of Education, the college became large enough to be termed a university, and this it was in 1924. The School of Pharmacy in Newark and the School of Chemistry were included, and in 1931 the new gymnasium was erected after fire gutted the Ballantine Gymnasium. To extend its influence as a state institution of education, Rutgers received the branch of extension and evening study included under the name of University College in 1934, in the third year of Dr. Robert C. Clothier's presidency.

The most recent acquisition has been the extensive River Road Campus. It has been developed into intramural facilities centered by the million-dollar stadium. The dedication of that plant is still fresh in the minds of Rutgers men; not soon to be forgotten is the memorable defeat of Princeton's football team there on November 5, 1938, a feat not accomplished since the first game of football in 1869.

OLD QUEEN'S

THE RUMBLINGS of impending war were distant but audible to the good citizens of New Brunswick in the year 1809. Yet to a group of earnest men they went unheard, for a matter of much more concern was the laying of the cornerstone of Old Queen's on June twenty-third.

John McComb was the foremost architect of the time. He had built several churches in New York which are unexcelled even today. He designed New York's City Hall, with which Queen's has many features in common. Both are considered outstanding examples of Georgian-Colonial architecture. Upon acceptance of McComb's plan by the committee in 1809, work was begun on Queen's. Stone was chosen instead of brick for the sake of economy, and still the cost of construction exceeded expectations. The plans were twice altered to eliminate ornament and detail and to reduce the building to the plain, yet gracious, lines which every Rutgers man holds as a treasured memory. The building, completed, was destined to be the heart and symbol of a great college.

The dignity of age—and the tradition that goes inseparably with it all—makes Old Queen's the symbol of Rutgers. The ancient stones of her hallowed walls have been witness to the history of just one hundred and thirty years. Incidents, such as the birth of a boy, William Mabon, in 1822, within the walls from whose shelter he walked in 1840 as a graduate; the burial of a man in the well on Queen's campus; the stealthy purloining of the clappers of the bell of Queen's—which even now are the prized andirons of a fraternity house—all these cast a mantle of legend and semi-mystery over her.

*My heart clings closer than the ivy,
As life runs out its fleeting span
To the stately, ancient walls
Of her hallowed, classic halls . . .*

2. MEN ARE MY TEACHERS

*Trees and fields teach me nothing;
men are my teachers.* PLATO

PERSONAL contact and association as an element in the educational process is so frequently disregarded today that we can but lament the loss wherever it occurs. At the same time, however, we feel great satisfaction in knowing that Rutgers has always cherished its faculty-student relationships as a valuable adjunct to learning.

The old philosopher, Plato, might have meant more than is implied in the one sentence above; but even that much is true to a degree. Every Rutgers man realizes that equally as important as the subject matter are the teachers, and from the latest appointee and youngest instructor to the president, the same spirit of friendly cooperation should prevail—and does.

To pay tribute, then, to those who are constantly laboring to impart their knowledge to us and to fit us for a better life, we pause in our history of a college year.

President Robert Clarkson Clothier has been as much one of our teachers as he has been the motivating influence behind University policies and administration. In his seven years at the head of Rutgers he has gained the admiration and respect of everyone with whom he has been associated, both for his qualities as a man and for his sound, far-sighted administrative principles. Under his guidance, we may look forward to years to come with the knowledge that Rutgers University will continue to enjoy in ever-increasing measure an honored position among the nation's foremost institutions of learning.

Our tribute to all the teachers and administrators who follow is a collective one, but genuinely sincere. It is a matter of regret that we cannot picture all of them here—memory must be the only record of those whom space and circumstance prevented our including.

*I announce the Great Individual, fluid
as Nature, chaste, affectionate, compassionate, fully armed. . . .*

WALT WHITMAN

COLLEGE is, after all, a collection of individual personalities, and we are more concerned with its men than with its campus or its history. As Commencement Day draws near, we are concerned most of all with the Great Individual who stands at last upon the threshold of the world at large. He should fulfill Walt Whitman's description—and for the most part the average Rutgers senior does. Before presenting the separate talents of its members, however, we pause to consider the Class of 1939 as a whole.

A group of 419 meek freshmen, the class was the largest since 1928, and its size worried the sophomores from the break-up of the freshman "pee-rade." The football team was good but its numbers dwindled. The class diminished, likewise, though the drop to 349 sophomores was said to be the lowest mortality rate in five years. Randy Dodge was sophomore president and promoter of the first Sophomore Barbecue. Dick Coe took over the office the next year as leader of 307 juniors, and class members revived the Varsity Show. Rochelle is senior president, Hitchner is Ball chairman, and Doyle is secretary-treasurer. Most memorable to the 285 seniors were the stadium dedication and greatest football season in history. In the Targum poll the class members predicted they would each be earning $2,500 per year by 1944. Bruyere and Rochelle were named most popular, Bruyere the best all-around man and the best looking, Rochelle the one who had done the most for Rutgers, Toffey and Brown the most literary, Toffey the best dressed, and Doyle the most likely to succeed.

Literary Stu Brown . . . suave Ike Toffey . . . Jim Doyle, bound to succeed . . . poll-winner Ernie Patten . . . chairman Steve Hitchner . . . popular Walt Bruyere . . . president Mort Rochelle.

EDWARD AARON has commuted from Elizabeth, where he was born on August 23, 1917. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Aaron, he lives at 804 First Avenue and is a graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School. He earned part of his college expenses repairing bicycles.

His work in the biological sciences was promising enough to merit his selection to Beta Iota Lambda in his junior year. Interest in other fields was shown by his courses in art, English, and social psychology. He is a member of the Biology Club.

RANNEY GEORGE ADAMS, Jr., member of Student Council, is basketball manager and advertising manager of Targum. He has taken part in both activities for four years in addition to his one year in crew and debating. In Chi Phi fraternity he is house manager.

Ranney's liberal course has accented business management, finance, accounting, and auditing.

Born in Weehawken on December 27, 1917, he later moved to Bogota, where his parents now live at 120 Maple Avenue. He is from Bogota High School.

ANGELO ANGELIDES, who has majored in biological science, plans to study medicine and become a country doctor. A "local boy," he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Angelides of 21 Bayard Street. He was born in New Brunswick twenty-two years ago, on September 22. Middle name—Panageotis.

"Ang" was graduated from New Brunswick High School after but three and one-half years there. Since then he has spent his summers selling shoes and slinging sodas, the rest of the years studying biology and liberal subjects.

FREDERICK REA ANSPACH, IV, coming from a long line of Frederick Anspachs, has concentrated on the study of soil chemistry. He was elected to Alpha Zeta and was an active member of the Ag Club for four years.

He played saxophone in the Band and with the "Jazz Bandits," and his sax-playing earned him a trip to Paris on a liner after his junior year.

Fred lives on College Farm and gives that as his permanent address, though he comes from Sewell. His mother, Mrs. Effe Anspach, lives at Somerset, Pa.

Van was born in New Brunswick on November 30, 1917. Having been raised on a farm, he has a liking for agriculture and outdoor activities. He played football, worked out a bit for track, and won an "R" in cross-country. He is an active member of Alpha Zeta.

ALFRED RICHARD VAN HOVEN of 198 Ridge Road, Rutherford, is a chef of no mean ability. For the past four years Van, turning his hobby of cooking into cash, has earned his way through college. He not only has supplied the "ags" at Alpha Phalpa with eats, but also has piloted them as president.

Van's activities in agriculture have been wide, and in his senior year he was president of the Ag Club. Summers he worked on a farm. Born February 4, 1916, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving H. Van Hoven.

JAMES POST VAN PERNIS resides at 7618 South Wood Street, Chicago, Illinois. Hertzog Hall has been his college home. A student of history and political science, Jim has been here for three years, coming from Chicago Christian College.

As a sophomore, Jim was a debater and a member of the History Club. For the past two years he has been a chapel usher and an active member of the Rutgers Christian Association.

Upon completion of his liberal course Jim plans to enter the Seminary.

CHARLES VARGA of 206 Ogden Avenue, Jersey City, came to Rutgers to prepare for medical school. Charlie was born on April 29, 1918, in Weehawken. He graduated from Dickinson High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Varga.

Charlie was manager of sophomore debating and a member of the German Club for four years. German seems to be his strong point, for he was elected to Delta Phi Alpha and made vice-president of it last year. Charlie's favorite "sport" is working in biology.

JOSEPH VARHOL, an embryo doctor from 207 Howard Avenue, Passaic, has spent his four years in biology.

Joe is almost always to be found in New Jersey Hall. During his junior and senior years his activities in the Biology Club kept him there even more. In the summertime he has gotten practice for his profession by working at the N. J. State Village for Epileptics.

He now lives with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Varhol.

Born December 18, 1917, he is a graduate of Passaic High School.

WILLIAM FULTON VEENSTRA, known as "Mouse" to the brothers of Phi Gamma Delta, is a native of Paterson, having been born there on March 13, 1919. His mother, Mrs. Myra F. Veenstra, lives in that city at 90 Auburn Street.

As a freshman young-but-not-green he managed baseball and put on the mitts for Coach Gorman. A dabbler in 150-pound football and the Deutscher Verein, he has been active in the Yacht Club. At present he belongs to the Society of American Military Engineers.

JOHN INGRAHAM WALKER, originally from far-off Eugene, Oregon, now lives at 29 Jones Avenue, New Brunswick. He is completing the business administration course, majoring in labor.

Jack was born November 5, 1918, and was graduated from the New Brunswick High School.

In his spare time he rides horseback in the environs of Rutgers.

A member of the Honor School since his entrance as a freshman, he resides with his aunt, Miss Mabel L. Cummings.

EDWARD ALLEN WALSH was born in the Bronx, September 13, 1915. He prepared at New Brunswick High School.

For four years Len has debated on the varsity team, and has been a member of the Scarlet Letter staff for three. As a junior he won first prize in the Society of Colonial Wars essay contest.

An undergraduate assistant in economics, he plans future graduate study. A member of A.K.II., he lives at the home of his mother, Mrs. Lillie Walsh, at 231 Montgomery Street, Highland Park.

EDWARD LAURENCE WEBSTER, Jr., a history major, expects to become a lawyer. Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Webster, he prepared at Wildwood High.

Ed's college years have been full: he has been a member of the Barb Council, president of the Commuters' Club, an active member of the Friends' Group, a full time debater, and a member of the Honor School. In his spare time he has sold brushes, worked two nights a week at the Neighborhood House, coached the freshman debaters, and acted as a preceptor at the Student Union building.

NATHAN WEGODSKY, of 361 Fulton Avenue, Jersey City, lived on Easton Avenue while at Rutgers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel S. Wegodsky, was born April 1, 1917, and is a graduate of Lincoln High School of Jersey City.

He is a journalism major and plans to do newspaper work in the future. "Wiggy" was a member of the baseball and cross-country squads in his freshman year. Since then he has concentrated on study. Result was his election to the Honor School in his junior year.

LLOYD GEORGE WEINBERGER, from 96 Meade Avenue, Passaic, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Weinberger.

He won his varsity "R" in golf for three years and has served as captain of the team for the last two. As a junior he won the intramural golf championship. Tennis and management of the swimming team have also taken some of Lloyd's time. A political science major, his future is law school, and during summers he worked in law offices. He is a Sigma Alpha Mu and a member of the Scarlet Key.

ELI LEOPOLD WEISMAN, of 645 West End Avenue, New York City, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Weisman.

"Blackie" has been out for crew, basketball, and Anthologist for one year, was on the Board of Managers, in the Varsity Show, Journalism Club, Press Photography Club, and Spiked Shoe for two years, on the Targum for three years, and was track manager and in Queen's Players for four years.

A Sigma Alpha Mu and a journalism major, he is a future editor or actor.

CHARLES MANUEL WEISS lives at 2 Keer Avenue, Newark, but lived at 215 Wessels while at Rutgers. Charlie's curriculum has been sanitary science with graduate work as his future. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weiss and was born December 7, 1918, in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

For four years he was a member of the Biology Club and the Raritan Photographic Society. As a sophomore he was a debating manager, and during the last two years he worked on the Targum.

TUNIS SUYDAM WILLIAMSON, known as Ted to all his friends, has spent the past four years dabbling in biology, cycling, cross-country, and astronomy. Ted lives at 1034 Kenyon Avenue, Plainfield, and plans to teach biology.

Ted is seen most in the library, likes to study, and enjoys doing experiments. He has been a member of the Scarlet Barbarians, the Rutgers Christian Association, and the Scarlet Rifles.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Williamson, he matriculated at Plainfield High School before entering Rutgers.

ALBERT EDWARD WILSON, known intimately as "Uncle Moe," plans to apply his fluency with a typewriter to newspaper work. His course is business ad.

He worked up to senior editorships on Targum and Scarlet Letter and was editor of the 1942 and 1943 Freshman Handbooks. Four years in Glee Club, he is president of Delta Upsilon.

A graduate of Montclair High, Al is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus L. Wilson of 59 Watchung Avenue, Upper Montclair. He reached 22 on February 21st.

DAVID WINARSKY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eza Winarsky, was born on March 3, 1918, in Newark. His home is at 815 Hunterdon Street, Newark. He is a graduate of Weequahic High School.

For the first two years in college, Dave commuted. He is an agriculture major with a particular interest in pomology. His scholarship has entitled him to membership in Alpha Zeta. He belongs to the Ag and Hortus Clubs and was on the apple judging team. In the summertime Dave worked for the Soil Conservation Service.

JOHN DAVIDSON WINTER, of 31 Winfield Avenue, Jersey City, is a member of the economics curriculum.

John is a member of Student Council, Cap and Skull, and Tau Kappa Alpha, and has been in debating and swimming for four years, winning his varsity award in the latter. For his first two years he was tennis manager and a crew man. In his spare time he handles the student agency for the New York Herald Tribune.

He prepared at Lincoln High School and is undecided as to his future.

ARTHUR BURNETT WINTERS, a Zeta Psi and chancellor of Alpha Zeta, also belongs to the Ag and Hortus Clubs, was a freshman cross-country runner, and among his agriculture courses finds horticultural science most interesting.

In the fall it is "tramping through the woods of northern New Jersey with a gun over his shoulder and a dog pulling at the leash," he reports.

Bud is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Winters and was born on June 8, 1917, at Little Falls. His home address is R.F.D. 2, Paterson.

JAMES EARL WOOD, history teacher-to-be, supplemented his School of Education courses with experience as business manager of Scarlet Letter and Band, drumming in that organization, mile-runner in track for two years and cross-country runner for one, and Scarlet Key membership. He left the drums in his senior year to direct the Band. He is vice-president of Beta Theta Pi.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wood, was born March 16, 1917, and lives at 411 Crown Street, Morrisville, Pa.

HAROLD BOYD WOODRUFF, cook, photographer, poultry man, watchman, and honor student from Bridgeton, plans to continue his study of soil chemistry.

Though he confesses to falling asleep during lectures, Boyd was elected a member of the honorary "ag" society, Alpha Zeta.

Boyd, commonly associated with the "green flivver" seen on campus, was secretary of the Ag Club, a member of the Scarlet Barbs, and on the frosh track team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Woodruff.

CARL RAYMOND WOODWARD, Jr.—height 6'2", size 13 shoe—is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Carl R. Woodward of 253 Lawrence Avenue, Highland Park.

A graduate of New Brunswick High School, Carl has commuted to college for four years. He has an uncle and a cousin who are graduates of Rutgers.

Manager of wrestling for his first two years, he was also active in the Biology Club. Interested in public health, he is in the mathematics and natural science course. He is a Phi Gamma Delta.

JOSEPH KIRKBRIDE WRIGHT, Jr. lives in the Theta Chi fraternity on campus and has a permanent address at 1716 Ferry Avenue, Camden.

Joe has been out for 150-pound football and lacrosse. He has represented Theta Chi in Scarlet Key and Interfraternity Council. A regular on the Targum staff for four years, he acted as business manager his senior year. The Newman Club claimed his interest also.

An agriculture student, he plans a future in the dairy business. His birth date is February 8, 1916.

RICHARD JACK YADWIN, resident of Phi Epsilon Pi throughout his college life, is a native of Elizabeth, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Yadwin of 512 Chilton Street. He was born in his home town on December 3, 1917. He graduated from Jefferson High School.

His immediate plans are to enter law school, to follow up his study of history and political science.

A member of Scarlet Key; noted for driving autos and motorcycles at a rather rapid gait; his chief hobby has been repairing old "jalopies."

HARRY HILL YOUNGS, Jr. of 262 Knox Avenue, Grantwood, is an agricultural student.

Track captain and cross-country man, Harry has won letters in both, and was elected to Spiked Shoe. During his last two years he has represented his fraternity, Tau Kappa Epsilon, on the Interfraternity Council.

For three summers he worked in a shortening plant, but in spite of it he reaches the six foot mark. Harry wants to be a bacteriologist. May 30, 1917, is Harry's birth date.

WILLIS NORMAN ZENK, Rutgers champion hitch-hiker from Eureka, South Dakota, has traveled over 27,000 miles, visiting all the states and seven national parks. From these centers of interest he has made a large collection of rocks.

"Willie," a history major, was born on May 3, 1916.

A member of the Scarlet Barbs Council, the Rutgers Christian Association Cabinet, and the League of Evangelical Students, he plans to enter a seminary. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Zenk.

ALLISON VICTOR ZIEGLER, known as "Vic" to college classmates and "Hubby" to Mrs. Ziegler, is planning to enter mechanical engineering.

Born March 10, 1916, Vic commutes to Rutgers daily from 144 Camden Street, Roselle Park.

A somnambulist at night, he is most often found during the day in the engineering building.

Receiving his secondary education in the Roselle Park High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Ziegler of that city.

JOHN WALTER ZIMMERMAN, Jr. is a local student living at 61 Nichol Avenue with his parents. He commutes daily by bicycle.

Born on March 30, 1918, in New Brunswick, Jack graduated from the local schools and is now enrolled in the electrical engineering department.

During his first two years he was on the R.O.T.C. Scarlet Rifles but dropped the gun for the sword and took up fencing. Elected to A.S.M.E. as a junior, he is a member of Tau Beta Pi and belongs to the Raritan Club.

MICHAEL JOSEPH ZIOBRO plans to follow up his studies as a physical educational student by teaching and coaching football in a high school.

A regular on the 150-pound football team in his junior year, he won his letter in that sport. He also has played freshman basketball.

He lives at 75 Geneva Street, Elizabeth.

From June to September he served as a camp counselor and life guard. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Boleslaw Ziobro, he is a graduate of Jefferson High.

PHILIP ARTHUR BERLIN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Berlin, comes from Ramsey but has lived at his fraternity, Phi Epsilon Pi, while at school. Anxious to get into business, he has lived in New York during his last year working three days a week and going to Rutgers the other three.

Nicknamed "Feignter" because of his boxing, he k.o.'ed a letter in that sport as a sophomore. As a frosh he also went out for crew and Targum, and for two years was secretary of Interfraternity Council.

EDWARD LEO KRAFT has pursued the electrical engineering courses and managed to be elected to Tau Beta Pi, finally acting as its vice-president during his senior year.

Ed was born in Lakewood, Ohio, on May 18, 1918 and now resides with his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kraft, at 738 Cleveland Avenue, Elizabeth.

A good horseman, Ed acts as a riding assistant during the summers. He has wrestled as a freshman and was out for 150-pound football as a junior.

He is from Thomas Jefferson High.

CARL WILLIAM FILSINGER is a soldier and scientist whose hobby is sailing. An officer in the R.O.T.C. he is a member of the American Society of Military Engineers. Majoring in entomology he plans to do graduate work in that line. His first love is the water, and he is on it as often as possible.

A member of Chi Psi fraternity, Carl is a graduate of Westfield High School.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Filsinger, who reside at 1114 Grandview Avenue, Westfield. He was born February 17, 1917, in Bayonne.

THEODORE MALINOWSKI was born in Passaic and raised in Bayonne. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Malinowski, he is a graduate of the Bayonne High School and now lives at 164 West 9th Street in the "great oil city."

Ted is one of the students in the College of Electrical Engineering who expects to enter the field of radio engineering.

Although a commuter for four years, he still has found time to tinker with radio sets.

His birth date is December 14, 1914.

JOHN WILLIAM MCKEOWN, Jr. prepared for Susquehanna University at the Perth Amboy High School. In 1938 he graduated from that college and received a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Entering Rutgers in September, 1938, he has taken the course in history, for he desires to go into a seminary in order to take up the ministry.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKeown, who live at 389 Laurie Street in Perth Amboy, "Mac" has commuted to school every day. His short stay at Rutgers has necessarily limited his activities.

Because some senior portraits were not available, the candid's opposite: Spring-time is conducive to study? Recognize Big Bill Tranavitch under the soap? Prof Joff' and his attentive students. How many times have you looked upon those gates? Study of a brain-straining game. See the campus through a "telescope." Looks like the night before a quiz. How an Antho cover is made by our "frontispiece photographer." That shady walk to Physics, Chem, and points north. Finally, the beginning and end of a cross-town stroll for the "bathrobe boys."

HOWARD ALEXANDER MUELLER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mueller of 355 Bergen Avenue, Jersey City, is a graduate of the Newark College of Pharmacy in the class of 1931. While there he received a degree of Ph.G. At present he is majoring in chemistry. An Alpha Chi Rho man, Harry was born on February 7, 1910.

Most of the time at his disposal has been spent working in the various drug stores in New Brunswick, and upon graduation he expects to go into the wholesale pharmacy business.

RICHARD LEWIS SCHULTZ travels back and forth from Trenton where he resides at 1 Perry Avenue. Dick is a transfer from the University of Delaware, studying for two years at Rutgers. His work in American colleges was interrupted for a stay at the University of Paris. Upon his return he emphasized the French courses in his language and literature curriculum. In his spare time he has tutored French and he hopes to make the grade as a language professor.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Schultz, he prepared at Trenton High.

More "candid" by Jackson." Officers of the great Class of 1941—Siry, Ritter, and Johannessenn. An angelic group from the Kirkpatrick Chapel Choir raising a Hymn to Queen's. More leaders of the sophomores, the cabinet members, hard at work. Officers of the Class of 1940—Kloos, Ritchings, and Gaynor. Tuesday afternoon in the life of a sophomore or freshman, spent playing the old army game and hoping for rest periods. It's your guess as to what is the attraction that fixes the gaze of the last group of students (and prof).

ROBERT LEWIS SCHWERIN prepared for Rutgers in the schools of London. At first it was Ravensfield College in north-west London, then Eltham College in southeast London, and finally Polytechnic which is in the center of London. His present address is 47 West Pierrepont Avenue, Rutherford.

Bob is a business ad student who plans market research in advertising as his future. He belongs to the Raritan Club, the Quad, Newman, and Lutheran Clubs. Born July 9, 1917, his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Schwerin.

CHRISTIAN ALEXIS STRANDBOE, III, plans to follow his journalism course with foreign newspaper correspondence. His speed-graphic has provided him with a good part of his expenses, and he also applied his hobby as photo editor of Scarlet Letter.

Baseball, basketball, and crew at intervals, and Math, German, and Journalism Clubs have occupied his spare time. Son of Mrs. Grace F. Brown, he was born in New York, October 8, 1917, and resides at 970 Lorraine Avenue, Union.

THOMAS JOSEPH ZWIERLEIN, who plans to teach and coach, supplemented his physical education courses by teaching in New York after his practice work, by serving as a varsity trainer for three years, and by giving swimming instruction at the Colony Surf Club.

Tom is probably most remembered as "Daisy" in the 1938 Varsity Show. Born on Decoration Day, 1915, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zwierlein, he lives in Freehold. He went to Ridgefield (Conn.) High and the Ridgefield School for Boys.

JUNIOR-SOPHOMORE HISTORY

THE CLASS OF 1940, which entered Rutgers 430 strong and came into its junior year with 340 men still in good standing, found its importance as a part of the University increased a great deal during the past year. Those "promising sophomore stars" of last year's teams—including five in varsity football, four in 150-pound football, one in basketball, four in baseball, four in lacrosse, four in crew, seven in track—were even more valuable to Rutgers athletics as juniors. The class crew, which won the interclass regatta two years in a row, came in second.

The officers elected to serve throughout the junior year were Robert Gaynor, president; Arthur Ritchings, vice-president; and Edward Kloos, secretary-treasurer. Ritchings managed a most successful Junior Prom on February 17, bringing alumnus Ozzie Nelson '27 and his band back to the campus for their first appearance since 1932. After the Prom the class scheduled other activities, chief among them the annual junior smoker. Thus the class upheld its social reputation established by the Sophomore Hop of the previous year. With but one year of its existence left, the undergraduate Class of 1940 was making ready to take over the leadership of the undergraduate body as this went to press.

THE CLASS OF 1941, largest in Rutgers history, found 83 per cent of its original 542 members back in the fold for the second year, and forty of its men comprising the largest class delegation in the Honor School. An unusually ambitious group of officers included George Ritter, president; Joseph Siry, vice-president; and George Johannessen, secretary-treasurer. Attempting to establish "democratic rule," the officers put all decisions regarding class policy up to discussion and vote of a class cabinet. Vice-President Siry served as chairman of the Sophomore Hop in December. A profit of $526 poured into the class treasury after 600 couples had danced to the slide music of Will Osborne and his band.

An innovation was the establishment of the Keepers of the Queen's Traditions, brainchild of sophomore vigilantes who were anxious to make the freshmen walk the straight and narrow path. Formed to "instill respect for freshman rules into the blackened souls of erring yearlings," the group of Keepers formed a court for trial of disobedient frosh and subdued a rebellion promoted by the Committee for the Protection of the Class of 1942. In athletics the sophomores produced a championship crew, made up other teams to represent the class, and turned out for varsity teams. Bert Hasbrouck was the leading soph gridster, winning the Cronin Trophy, while Tom McKinney of the 150's won an all-American position. Some forty men from the class played on varsity teams.

4. HONOURS ARE SHADOWS

*Honours are shadows, which from seekers fly;
But follow after those who them deny.*

RICHARD BAXTER

OF ALL the honorary societies on the Rutgers campus, CAP AND SKULL probably is the most important for indicating the well-rounded man. Founded in 1900, the organization is limited to twelve seniors each year; nomination is by a Board of Electors whose selections are based on a comprehensive point system. The coveted award marks men of extraordinary achievement in all phases of college activity.

Membership in PHI BETA KAPPA represents the highest scholastic honor attainable at Rutgers. Selection is based principally upon the candidate's scholastic record, and his manifestation of intellectual curiosity and enthusiasm. Alpha Chapter of New Jersey, established in 1869, has been extremely active, and at intervals throughout the year the society is addressed by prominent speakers.

The cultivation of literature and the arts among Rutgers men is the object of PHILOSOPHIAN, the oldest literary society on campus. This year Philosophian has sponsored a subscription series to eight of the outstanding productions of the New York dramatic season. At the regular meetings of the society guest speakers present discourses on literary topics. Seniors prominent in the literary field are eligible for membership. Edwin Schneider is president, Akin Toffey, vice-president, John Ludlum, secretary.

Peskin, Petrie, Quadt, Reichardt B. Schwartz, Updike, Walsh, Webster, Wegodsky, Winters, Woodruff, Chodorow, Rubins, Michelson.

PHILOSOPHIAN (lower): front—Edmondston, Rothen, Schneider, Houghtaling, Gerber, Silvers; rear—Ludlum, Toffey, Shirk, Meury, S. P. Brown. Others—Updike.

Collegiate interest in military affairs is promoted by the national organization of SCABBARD AND BLADE. Membership, strictly on an honor basis, requires notable achievement in the advanced R.O.T.C. course. Company C-5, commissioned here in 1923, has Major Arvid P. Croonquist, Inf., as faculty advisor. Marshall Rothen is captain, Grover Coe and Paul Harvey are lieutenants, and Willard Smith is first sergeant. Its purposes are to develop civic thought among its members and to help prepare them to advise their communities in military policies.

PI GAMMA is the honorary and professional society for journalists showing exceptional proficiency in newspaper reporting. Juniors and seniors, and occasionally sophomores, are elected to membership after serving an apprenticeship of one year. News of Rutgers, both sports and general, is gathered by members and dispatched to twenty or more New York, New Jersey, and Philadelphia papers, and to three news agencies. John Casey is president, Harry Joffe is vice-president, and Edward Isaacs is secretary. The work is coordinated by Jack N. Wallace, assistant director of public relations of the University.

The official host for the University is SCARLET KEY, the junior honorary society. Formed in 1926, its members are elected by each fraternity and neutral living-group. Functioning as a body and as separate individuals, the members welcome and entertain visiting athletic teams, while the annual Scarlet Key dance has become an important date on the Rutgers social calendar. Frederick Prosser is president, and Theodore Smith vice-president. The membership restriction bars any man who has earned a varsity letter.

The national society of PHI LAMBDA UPSILON was organized for the promotion of high scholarship and original investigation in all branches of pure and applied chemistry. The Sigma chapter has been governed this past year by Louis Kazalski, president; Charles Reichhardt, vice-president; Gardner Foulke, secretary, and Ellwood Hammaker, treasurer. Activities of the society include a freshman reception, at which the annual chemistry prize is awarded, talks by members, and special lectures by faculty and outside speakers.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA is an honorary scholastic fraternity, admitting men to membership who intend to enter the teaching profession and who possess adequate personal qualifications and high academic standing. The officers of the Rutgers chapter are August Kursar, president, Philip Craig, vice-president, and Rodney Ford, secretary-treasurer. Through the precepts of this national professional fraternity, efforts are made to unify and maintain the ideals of the teachers of the nation.

Rutgers' representative of the national honorary agricultural fraternity, Cook Chapter of ALPHA ZETA, was chartered in 1922. The objects of the organization include the advancement of agriculture, and the development of high standards of scholarship, leadership, and fellowship among agricultural students. The officers of the past year have been Arthur Winters, chancellor; John Lippincott, censor; and George Shimp, chronicler. Membership in the organization is defined by election among the outstanding students in the College of Agriculture.

PHI LAMBDA UPSILON (top): seated—Reichardt, Kazalski, Foulke; standing—Nield, B. Schwartz, Hammaker, Maggio, Green. Others—Christopher, Levine, Kleiner, Kunin, Reid, W. Smith, Staley, Wall, Wendler.

The recognition of those who have attained distinguished scholarship in engineering is the foremost purpose of the society of TAU BETA PI. Both undergraduates and graduates are eligible for membership in this national honorary organization. Although scholastic achievement is the primary requisite for election, selections are also influenced by integrity, breadth of interest, adaptability, and cooperative activity. Kenneth McAllister, president; Edward Kraft, vice-president; John Zimmerman, secretary, and Arthur Patch, treasurer, are the officers.

The national honorary forensic society of TAU KAPPA ALPHA was founded in 1908. The Rutgers chapter has been in existence since 1929. Professor Richard Reager, faculty advisor of the Rutgers chapter, is also vice-president of the eighty chapters comprising the national organization. The qualifications for membership include individual skill in debating and participation in several intercollegiate debates. Lawrence Pitt acted as president and Carleton Dilatush as secretary-treasurer during the past year.

DELTA PHI ALPHA is a national honorary German fraternity. Membership in the society is limited to those students whose proficiency in the German language and literature will enable them to carry out the purpose of Delta Phi Alpha, that of distributing a wider knowledge and appreciation of German art and culture. German plays are presented by the society, and seminar meetings are held. Harvey Einhorn, president; Charles Varga, vice-president; Max Horlick, secretary, are the current officers.

TAU BETA PI (top): seated—Dean Daggett, Kraft, McAllister, Patch, Prof. Bailey; standing—Marszalowicz, Hunt, Zimmerman, R. Thompson, Shakell.

TAU KAPPA ALPHA (middle): on the floor—Kerzner, Gaynor, H. Schulkind, Murphy, Ganz, Reichelderfer, Sharp; second—Lifshitz, Weingold, McCurdy, M. Friedman, Pitt, Dilatush, Singer, P. and D. Dembling; third—Gerhardt, Winter, Schooley, Webster, Greetin, Levin, Post, Pollack, Van Dillen, Mehrhof, Isenmann, Talbot, Tasker.

DELTA PHI ALPHA (lower): seated—Prof. Waas, Prof. Haar, Einhorn, Prof. Holzmann, Prof. Bayerschmidt; standing—Veltre, Todd, Varga, Horlick, Kerzner, Chodorow. Others—Altreuter, Colonna, Soperstein, Sinclair, Pollack.

BETA IOTA LAMBDA, the local honorary biology fraternity, was organized in 1935. At the first meeting it was decided that the society should devote itself to a consideration of the basic principles of the biological sciences, and this resolution has always guided the society in the determination of a program. Only outstanding students in the biological curriculum are eligible for membership, and the activities of the society are augmented by independent projects of immediate value to the members. The officers for the year were: Harvey Einhorn, president, and Charles Rogers, secretary-treasurer. Both are senior members.

In 1933, Zeta chapter of PI ALPHA XI, the national honorary floriculture fraternity, was established at Rutgers. The fundamental purpose of the society is to stimulate interest in professional floriculture, to foster original investigation, and to spread new developments. Membership is awarded to qualified students who have shown initiative in the field. Paul Bender, president, Henry Bosenberg, secretary, and George Higgins, treasurer, directed the program during the year.

SPIKED SHOE is a national collegiate honorary organization whose purpose is to promote track in all its branches and to recognize track achievement. Membership is by election and all track men are eligible. Spiked Shoe sponsors three intramural track meets each year; the intramural cross-country meet, the polar bear meet, and the intramural track meet. Silver loving cups are awarded to the winning teams, and medals are given to the individual winners. The year's officers were Harry Youngs, president, and Frank Golbey, secretary-treasurer.

SPIKED SHOE (lower): seated—Malay, Golbey, Youngs, Weisman; standing—Harvey, Schreiber Meury, S. Schwartz. Others—Bruyere, Hoffman, Mullen, Baxter, Tranavitch.

5. IN THE SOCIAL SWIRL

*On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined;
No sleep till morn, when Youth and Pleasure meet
To chase the glowing hours with flying feet.*

LORD BYRON

SOCIAL activities set in the day college opened, gained momentum as undergraduates renewed old acquaintances and made new ones, swirled through the football season in sporty mood, and reached the social pinnacle, if there is such a thing, on the weekend of December second. More than seven hundred couples attended the Sophomore Hop which proved to be one of the most colorful affairs in Rutgers' long history.

The Gym, camouflaged with weeping Spanish moss and evergreen boughs, was transformed into a mysterious bayou, reminiscent of the Deep South. An impromptu evergreen grove provided a novel setting for the scintillating rhythms of Will Osborne's popular band. Tunnels of leaves and branches cleverly concealed the entrances on either side of the dance floor. A rustic fence separated the dimly lighted pool from the dancers. In keeping with the motif of the decorations, a surprising number of young ladies swished about in rustling taffeta and dramatic velvet fashioned into the newest style sensations—strapless hoop-skirted gowns. Hair was piled high on pretty heads, adding to the illusion of belles of Civil War days.

The committee for the Hop was headed by Joseph Siry. Assisting him were Ronald Eardley in charge of decorations; Roy Darby, music; Edward Levitsky, tickets; James Ferris, chaperones; and Joseph Barbash, publicity. The chaperones for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reed Silvers and Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Johnson. Governor and Mrs. A. Harry Moore were to be guests of honor but a last minute engagement made this impossible.

The first informal affair of the season was Scarlet Key's annual football dance, held on October first after the Rutgers-Vermont game. Lee Temple and his band, local favorites, furnished sweet music, adding a pert dash of swing "jive" and clever imitations of the nation's top-notch bands. The Gym was gaily decorated with the multi-colored fraternity banners which heightened the prevailing collegiate atmosphere. The usual tinted lights glared upon the dancers from corners of the balcony, stirring up swirls of shadows. Richard Van Nostrand '40 was dance chairman.

President and Mrs. Clothier invited the freshmen of Rutgers and the Women's College to their annual reception on October fourteenth. The largest attendance yet, nine hundred students, was at hand to enjoy the swing tempos of Bob Grasmere and his smooth orchestra, the Queensmen, more local favorites. Ray Quadt '39 introduced the "Lambeth Walk" which proved to be a high spot of the evening.

Another record crowd, four hundred couples, attended the Scarlet Barb sport dance in the Gym on October fifteenth. Celebrating the Springfield victory, the dance was managed by William Babinsky and Edward Webster. Music was by Perc Arnsten and his band. The jitterbug contest was won by Ray Herbert and his partner.

Dances by the several fraternities and the neutrals after the great victory over Princeton were the last sport affairs of 1938. The same groups held their usual quota of houseparties, concentrating on the three big weekends, and their usual open houses with at least the usual amount of enthusiasm.

Be it forever a matter of record that Mother Nature did bless the terrain of Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania, with snow over the weekend of January twenty-ninth for the annual Winter Sports Houseparty sponsored by the Glee Club. This innovation increased the fun for Rutgers folks who gathered "between terms" to ski, toboggan, dog-sled, dance, and enjoy the midnight barbecue and exceptional Glee Club concert. The Queensmen, playing for the dances, and The Inn upheld their reputations for music and hospitality, respectively.

A winter wonderland of icicles, snow, and giant polar bears, was the Gym for the Junior Promenade on February seventeenth. Ozzie Nelson '27 was welcomed royally by the six hundred and fifty happy couples as he set his popular band up before a rainbow backdrop of a Northern sunset. Papier-mache penguins perched here and there among massive icebergs. A pale blue counterfeit of the Arctic heavens stretched far above the dancers' heads. Old Queen's dance programs excited no end of comment.

It was an appreciative audience that heard Harriet Hilliard, Ozzie's beautiful wife, sing numbers which have helped her to fame. "The same old Ozzie," loyal son that he is, was enthusiastic about the hearty reception he was accorded.

Professor and Mrs. Richard C. Reager and Professor and Mrs. Henry Keller, Jr. were chaperones at the Prom. Arthur Ritchings was chairman; Harry Kerzner in charge of tickets; Robert Grasmere, music; Robert Dickson, publicity; Arthur Talbot, decorations; John Burke, chaperones; and Louis Vogel, refreshments.

The Military Ball appears on the social calendar long after the Scarlet Letter goes to press. Yet prefixing nerve-wracking exams and climaxing the gregarious gyrations of the Social Swirl as it does, it seems destined to be as successful and long-remembered as last year's Ball. There is no doubt that it will . . . if the music matches the smooth and sophisticated rhythms of Hal Kemp and Company . . . the vocals equal those of petite Judy Starr . . . one of the local belles, instead of last year's Hollywood "ringer," is crowned queen . . . the striking Arch of Sabres is repeated . . . the dancers are as jovial and numerous. The committee for this year: Walter Bruyere, chairman; Grover Coe, tickets; Ernest Patten, music; William Lakamp, decorations; John Ruger, chaperones; Marshall Rothen, publicity; Charles Reichardt, programs; Morton Rochelle, refreshments.

6. BROTHERS IN THE BOND

It is through fraternity that liberty is saved. VICTOR HUGO

THE values to be derived from college are not confined to the classroom and athletic field. Mental and physical prowess must be enhanced and its setting must be refined and polished by an element of fraternity if the college is to produce well-rounded men. For how futile is education which fails to teach one how to get along with his fellow men!

It is the function of fraternities to supply that indispensable element at Rutgers. They offer men the opportunity of living together in close companionship, cooperation, and mutual understanding with others of varied temperament, inclination, and outlook. The nineteen houses are laboratories of self-government and gentlemanly living. The social life of the student body revolves about them. And not to be forgotten is the vital link that the fraternities form in the relationship of the University with the alumni and with prep school men seeking a college.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL, the body which draws the fraternities together for the discussion and solution of mutual problems, marked a particularly busy year. Chief among its actions was the abolition of the restricted rushing period which the council decided worked to the detriment of both fraternities and freshmen. The Interfraternity Banquet and Interfraternity Ball, sponsored by the council, met with much success as usual.

IN THE COUNCIL PICTURE: seated—Wilson, Edmonston, Wright, Buckler, Brown; standing—O'Donnell, Temple, Mandel, Moss, Jurgens, Sailer, Grasmere, Schroeder, Rothen, Altreuter, Dilatush.

OTHERS: Professor Edward Johnson, advisor; Alpren, J. Barnes, Berlin, G. Buttle, H. Baldwin, Commons, Erdman, Estrin, Meiselas, Morton, Mullen, Meredith, Mayers, Maupai, Perlin, R. Phillips, Reichelderfer, Schooley, W. Steinberg, J. Smith, Tranavitch, H. Youngs.

DELTA PHI

More than five hundred alumni and friends of the Epsilon Chapter of Delta Phi were guests of the house after the Rutgers-Princeton football game last November at one of the largest and most successful teas ever held by the fraternity. A large group of alumni was again present in February for the annual initiation and banquet at which several prominent members of the alumni association were the speakers.

The oldest fraternity on the Rutgers campus, Delta Phi's local chapter was founded in 1845. Nineteen men under the leadership of William H. Ten Eyck, who had become acquainted with the ideals and purposes of Delta Phi at Union College, were charter members. Delegates from the Union, Brown, New York University, and Columbia chapters initiated the Rutgers men into the fraternity after the application was accepted by the national organization.

During the first forty years of the chapter's existence, the members met in rooms secured here and there in the city. Finally, the first chapter house was acquired on Hamilton Street, next to New Jersey Hall. It was destroyed by fire in 1930 and has since been revamped to house the University Extension offices.

The present house, located at 17 Union Street, was soon purchased, enlarged, and made colonial in style, with the help of alumni. It was the former home of James W. Johnson, president of the Johnson and Johnson Company and of John T. Hill, president of the Ninth National Bank of New York.

OTHERS: Forman Bailey, Roger Brett, Thomas Daggett, Neil Priessman, Hubert Steger, Kenneth Yates, J. Berry McCardle.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Earl Reed Silvers, Sr.

ZETA PSI

A series of banquets, smokers, and teas, covering the whole college year, featured the social season for Delta Chapter of Zeta Psi.

Leading the parade as far as dinners are concerned, the annual testimonial banquet, honoring an alumnus of the chapter who is prominent in the national fraternity or in the University, was held in April. High-lighting the occasion was the presence of the president of the national fraternity.

A Christmas banquet in December with over 100 alumni and actives present and a chapter reunion in August at the Zeta Psi Club in New York rounded out the dinner series for Delta. The latter affair, an annual banquet, is mainly for the active members and includes dinner and a show.

All the deans and heads of departments in the University as well as all the professors whom the members have in classes were invited to the annual faculty smoker in January.

In May the annual Pink Tea for the mothers and wives of alumni and active members of the chapter as well as faculty wives and prominent persons in New Brunswick was held.

The second oldest fraternity on the Rutgers campus, Delta Chapter was founded just one and one-half years after the establishment of the first chapter at New York University in 1846. Because of the strong feeling against Greek letter fraternities, however, Delta did not come forth officially until 1848.

Jack Jurgens and Russell Frizzell were president in turn.

OTHERS: Edwin Bry, James Belcher, Russell Cooper, James Evert, Allan Hadley, Stewart Hurlburt, Richard Lunger, Warren Nolan, William Poston.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Harry N. Lendall, F. Vinton Smith, Charles H. Stevens.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

A triumph in the intramural football competition last fall was the highlight of the year's activities for Phi Chi of Delta Kappa Epsilon. Conquering Kappa Sigma in the finals, Phi Chi took its first step in its attempt to regain the Keller Trophy which it lost to the Raritan Club last year.

An annual banquet in New York City in March featured the Deke's social year. The affair, sponsored by the chapter alumni, is held in the Yale Club, which is also the Delta Kappa Epsilon Club of New York. The annual initiation banquet in February, the banquet before Thanksgiving vacation, and teas on Founders' Day, Parents' Day and Mothers' Day helped to fill out the social schedule.

The New Jersey shore also claimed its share of Phi Chi's social gatherings. An annual dinner and dance in the American Hotel at Freehold was again sponsored this year by a chapter alumnus. Two shore parties were held, one in the fall and one in the spring, on the beach near Manasquan. These parties are given annually by the upperclassmen for the pledges.

One of the first chapters established in the national fraternity, Phi Chi got its start at Yale in 1844. In 1861 a small group of Rutgers students organized Phi Chi in a small room on Burnett Street. Later quarters were established at 78 College Avenue. In 1929 the present house was erected to accommodate the chapter which had outgrown its old dwelling. The fraternity numbers among its members Theodore Roosevelt and Admiral Peary.

OTHERS: Lyman Avery, Bailey Barrett, Irving Cochrane, Bryce Gray, Daniel Hammond, Edward Lingenheld, Volckert Mason, James Mason, Gregory Peake.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Edwin Bell Davis.

CHI PHI

The annual Alumni Homecoming Day in February, with over one hundred men attending, featured the year for the Delta Chapter of Chi Phi. The affair is sponsored in order to maintain alumni interest in the chapter and to keep the alumni in closer contact with the active members. A similar affair was held last June.

Delta won the Brett Song Contest last spring in competition with the other living groups on the campus.

Other features of the social year for Chi Phi were the annual initiation banquet in February and the annual faculty tea in May. Both activities were attended by an unusually large number.

In 1910, just 43 years after Delta was founded, "Pinehurst," the present house, was built. It had the distinction of being the first house erected on the Rutgers campus for the sole use of a fraternity. The ivy which covers the walls was imported from the chapter at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, established by the brothers of the southern order of Chi Phi, who were students at that institution. The house was rebuilt and modernized a few years ago.

Of the four original chapters in the Hobart Order of Chi Phi, The Delta Chapter is the only one which has survived. The chapter celebrated its two thousandth meeting in 1934.

During its seventy-two years of existence Delta has had over five hundred members. Seventy-seven brothers of the chapter were in the World War, nine of whom had seen military service prior to 1917. One brother lost his life in the last struggle.

OTHERS: John Nugent, William Rushmore, Walter Shultise, Harry Young, Henry Sostman, Donald Rude.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Edward Johnson, Laurence Knappen, Casper Rieman.

BETA THETA PI

A complete renovation of the interior of the house and the renewal of the graduate-preceptor system featured the year for Beta Gamma of Beta Theta Pi. The redecoration program, begun during the summer vacation, included completely repapering and repainting the entire interior, reupholstering the living room furniture, and providing a new set of chinaware for the dining room.

Carroll R. Keim, Case '38, took over the preceptor position vacated a year before. The plan, adopted three years ago, had been abandoned for the latter half of the 1937-38 term when the position was left open by the former preceptor's resignation.

The second annual Parents' Day Tea was held on May 14. This custom was started last year to bring the parents of the undergraduates in closer contact with the chapter and proved so successful that it was deemed worth while for continuance. Richard Larrabure has served as chapter president for the year.

Beta Gamma plays an important part in the history of the national fraternity of Beta Theta Pi, having been the first chapter established in Alpha Sigma Chi (1871) which later developed into a strong eastern fraternity. In 1879 Alpha Sigma Chi and Beta Theta Pi merged and thereafter were known under the name of the older fraternity. The Alpha Sigma Chi Alliance now exists as one of the important parts of the history of Beta Theta Pi. Beta Gamma celebrates the sixtieth anniversary of that alliance this year.

OTHERS: Robert Gaynor, Roderick McCubbin, Harry Moore, Frank Paret, George Richmond.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Herbert Randolph Cox, William Hayes Fogg Lamont, George Augustus Osborne.

CHI PSI

Although Chi Psi was the seventh fraternity to be established at Rutgers, it had the proud distinction of having the first fraternity house on the campus. Included in the roster of fourteen men who founded Alpha Rho in 1879 were seven Phi Beta Kappas. Ground was broken for a new Lodge in 1924, and two years later the work of collecting the funds and building the new house was completed. In 1929 an inspiring reunion and banquet marked the fiftieth anniversary of Alpha Rho.

At the National Convention of Chi Psi in Excelsior Springs, Missouri, in September, Alpha Rho was recognized as having the finest alumni relationships in the entire national fraternity. The "Rhoboat," the Alpha publication, was also praised.

An effort has been made this year to provide more social events for the parents of the actives. A tea for the mothers was held in the fall and proved a marked success. More than 400 parents, alumni, and friends attended the tea and houseparty following the Rutgers-Princeton game in November. The annual father and son banquet was one of the outstanding events of the year. The initiation banquet in February was addressed by several prominent alumni.

Alpha Rho has always endeavored to have its members engage in a balanced extra-curricular program. Activities this year include football, lacrosse, baseball, fencing, wrestling, boxing, crew, Targum, Scarlet Letter, Varsity Show, literary societies, honor societies, Student Council, and intramural competition.

OTHERS: Edward Allison, Russell Lake, William Scott.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

"Big Bill" Tranavitch, stellar backfield performer on the varsity football team, was outstanding for the 1938-39 year in the Alpha Psi chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha when he was named on the All-Pi Kappa Alpha football team for 1938. He was chosen from among the members of all the 79 chapters of the national fraternity.

The annual Founders' Day Banquet, commemorating the founding of the national fraternity, was held in March. The annual initiation was held that night also, and the banquet served the double purpose of both initiation and founders' celebration.

The entire exterior of the house was painted during the summer vacation and some of the rooms were redecorated at the beginning of the new college year.

Alpha Psi was instituted as a chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha in 1913 when the five men who had organized it were granted a charter. The chapter was inducted by 15 members of the New York University chapter and established itself in a house at 17 Mine Street. When the group increased and more room was needed, the present house was purchased by the alumni body.

"The Alpha Psi News," chapter publication, appears three times yearly with information about the chapter's activities for alumni and other chapters. The Mothers' Auxiliary is also active and carries out several projects each year for the benefit of the house.

Last year, just before the Scarlet Letter appeared, Alpha Psi chapter won the interfraternity bridge tournament for the first time since its inception.

OTHERS: Wilfred Dorn, Robert von Schenk.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Roy C. Bossolt, Alan E. James, Richard Morris, Thomas Vassar Morton, Sr., Clarence Eugene Turner.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Phi Zeta Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha emerged victorious from the closely contested Princeton game display last November to carry off the Harman Trophy. Their "Beat Princeton" display consisted of a model of the new stadium with a dummy representing a Rutgers football player swinging a tiger around by its tail. Next to the stadium model—representing the new—was a model of College Field, where the first intercollegiate football game in America was played in 1869—representing the old. Across the porch was a spider web showing a tiger entangled in the insect's threads.

The annual Lambda Chi Alpha Day in March was featured by a house party to which all actives and alumni of Phi Zeta were invited. The day, set aside each year by the national fraternity, is celebrated by each chapter. An initiation and banquet in December and another in April, and a banquet on Parents' Day in conjunction with the University program rounded out the social year for Phi Zeta.

Phi Zeta was the ninth chapter of the national fraternity to be established. In 1913 a group of four undergraduates formed the chapter which met for the first year in a room in Winants Hall. A house on Mine Street was rented in 1914, and in 1915 the chapter moved into a University-owned house at 502 George Street.

Phi Zeta purchased its first house in 1920 at 164 College Avenue, the present address. The membership continued to grow and in 1928 a three-story addition was made and the entire interior remodeled. Again this year improvements have been made.

OTHERS: John Mullen, Robert Seeley, William Stanley.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Sidney Cook, Paul Creager, Albert Holzmann, Albert Johnson.

PHI EPSILON PI

For the thirteenth consecutive time Lambda Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi won the activities award of its national fraternity this year. The award, given in December, is in the form of a cup, thirteen of which grace the mantel and table in the living room of the Lambda house. Helping in earning this award is the fact that five members of the varsity tennis team last year, and three this year, have come from Lambda Chapter.

Nor are all of the Rutgers Chapter's activities in the way of extra-curricular, for it won the Interfraternity Council scholarship cup.

Lambda Chapter originated on the Rutgers campus in 1914 as a local fraternity known as Theta Phi. Meetings were first held in Winants Hall but soon moved to Ford Hall where they continued until in 1915 Theta Phi was chartered as Lambda Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi.

The first house was located at 44 College Avenue. When the fraternity outgrew those quarters it moved to the site now occupied by the Dutch Reformed Church House on the corner of College Avenue and Mine Street. Eight years ago the present building was constructed and has been the home of Lambda Chapter since that time.

Numbered among the prominent active alumni of the chapter are Judge Rosen of Philadelphia, "Tex" Rosen, David Moscovitz, and John Grossman, all of whom excel in their various fields. Abe Jelin, former Commissioner of Highways in New Jersey, is also an associate member of Lambda of Phi Epsilon Pi.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

With ten graduate brothers as members of the administration and faculty, the Nu Beta Pi chapter of Phi Gamma Delta went through the year with exceptionally close cooperation between the University officials and the fraternity. Members of the undergraduate chapter garnered many honors on campus; notable examples are those who were Student Council president, Anthologist editor, Varsity Show author, all-American quarterback in 150-pound football, two varsity football players, and two members of Cap and Skull.

Howard Barto served as chapter president throughout the year; Richard Ely was vice-president; Walter Bruyere, house manager and treasurer; Richard Hartman, historian; and Charles Edgerly, corresponding secretary.

The grandfather of the Nu Beta chapter, Rho Sigma Zeta, was organized at a meeting in Winants Hall on October 11, 1909, under the leadership of two students, Martin and Glanders. The following year the Scarlet Club, the father of Nu Beta, was formed, and after a campaign under the slogan "Phi Gamma Delta or nothing," the club was admitted to the national fraternity in 1917. The present house at the corner of George Street and Bishop Place was acquired soon after this, and an addition was made in 1930.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Edmund W. Billetdoux, Donald F. Cameron, Edgar G. Curtin, David Fales, Jr., Howard F. Huber, Jacob G. Lipman, Robert N. Putnam, Harry O. Sampson, Henry L. Van Mater, Carl R. Woodward.

KAPPA SIGMA

Tad Wieman, head coach of football at Princeton University, and Hoagy Carmichael, noted songwriter, were the guests of honor at the Alumni Reunion and Initiation Banquet of the Gamma Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Sigma which was held in February. Other highlights of the social season were the chapter officers' banquet in October, and the father and son gathering later in the same month.

Gamma Upsilon was founded on the Rutgers campus in 1911 as a local fraternity known as the Queen's Club. It was not until 1918 that the Swarthmore chapter of the fraternity instituted the club as a chapter of the national fraternity.

The Kappa Sigma fraternity was founded December 10, 1869, at the University of Virginia by five friends who, wishing to belong to the same fraternity, decided to found a new one. Two years later one of the brothers of this new fraternity, while traveling in Europe, came in contact with some of the few remaining members of a mutual protection society that had been founded at the University of Bologna in 1400. This society had been started as protection against the oppression of the governor of the city, Balthasar Cassa. These remaining members of the ancient group conveyed the secrets of their fraternity to the American on the understanding that they would be instituted into the ritual of the new fraternity. Thus the members of Kappa Sigma trace their history back 339 years.

Vincent Shay '38, who is studying in the William and Mary Law School, is organizing a Kappa Sigma chapter there.

OTHERS: David Bevan, James Doyle, Kenneth Rockwell.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Cuno Bender, Luther H. Martin, Linwood Lee, James H. Reilly.

RARITAN CLUB

A complete remodeling of the chapter house this summer will feature the year for the Raritan Club. The recently-acquired house on George Street will be refinished both within and without to carry out a colonial theme.

The Club was forced to move from its old house on College Avenue because the building was University-owned and was needed for classroom use. Early this fall it took over the house formerly occupied by the Ivy Lodge and has used it all year. The remodeling plans for this summer will probably call for the largest building project undertaken by any fraternity on the campus in recent years.

The Keller Trophy, award for the fraternity outstanding in intramural athletics, was won by the Raritan Club last June for its activities during the 1937-38 college year.

Two annual banquets have been held during the year, both at Cranbury Inn, Cranbury, N. J. The first was the Alumni Banquet and the second the Initiation Banquet, following the annual initiation in February. The Alumni gathering, held in a different hotel each year, took place in November.

The Raritan Club is the only local fraternity remaining on the Rutgers campus, three others in recent years having merged with national fraternities. The organization was founded in 1922 by a group of men who struggled for the fraternity's existence until 1926 when the University granted a fraternity charter to them. The "spirit of '22" still exists in the friendly "camaraderie" of the Club.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Joseph R. Kenny.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

Preparing football coaches for the State and annexing national fraternity honors seem to be the singular achievements of the Sigma Delta Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu. Louis "Red" Grower is now football coach at Central High School in Paterson after being named on the all-State team while here. Eddie Blumberg was on the varsity football and basketball teams while here and is now backfield coach at New Brunswick High School. In addition, Eli Fisher, another graduate member of the house, was a professional wrestler and shot-putter. The local chapter has won the Retired Founders' Cup, awarded annually to the outstanding chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu's thirty-six chapters and won the publication trophy for its "Sigma Delta Chapter News."

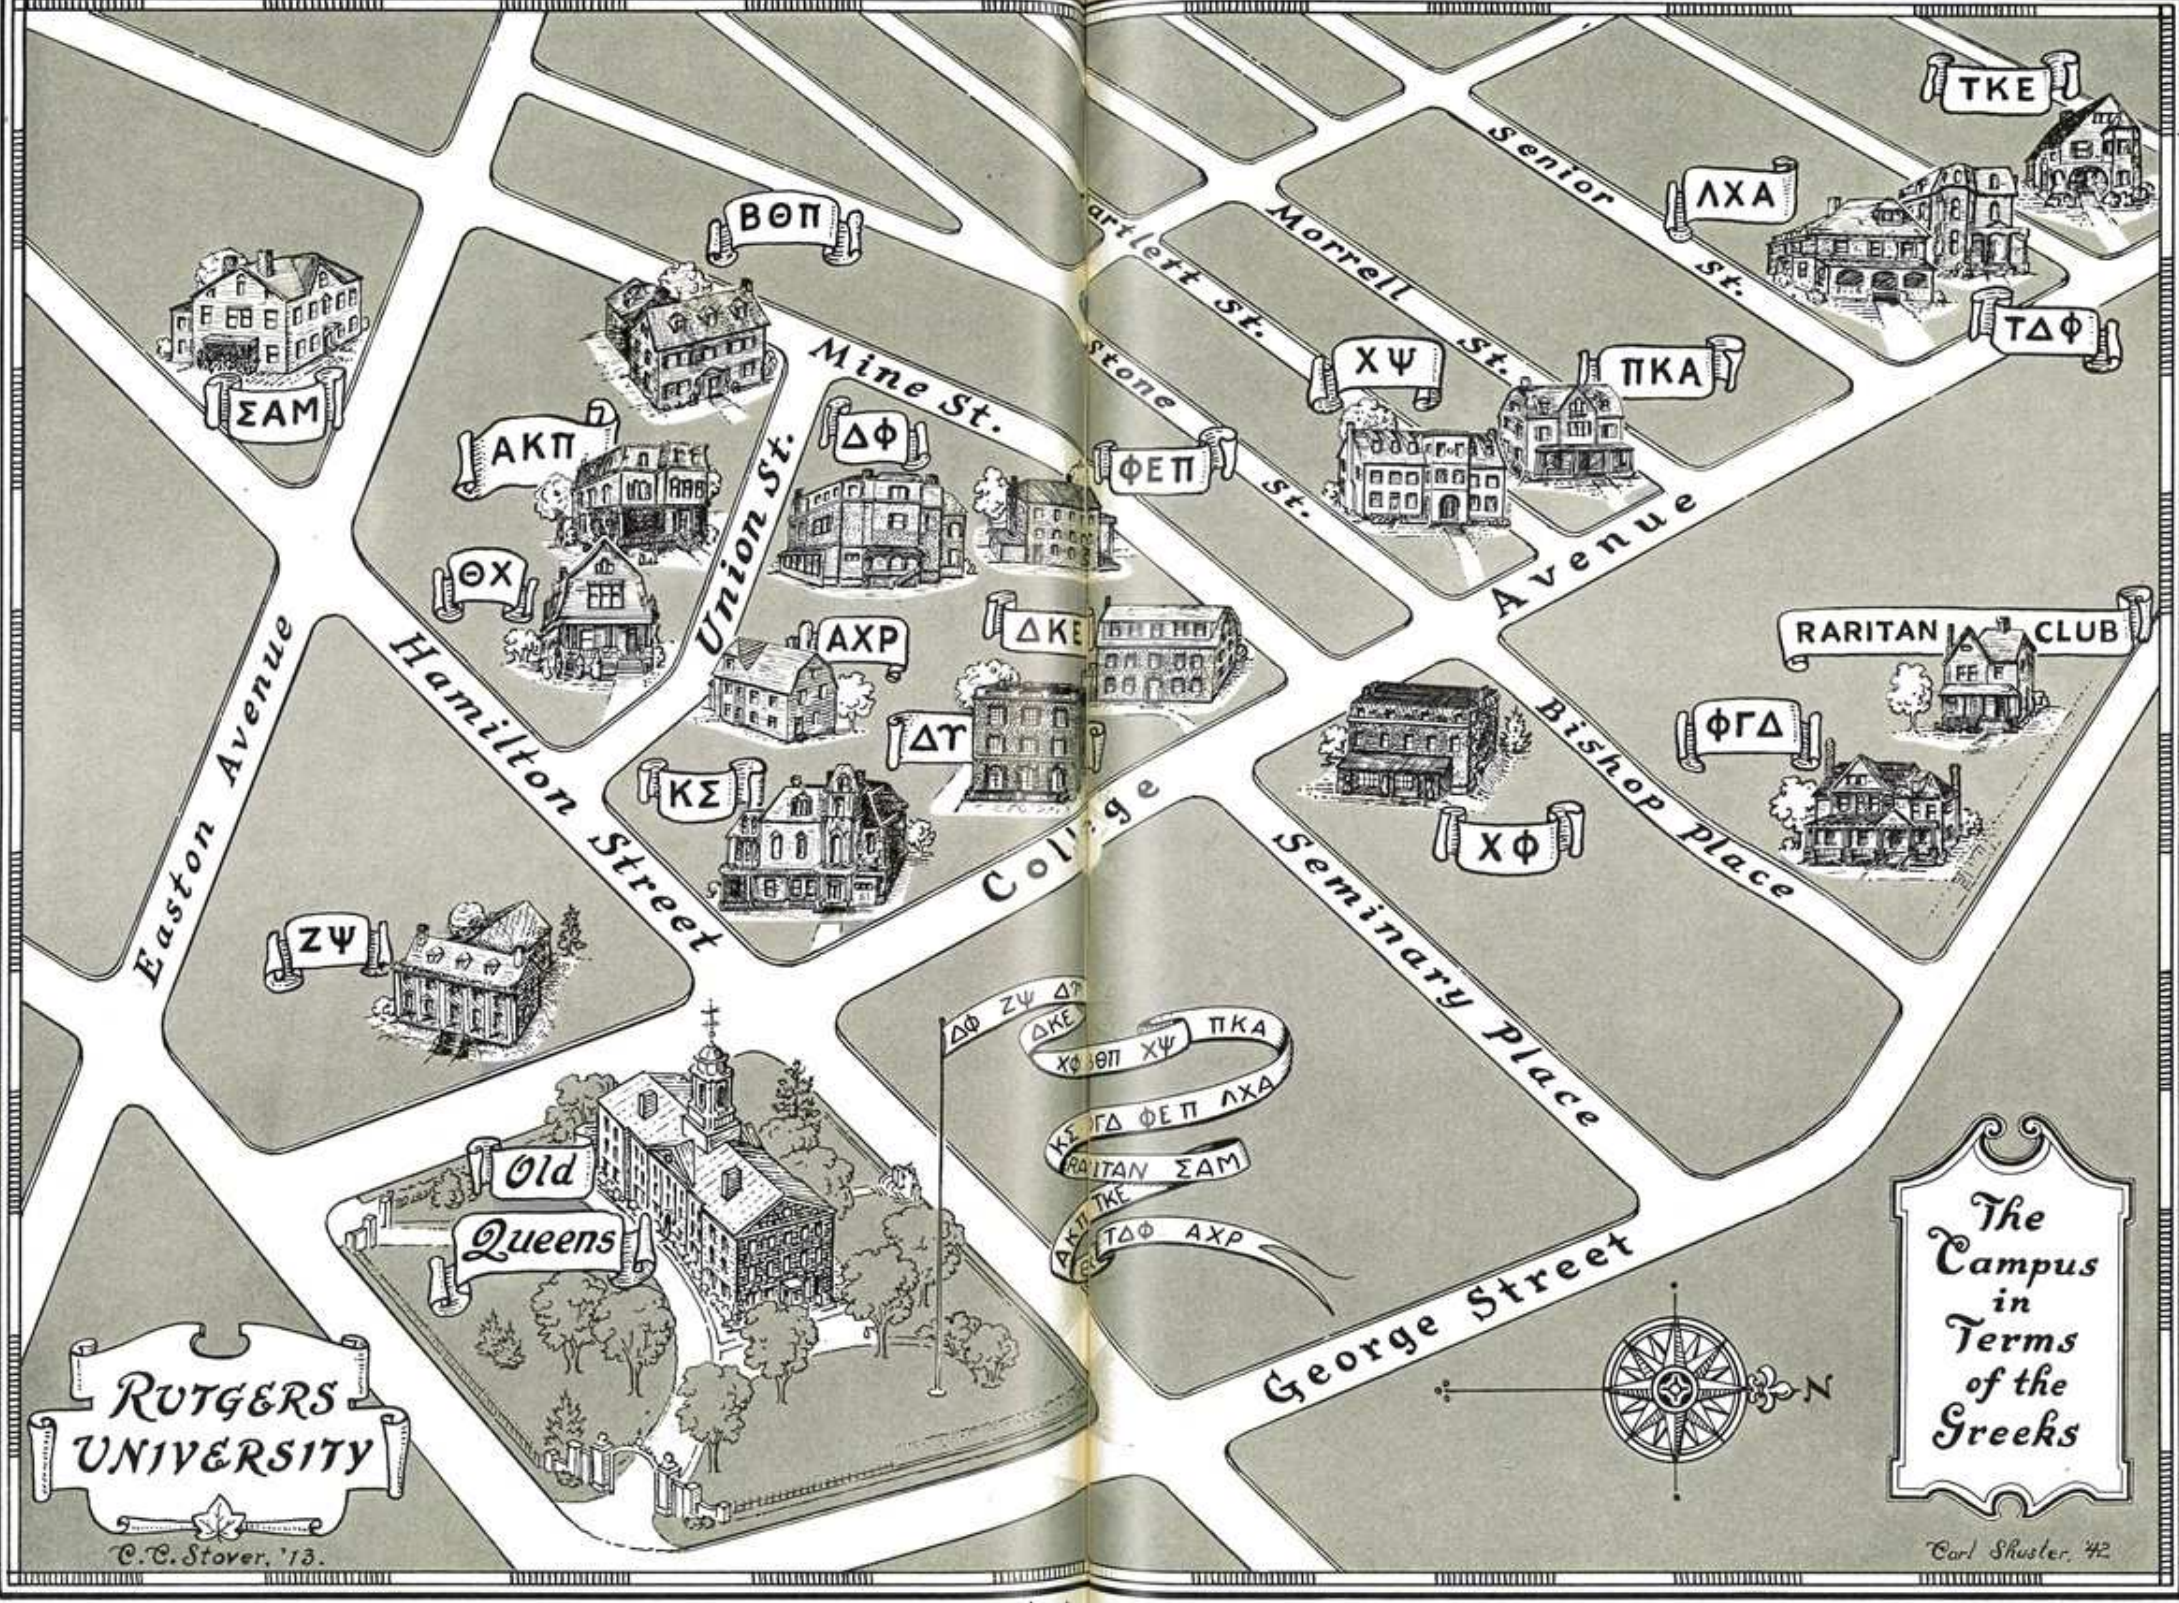

Members of the house are particularly outstanding in the realm of sports. Among positions held by fraters are the track managership, varsity football, swimming, captain of the golf team, baseball, and lacrosse. Other honors include the copy editorship of the Anthologist, secretary of Queen's Players, and membership in the Spiked Shoe Society. The prior of the local unit is Robert Rimsky '39 of New York. Other officers are: exchequer, Lloyd Weinberger of Passaic; recorder, Marvin Kitay of Paterson; and historian, Eli Weisman of New York.

Before going national, the chapter was known as the Sigma Delta Club and was located at 39 Mine Street. The fraternity grew and soon moved to its present house at 78 Easton Avenue.

OTHERS: Leonard Goldblatt, Marvin Susswein, Leroy Davidson.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

With an accent on athletic prowess, the Alpha Eta Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon has achieved an enviable record and good scholastic standing during the past year. Although the membership is kept at a minimum, members of the house are active in football, track, Scabbard and Blade, boxing, Spiked Shoe, the Senior Cabinet, wrestling, and the tennis managership. Besides this, one of the brothers is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa. Officers of the organization include seniors and two juniors. Harry Youngs of Grantwood is president. Other officers are: vice-president, Raymond Phillips of East Orange; secretary, Ablett Flury of Trenton; treasurer, Frederick Roller of Kearney; and historian, Jonathan Baker of Highland Park.

Youngs is captain of the track team and Paul Harvey was elected honorary football captain.

Eleven years ago a new fraternity known as Phi Sigma Tau was formed through the efforts of John Mulhern '27, Charles Kieswetter '29, and Salvatore Salerno '29. Thirteen charter members applied for a petition for recognition to the board of trustees on January 14, 1927. Due largely to the hearty recommendation of Dean Frazer Metzger, Phi Sigma Tau was accorded the unusual distinction of having a charter granted in response to its first petition.

Permission was granted to petition a national fraternity on December 27, 1929, by the University authorities. The unit was installed in the national ranks on June 4, 5 and 6 of 1930 as the Alpha Eta Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon. During 1938, the house outgrew its quarters at 10 Bartlett Street and moved to its present home at 192 College Avenue.

ALPHA KAPPA PI

Rho chapter of Alpha Kappa Pi presented one of the largest delegations in attendance at the national fraternity's annual convention last winter when the entire chapter appeared for the proceedings in New York. Another innovation in Rho was the complete redecoration of the chapter house last summer and, during the Thanksgiving vacation, the remodeling of the basement to form a new chapter room.

Rho originated in 1926 as a local fraternity called Phi Lambda Sigma. The originators of that fraternity were a group of men in the class of 1927. They soon took into their circle nine members of the class of 1926 and three from the Class of 1928. Later the present house at 26 Union Street was obtained. In 1929 the custom of having an annual alumni banquet was instituted. A total of thirty men attended that first banquet and since then the number has steadily increased. In that year the Collegiate Brotherhood, a local fraternity, was absorbed by Phi Lambda Sigma and the group was formally accepted by the national fraternity of Alpha Kappa Pi as Rho Chapter.

Following the Hampden-Sydney football game last fall an initiation and father and son banquet was held. The banquet was the only one of that kind that the chapter has held in recent years. Rho also held a card party in November for the mothers of members and their friends. James Dean was president; Thomas Reichelderfer was vice-president.

THETA CHI

A bowling match and basketball game between alumni and undergraduates featured annual Alumni Day for Beta Delta of Theta Chi in March. The above activities, held in the afternoon, were followed by a houseparty in the evening. A similar program including a baseball game between the graduates and actives was held this spring as well. Both the programs are planned to bring about a closer relationship between the alumni and the chapter. A program for the entertainment of parents on the University Parents' Day and the annual initiation and banquet in February were also on the Theta Chi calendar for 1938-39.

Beta Delta was originally founded as Theta Zeta, a local fraternity, in 1917 and was received into the national fraternity in May of 1932. The Rutgers chapter is the fiftieth of the fifty chapters of the fraternity which was founded in 1856 at Norwich University. The local chapter has always advocated as its cardinal purpose the fostering of scholarship and prides itself on the fact that fifteen of its members have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa society in the last thirteen years.

Among Theta Chi alumni who are active on campus at present are: Ernest E. McMahan '30, alumni secretary; Ralph N. Campbell '31, director of the Bureau of Personnel and Placement; and Jack N. Wallace '33, assistant director of public relations. Present membership of the house includes students who are active on Targum, football squad, wrestling squad, debating, and crew.

Joseph Wright is president.

OTHERS: Irving Cooper.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Ralph Norton Campbell, Charles Foster, Ernest McMahan, Jack N. Wallace.

TAU DELTA PHI

Tau Gamma of Tau Delta Phi featured its social calendar with a party at The Gables in Spring Valley, New York, similar to the University Buck Hill Falls Weekend. A full program of skating, skiing, sledding, and tobogganing was carried out at the winter resort. The Roger Smith Hotel was the scene of two other social events, the formal initiation and banquet in February and the Alumni Association's annual meeting and banquet in January.

Ten poor children were again feted at the Thanksgiving dinner which has become a custom with the house. Dean and Mrs. Metzger were also present, and several prominent Rutgers athletes were invited as guest speakers. In order to promote the relationship between the undergraduate chapter and parents, a father and son banquet was held in February.

The fraternity was founded on the Rutgers campus in 1921, when a group of students with the same interests and aims formed the Evergreen Club. This small group grew in strength and importance and by 1928 qualified as a chapter of a national fraternity, Omicron Alpha Tau. Known as the Eta Chapter, the fraternity matched its growth with that of the national group until, in 1934, the entire fraternity of twenty-one chapters merged with Tau Delta Phi. Since that time the Rutgers group has been known as Tau Gamma of Tau Delta Phi.

The fraternity has promulgated new ideals since the merger, and is known for its selectiveness and progressive spirit. Even now, the need for more expansion is felt, and larger quarters are in demand.

OTHERS: Melvin Rabinowitz, Melvin Rubel, Irving Cohen, Carl Goldstein, Harold Widowsky.

ALPHA CHI RHO

Beta Phi Chapter of Alpha Chi Rho highlighted its social year with the installation of the national vice-president at the chapter house at 5 Union Street. A program of complete redecoration throughout the interior of the house has also been carried on during the year. A banquet in honor of Rex Thompson, national vice-president of Alpha Chi Rho, was held following his installation to that office in November.

Late last spring Beta Phi merged with Ivy Lodge, and the members of the latter organization were initiated into membership in Alpha Chi Rho under which name the group is now known. The active chapter lived in the old Ivy Lodge house on George Street early this fall but after a few weeks of classes moved to the present house on Union Street. The entire interior of the building has been redecorated since the fall.

A Fathers' Day program in April including a smoker and sporting event, an alumni banquet in January, and a subsequent alumni smoker in March rounded out the social year for Beta Phi. Their initiation was held in January.

Alpha Sigma Rho, a local fraternity, was the real beginning of Alpha Chi Rho on the Rutgers Campus. When, in 1934, it decided to become a part of a national organization, it chose to petition Alpha Chi Rho and was accepted in February 1937. The local group chose that fraternity because the ideals of the two societies were closely allied. Those principles began in Hertzog Hall thirteen years ago when a group of students living there formed Alpha Sigma Rho.

OTHERS: Sumner Cressy, Howard Mueller, Joseph Pfungstel.

FRATRES IN FACULTATE: Moses Brines, Frederic Fitch, Joseph Makin.

7. EVERY MAN IN HIS HUMOUR

The great end of life is not knowledge but action.                      THOMAS HENRY HUXLEY

NO MATTER how much of a scholar a man is, he has interests other than his studies. He seeks recreation and relaxation in activities outside the classroom. He demands further expression of dormant talents, fuller satisfaction of suppressed desires, and deeper appreciation of unfamiliar subjects. It is toward the fulfillment of these demands that the activities program at Rutgers is directed.

Nor is any sphere of action overlooked. Drama, music, literature, science, debating, agriculture, language—the list is a complete and comprehensive one. No man's fancy is slighted. The utmost encouragement and cooperation is offered the individual to increase his powers of enjoying living.

STUDENT COUNCIL is a vital organization in a university where student thought governs undergraduate action. Representing each class, the council members are at all times aware of undergraduate feeling; at the same time they are cognizant of administrative and faculty desires and plans. The combination thus effected makes Student Council the logical governing body. Founded by a faculty resolution of 1894, its membership includes outstanding seniors, class presidents, and Targum editor.

Members by election during the past year were Ranney Adams (treasurer), Walter Bruyere (president), Grover Coe (vice-president), Stephen Hitchner, William Lakamp, Morton Rochelle, Akin Toffey (secretary), and John Winter. Earl Silvers, editor of Targum, and Robert Gaynor and George Ritter, class presidents, were the other members.

DEBATING

Debating, under the direction of Professor Richard C. Reager, was voted the most worthwhile activity on campus by the seniors in the annual Targum Poll in January for the ninth consecutive year. Over one hundred men were given the opportunity to represent the University in intercollegiate competition in the most extensive debate program, as far as the number participating is concerned, conducted in any college in the country, regardless of size or location.

In accordance with a custom established several years ago the team presented a series of seven debates over radio station WNEW in New York City. Added to this seven were two over WHN and one over WNYC, while a debate with the University of Richmond and one with Boston University at Boston were broadcast under the sponsorship of the home teams. For the last two years the radio series run by Rutgers has been on WNEW; three years ago a similar program was put on the air through WAAT of Jersey City.

Assistant debate coach was David Potter, instructor in speech; Edward Webster '39 coached the freshmen. Paul Greetin and Elmer Levin were senior managers; Carleton Dilatush, William Gillam, George VanDillen, Martin Weingold, junior managers.

Hill, Hirsh, Kennedy, Kilcheski, Krauch, Lederman, Lichtman, Marlow, Sands, Wakeling.

A group of five trips, principally for senior members of the squad, was conducted in February and March. Two southern tours, one through Pennsylvania, another in upper New York State, and one through New England found all seniors participating, with the exception of the New York trip which was made by four juniors. The first group taking the southern tour was composed of Harold Singer, David Dembling, Gilbert Schulkind and Martin Friedman. Kenneth Schroeder, Elmer Levin, Milton Lifshitz and George Pollack were the seniors honored with selection for the second trip through the South. The Pennsylvania trip, extending as far as Pittsburgh, was made by William Sharp, Morton Rochelle, John Winter, Arthur Murphy, and Sidney Brown '40, the only junior other than those going through New York State to make one of the trips. The men selected for the New England tour were Allen Walsh, Edward Webster, and Lawrence Pitt. The only all-junior trip, in New York State, was made by Kenneth Mehrhof, Arthur Talbot, Robert Gaylor and William Gillam.

The plan of trips used this year was substituted for that promoted in 1938 because a greater territory could be covered by the more numerous smaller groups than two large teams could attempt to include in their itinerary. Approximately 3,000 miles were included in the trips to the middle west, made by two senior squads last year.

Although Professor Reager stresses the importance of debating as an interesting activity in itself and does not promote decision debates, a certain number of this type are participated in annually. Statistics compiled recently show that of the decisions given in debates Rutgers has entered in the last five years Professor Reager's teams have been victorious seventy-five percent of the time.

A feature of the forensic program under Professor Reager has been completely extemporaneous speeches and direct rebuttals. All the material used by the speakers is gathered from a study of the subject beforehand but no written notes are taken to the platform.

VARSAITY SHOW

In the spring of 1938 a twenty-five year precedent was broken when Queen's Players produced a musical comedy. "Free, White, and 21" served not only as a renaissance of that type of drama on the Rutgers campus but also as a rebirth of Queen's Players itself. Into the organization was pumped new blood. Drastic changes were effected—ambitious, vigorous young men sought to bring the organization out of stagnancy. Increased interest in the work of the group, popular acceptance of its show, and general enthusiasm for the renovated Players encouraged the newcomers.

Out of the musical comedy staff the officers were elected. Producer Louis Fanget '39 became president; author-actor Stewart Brown '39 was made vice president; actor Eli Weisman '39, secretary; and stage manager Walter Bruyere '39, treasurer.

The old constitution was scrapped and a new one drawn up. The Players' membership was enlarged, the most active of the cast and staff of "Free, White, and 21" forming the nucleus. With the '38 show a proven hit, the new Queen's Players pointed toward 1939.

This year's production, as befits a growing organization's work, was far superior to the '38 show. "One Every Minute," by Stewart Brown and Edward Stearns '41, was enthusiastically received by pleased audiences both in New Brunswick and Paterson. Broadway's fair-haired boy, Lemuel Ayers, directed the show, and Johnny Hines (ex-Triangle Club) fashioned the chorus. To both men goes a great deal of credit for the success of the vehicle.

The hit of the show was Norman Cary '42, who stopped the performances with his portrayal of deb Brenda Diana Duffy. Cary's looks, voice, and wonderful acting made the part the best on the stage. The juvenile leads, Robert Grasmere '40 and Frank Lawley '40, were an attractive couple, and their acting and singing were excellent. Into his interpretation of Billy Rose, Stew Brown threw his all, including his voice, in an endeavour to bring the Broadway producer to double-life. Comedian Thomas Zwierlein '39 kept the aisles full as he flounced around really living the part of Mrs. Rudolf Starrett, Boston. Gregory Illanes '42 made a prim, prudish New Englander out of her husband, Rudolf Starrett.

Harold Bergman '40, as Rose's left-hand man, Broadway Dan, was a true Big City sharpie. Grover Whalen, as portrayed by Arthur Christensen '41, was a model of urbanity. The love-sick Horatio was played to the hilt by Larry Runyon '40, while Eli Weisman made Brenda's chauffeur, Bolivar, a figure for the books. With less quantity, but not less quality, Ted Sands, Irv Bander, Ted Treadwell, Irv Cochrane, Crawford Venn, Kermit Axelrod, and William Steinberg had a hand in the production. Fred Wesche '40 made some arrangements, and the Queensmen played for their second season.

Behind the scenes with [quote] tireless energy [unquote] worked production manager Walt Bruyere. Out of the Rutgers Gymnasium he, Dick Hammell, and staff made a presentable theatre. And behind them slaved Lou Fanget and Mel Alpren, losing poundage over the ticket sales. And way back where the bills came in sat Stu McCabe, worrying and paying.

The chorus: Howard Barto, David Elks, Charles Ernstberger, John Huntley, Robert Johnson, Robert Moss, Charles Pine, Alfred Riegg, Paul Rork, Marvin Soperstein, and George Wells (boys); Fred Blake, Bill Criswell, Edward Elin, Chris Goll, Craig Haaren, William Spence, Morton Sobin, William Thomas, William Tinsman, and George Wolverton (girls).

With two hits under its belt the group is well on its way toward regaining the lost prestige. Queen's Players has been proven the fastest growing organization on the campus.

QUEEN'S PLAYERS: Ely, Lawley, McCabe, Alpren, Fanget, Rothen, Brown, Edwards, Weisman, Grasmere, Stearns, Bander. Not in picture—Bruyere, Hammell, W. Steinberg, Zwierlein, Soperstein, Cochrane.

THE TARGUM

The Targum Association aims to present to the student body an interesting and varied newspaper including complete coverage of news of the campus and a cross-section of reader and editorial opinion. Its semi-weekly editions appeared regularly throughout the past year under the direction of Earl Silvers, Jr., editor-in-chief, and Joseph Wright, business manager. The editor-in-chief is the son of Professor Earl Reed Silvers, Sr., of the Targum Council, who was editor-in-chief of The Targum some twenty-five years ago.

Begun as a monthly publication in January, 1869, The Targum has continued ever since along the lines of its first editor's description: "a literary and scholarly, and yet at the same time a lively newspaper, which will meet with a hearty welcome from every lover of literature and friend of education." Beginning in October, 1880, The Targum appeared every three weeks; in 1888, twice a month; and in 1926, twice a week. Its present size dates back to 1921, although a five-column paper was published in 1919.

ANTHOLOGIST

The Rutgers Anthologist appeared regularly throughout the past year in an entirely new and different style and make-up. Under the direction of ingenious Stewart Brown, editor-in-chief, and with the added brainwork and "elbow-grease" of several others, notably Joseph Mayers, managing editor, Burnham Gardner, art editor, and Irving Cassell, associate editor, the format was changed over to one similar in style to the New Yorker. Personalized covers were the usual thing under the new regime, and the quality of writing, especially in poetry, was bolstered considerably with more interest on the part of contributors. Anthologist Council, guiding body, included Professor Earl Reed Silvers, director of alumni and public relations, and Dr. Fraser Metzger, dean of men, C. Rexford Davis, assistant professor of English, Brown, John Dalton, business manager, and Edwin Keeler, advertising manager.

"The Antho," as the magazine is popularly known, originated in 1927 when it succeeded the Chanticleer, a humor magazine, as the undergraduate literary organ. Published six times during the school year, it is recorded with the National Scholastic Press Association, critical service for college publications. It has received first class honor rating from this group in competition with magazines from colleges all over the country.

HANDBOOK - R.C.A.

This spring saw a complete revision and improvement in the pocket-size handbook which serves to orientate the freshmen in the traditions of Old Queen's. Albert Wilson and Richard Heath put out the 1942 book, last in the old style.

Under the joint sponsorship of Student Council and Interfraternity Council, the size and context were enlarged, advertising omitted, the position of business manager deleted in favor of two junior editors, and a new staff created under the leadership of Albert Wilson, editor; Charles Ficken and Arthur Ritchings, junior editors.

The FRESHMAN HANDBOOK is supervised by a nine-man board consisting of Earl Miers, Stanley March, the editors of Targum, Scarlet Letter, Anthologist, and Handbook, the assistant dean of men, and representatives from the two sponsoring councils.

The RUTGERS CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION sponsors a varied program of activities. In cooperation with N.J.C. it sponsors the weekly Sunday evening Student Forum. It also sends one or more deputations to local churches each Sunday.

The Christian Association furnishes ushers for Sunday Chapel services, sponsors occasional Communion Services in Kirkpatrick Chapel, and has charge of getting flowers for Sunday Chapels. Other activities round out its program. This year, for example, it made a drive to raise money for a Rutgers contribution to the Far Eastern Student Service Fund. Christian Association officers for the year were John Ludlum, president, and William Babinsky, secretary-treasurer, and they succeeded in keeping the society very active on campus.

CHESS-LIBERAL-HISTORY

Some of the strongest chess teams in the East were met by the CHESS CLUB in its first year on the Rutgers campus. Leaders in its organization were Raymond Brink '39, president and manager; John Ludlum '39, secretary-treasurer; and Norman Gray '42, custodian. With an appropriation by Student Council providing necessary materials, and Student Union as temporary headquarters, the club soon had between thirty and forty men attending the regular Monday meetings. A tie for second place in the inter-city chess league and a victory over the West Point team were the chief successes in competition. Faculty advisors: Max Gideonse and Louis Haar.

The Rutgers LIBERAL CLUB was founded in 1934 for the purpose of bringing before the student body political programs of current interest and importance. Thus the Club also serves to stimulate student interest in politics and world affairs, and to provide an opportunity for students to participate in civic pursuits.

Gilbert Schulkind, president, and Alexander Ganz, secretary-treasurer, were instrumental in arranging the club's program during the past year. It included a symposium on the Czech crisis, a forum on the New Jersey senatorial race, and several lectures on the European refugee problem.

The HISTORY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB, an affiliate of the history department sponsoring a program of lectures and forums on important historical developments and trends in world relations, is active both on and off the campus.

The group of twenty members this year selected as officers Milton Lifshitz, president; Theodore K. Robinson, vice-president; and Gilbert Schulkind, secretary-treasurer.

CONCERT SERIES

Rutgers men commend Professor Howard McKinney '13 for his part in making the tenth Concert Series the most successful ever presented at the University. John Charles Thomas, Yehudi Menuhin, the Boston Symphony (Walter Gieseking) and Josephine Antoine brought to our campus the best in music.

John Charles Thomas set the stage for the entire series with a congenial opening performance, supplementing his famous baritone with a dramatic ability almost as compelling. He rendered a colorful program, ranging from opera excerpts to folk-songs.

Yehudi Menuhin's December concert included works to satisfy every musical taste; the Bach unaccompanied Partita was executed with an amazing display of technic and grace of line, and both the Bruch Concerto and the Handel Sonata No. 6 were treated with the unusual warmth and insight characteristic of the young genius.

For the third concert Rutgers again welcomed the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Patrons of the series were fortunate in hearing the Boston's performance of Debussy's La Mer, regarded by critics as one of the musical highlights of the decade. Brahms's Symphony No. 4 was conducted with remarkable understanding, and the surprising treat of the evening was the sparkling Haydn Symphony No. 102.

Walter Gieseking made his Rutgers debut on March 1st. The versatility of the artist was well spoken in the variety of his program. From his incisive and sympathetic execution of the Bach Italian Concerto to the vibrant but solid quality of his Debussy, Gieseking was master of both instrument and audience.

The final concert, in which the coloratura soprano, Josephine Antoine, appeared with the combined glee clubs of Rutgers, Princeton, and New York University, proved a unique climax to the series. Among the choruses presented was one written by Joseph Clokey especially for the occasion, and dedicated to the Rutgers Glee Club.

GLEE CLUB

Under the capable direction of Professor Howard McKinney and Mr. Austin Walter, the Glee Club has accomplished much more this year than its prime purpose of "cultivating an undergraduate interest in the singing of good music." In concerts and radio programs, arranged by Manager George Steele and President Gerald Fischer, the club has acted as good-will representatives of the University before alumni and public groups throughout the State. The feature event of the season was the combined singing with the clubs of Princeton and New York University, presented as the last program in the regular University Concert Series. As usual, the annual Winter Sports Weekend, sponsored by the club, at Buck Hill Falls, was the most distinctive social event of the year. These activities, together with the chapel services, bring to each member a realization of the true significance of "Brothers Sing On," the traditional opening chorus of the Rutgers Glee Club.

BAND

A campaign for new uniforms was the outstanding feature of the Band's program for the year. A Uniform Fund, established after a dance sponsored by the Band on November 12 netted $281, was the first move. Donald Hembling was dance chairman. The Band played for football games, Parents' Day, Prep School Weekend, Military Field Day, and the spring concert.

The very successful spring concert and dance brought in a profit which was applied toward the purchase of several new instruments for the Band's collection.

DAIRY-AG

Another lively group of only three years' standing is the DAIRY SCIENCE ASSOCIATION. A large group of successful dairymen comprises the list of speakers at the regular meetings. This is based on the prime purpose of the club, to encourage and train dairy judging teams and promote interest in dairy science. Faculty advisor for the group is Laton M. Henderson; John Lippincott '39 is chairman; Edwin Schirmer '40 is vice-chairman; John Kitchen '39 is secretary; and Stephen Gordeuk '40 is treasurer.

THE AGRICULTURE CLUB, organized only three years ago, has become an active organization of prominence, embracing all students on the ag campus, almost a third of the student body.

Tradition already clusters about its well-attended activities, chief of which is the annual Agricultural Field Day, now two years old. The annual freshman reception, student-faculty smoker, Ag Club dance, annual senior farewell, and other similar events bring the members together socially.

The Field Day last year received state-wide acclaim and a national radio hook-up for its function as an instrument for acquainting the public with the educational activities of the College of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station. Organizers of the Field Day for this spring were the Ag Club officers: Alfred Van Hoven '39, president; Orton Smith '39, vice-president; John Mandl '41, secretary; and Clarence Steelman '40, treasurer.

POULTRY-HORTUS

POULTRY MAJORS banded together in the spring of 1938 in order to centralize their efforts and to stimulate and promote interest in their chosen science of poultry husbandry. At their first meeting, attended by a representative group of agricultural students, a program governed by the policy of independent student initiative was outlined, and a constitution drafted. At the same meeting Lewis Raven '39 was elected president and Alvin Welzel '40 secretary.

The club took an active part in the Ag Field Day last spring, with Raven in charge of the poultry exhibits. So successful was their handling of this important section of display that this spring the group was again responsible for the exhibit, under the supervision of James Osen '40.

The HORTUS CLUB, organized in 1931, has achieved recognition for its part in the Ag Field Day program, the New Jersey Florists Convention, the decorations at several of the major dances in the gym, participation in various national flower judging contests, and in radio talks under the auspices of the agricultural extension service.

The group conducts regular meetings of the student-seminar type under the guidance of faculty-advisor Professor Richard B. Farnham. Raymond Korbobo '39 is president; Britton Holcombe '39, vice-president; Albert Flemer '40, secretary; and Elmer Hill '39, treasurer.

The club should be especially commended for its decorations at the Soph Hop. Reminiscent of the Deep South, the bayou with its moss and evergreens was of professional excellence.

A.S.M.E. - A.S.C.E.

The Rutgers student branch of the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS was established at the University more than twenty years ago. Always in close contact with the local sections and professional divisions of the parent society, the Rutgers chapter has kept its members constantly in touch with practical problems of mechanical engineering, with new developments in the field, and with the independent projects undertaken by students in other schools.

During the past year President Kenneth McAllister and Vice-President William Brady have been assisted by Erwin Gutzwiller, secretary, and Eugene Maupai, treasurer, in planning the program of the society. The group always stresses the practice of student organization.

The oldest national engineering society in the country is the AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS. The many contributions of the society to human progress, since its institution in 1852, attest to its high standards of membership and insistence upon public service activities.

Paul Greetin, president; Richard Larrabure, vice-president; and Walter Higbee, secretary-treasurer, have been active during the past year in maintaining the standards of the Rutgers chapter at the level prescribed by the national organization and in formulating the program. One of the principal aims of the society is to "establish a central point of reference and union for its members," and with this in mind the Rutgers branch has disseminated much valuable information and inspiration among its members.

A.I.E.E. - CERAMICS

The AMERICAN INSTITUTION OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS has, as an organization, contributed largely toward the progress that has taken place in the electrical field during the past four decades. Founded in 1884, when the possibilities which might follow from a society fostering and encouraging this development were realized, the institute has continued to maintain a high professional standard among its members.

During the past year Ralph Shepard '39, was president; Stanton Shakell '40, vice-president; Herbert Cox '40, secretary; and Richard Hammell '40, treasurer. The Institute was under the faculty guidance of Professor Pumphrey.

For eighteen years the Rutgers CERAMICS CLUB, a student branch of the American Ceramic Society, has pursued a program designed to aid the advancement and diffusion of knowledge concerning the ceramic industries. At the monthly meetings of the club, technical papers are read and discussed, and frequently the club is addressed by authorities on ceramic subjects. A Christmas dinner and party with turkeys roasted in the departmental kilns took the place of the regular meeting in December.

Hugh Cleveland '39 was president; Robert Braid '40, vice-president; Robert Owen '41, secretary; and John Smith '40, treasurer. Faculty councillors were Professor George H. Brown and Professor John R. Kaufman.

ROWING-RIFLE-S.A.MIL.E.

The RUTGERS ROWING CLUB was organized two years ago in view of promoting and supporting interest in the sport of rowing among the undergraduates and alumni of the University. The Club is unique in that any graduate or undergraduate who has shown an active interest in the promotion of crew, as well as those managing and participating in the sport on Rutgers teams, may be elected to membership.

During the past year Douglas Hotchkiss was commodore; Walter Schwanhausser, vice-commodore, Jack Sailer, purser, and Albert Flemer, log-keeper.

Led by medal-winning seniors with Plattsburg and Camp Perry experience and several promising underclassmen, the RIFLE TEAM enjoyed a very successful season, winning a majority of its matches and posting excellent scores throughout the series of meetings with top-notch cadet units. Of great aid were new gun sights procured by popular "Sarge" Therriault, to whose heart the local rifle unit is very close. In the future the sergeant hopes to see a genuine outdoor rifle range situated near the campus.

The SOCIETY OF AMERICAN MILITARY ENGINEERS is a national organization devoted to the application of engineering thought to problems of military tactics and equipment. The Rutgers post, organized in March 1931 by scientific students in the advanced R.O.T.C. course, was led during the past year by Charles Reichardt, president; Willard Smith, vice-president; Douglas Gorman, secretary; and Clarence Hill, treasurer.

MILITARY SCIENCE

Enrollment of Rutgers men in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps for two or four years and instruction in military science have a three-fold purpose: to train young men in leadership; to fit them to render intelligent service to their country in time of emergency; and to instruct them in the civic virtues of loyalty, self-control, and obedience to the proper authority.

PLATTSBURG

The Plattsburg Barracks in New York State is the scene of military science training for Rutgers men during the summer. Each year about forty juniors and seniors spend six weeks at the camp as part of their training in the advanced course. The period is spent in musketry, machine gun, and other phases of army work. Approximately two hundred cadets from different colleges in the East attend and compete for the "Best Unit" award; Rutgers won it for several years but missed first place by a narrow margin last summer. Part of the training is in the experience of performing all camp duties from kitchen police to battalion commander.

Plattsburg is an old army post located on the west side of Lake Champlain, fifty miles from Montreal. In the annals of history, Plattsburg stands as the site of one of the decisive battles in the War of 1812. The British invasion was stopped there after major encounters on land and water.

SCARLET RIFLES

The Scarlet Rifles Platoon was organized in 1934 to promote better close order drill. The group elected the following men as officers for the past year: Harold Johnston '41, captain; John Clark '41, first lieutenant and treasurer; Charles Whitlock '41, second lieutenant and secretary; James Weyhenmeyer '41, first sergeant.

BIOLOGY-MATH

The BIOLOGY CLUB is purely a student organization, with undergraduate activity the dominant feature of the meetings.

Throughout the year the members present papers and deliver talks on their special fields of interest, outlining the latest developments in research and biological methods.

During the second semester, upperclassmen provide demonstrations on the many advanced courses offered in biological science; this phase of the club's work is deemed of great value to the lowerclassmen, giving them an insight into their later fields of work. In the winter and spring, field trips are taken to various medical centers and research institutes.

Although the club has no regular officers, John Todd '40 and Melbourne Carriker '39 were active in guiding the program.

The MATHEMATICS CLUB was organized to give students interested in mathematical science an opportunity for technical discourse. Students present results of their researches to the group, and faculty members and others prominent in the field contribute much to the programs from their store of practical classroom experience and problems.

A small select group, the Mathematics Club is typical of the many organizations which are valuable adjuncts to curricular activity, forming an integral part of the intensely specialized study of the subject and offering the valuable exchange of ideas through the faculty-student seminar.

The officers were Elmer Lancaster '39, president; Alfred Levine '39, vice-president; and George Reynolds '39, secretary.

GERMAN-JOURNALISM-FRENCH

The aim of DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN is to stimulate interest in the propagation of German learning and culture and to bring to the undergraduates the opportunity to hear lectures on different phases of German civilization. The program for the year included lectures by Professors Bayerschmidt, Haar, and Biebel, a motion picture, a Christmas party in true German spirit, staging a play, and sponsoring an annual oratorical contest. President was Morris Chodorow; vice-president, Milton Seiden; secretary, Thomas Veltre.

THE JOURNALISM CLUB has found new life due to the efforts of Charles L. Allen, head of the Journalism Department, and Professor Kenneth Q. Jennings. It takes both men and women students of the journalism curriculum into membership to supplement classroom work and promote social activity. Noted journalists lectured before the club every two weeks on all phases of their work. John Quinn '39 was elected president; Miss Janet Campbell '40, secretary; Irving Cassell '39, vice-president; William Moss '40, treasurer.

Promulgating interest in French culture and civilization is the FRENCH CLUB. Sponsor of occasional "conferences" with speakers schooled in French affairs, the club supplements classroom work and annually presents one or more French plays. Many activities are also held in conjunction with the club at the Women's College. President was Max Horlick '39; vice-president, Louis Spindler '41; and secretary-treasurer, Alfred Grigis '40.

RADIO-BARBS-WINANTS

"Hams" of the revived RADIO CLUB put their station on the air again on January 12, and the club was once more a recognized activity. Plans are under way to make the club a member of an intercollegiate network. Aside from operating a club station and discussing operation of stations by several members, the club furnishes an experimental station for the College of Engineering. William Nastuk is president, Tunis Wentink, secretary.

Coordinating the work of the different neutral groups, and planning a campus-wide program for neutral men, is the SCARLET BARB COUNCIL. During the academic year the council sponsors the Scarlet Barb Football Dance, the Scarlet Barb Banquet, and a series of houseparties and smokers. John Ludlum is president; Morton Rochelle is vice-president; Irving Cassell is secretary; and William Sharp is treasurer. All are seniors.

THE WINANTS CLUB, composed of all neutral men living in Winants Hall and duly initiated, is the largest group in the neutral organization. Intramural participation, faculty lectures, outings, and dances constitute the club's major activities. A program of study aid is offered in addition to the extra-curricular program, and the club offers the advantages of group living. Gerard Baerman was president and William Sharp was secretary-treasurer.

HERTZOG-QUAD-PELL

The delineation of the FORD-HERTZOG or just HERTZOG group of the Scarlet Barb organization was not made clear at the time this edition went to press. Nevertheless, the society of some 20 men was active throughout the year, participating in intramurals, parties, outings, and picnics. For two years straight representatives won the cross-country championship. Staunch supporter of all Barb activities, the group was directed during the year by William Babinsky '39, president; Willis Zenk '39, secretary-treasurer; and Robert Dickson '40, council delegate.

The members of the QUAD CLUB, an active unit of the Scarlet Barb Association, are neutral residents of the Quadrangle. During the past year Irving Cassell has been president; Alfred Levine, vice president; and Alex Ganz, secretary-treasurer. These officers directed a course in an effort to secure some of the advantages of group living for non-fraternity men. The program included social and athletic activities, the organization of intramural teams, and a publication.

The PELL HALL Panther, dorm newspaper, was one of the most important activities of the new quadrangle group established during the past year. The paper was edited by Robert McPherson and later by Sprague Rockwell. All but three men and the able preceptor, John Isenmann, were freshmen, many of them leading athletes. Invasions by sophomores were summarily turned away, and the atmosphere of the club-dorm was generally congenial.

HERTZOG (top): seated—Juckett, Reilly, Zenk, Babinsky, Dickson, Van Pernis, Proli; second row—Heeren, H. D. Watson, Ludlum, Hitchner, Aldrich, Meury, F. Gosselink, N. Thomas, M. Gosselink, H. Robinson. Others—Norris, Fenyk.

OFF-CAMPUS-COMMUTERS

A new organization of neutral undergraduates sprang up during the past year under the name OFF-CAMPUS CLUB. Organized to provide some of the social and educational advantages enjoyed by fraternity and dormitory residents, its members lived off the campus in Highland Park or New Brunswick.

Under the sponsorship of the Scarlet Barb Council, an organization smoker was held in Winants early in the year with a hundred men present. At a later meeting Sidney Brown was elected president, Donald Mackinnon, secretary-treasurer, and Milton Galowitz, vice-president. The club entered intramural athletics, sponsored smokers and picnics, and supported Scarlet Barb activities.

THE COMMUTERS' CLUB made definite progress under the officers who included Edward Webster, president; Lewis Raven, vice-president, and Walter Gonick, secretary-treasurer, during this, its most active year. Committee chairmen who served throughout the year were Harry LeBovit, entertainment; Elias Candel, membership; Samuel Zagoria, publicity, and Stephen Ulrich, study aid.

The club purports to give commuting neutrals some measure of the social, scholastic, and extra-curricular advantages enjoyed by fraternity men. Sound financing, study aid, intramural participation, and outings with the N. J. C. Bees were part of the program.

8. ATHLETICS FOR ALL

True disputants are like true sportsmen; their whole delight is in the pursuit.

POPE

RUTGERS follows with intense interest the exploits of its varsity athletic teams in intercollegiate competition; but that is not enough. Watching the most exciting contests from the bleachers does not provide much opportunity for physical development. Each man must actually participate in sports if he is to build a casement suitable to underpin his newly developed mental capabilities. Thus the far-sighted philosophy of the Rutgers Department of Physical Education, which holds that athletics for all is an essential element of the modern university.

Under the leadership of George E. Little, director of physical education, and Harry J. Rockafeller, associate director and intramural administrator, Rutgers has evolved a vast athletic plant which can accommodate every student athletically. No longer are sports just for the small group of "varsity athletes" who can crowd into the Gymnasium and on College and Neilson Fields. The plans conceived by Mr. Little seven years ago have come to fruition.

Through the firm maintenance of Rutgers' athletic policy, the point of view of all Rutgers people is swept strongly away from demanding victory above all else. Like all true sportsmen, "their whole delight is in the pursuit," and they are concerned more with the development of men than with the setting of records.

But we are only at the dawn of a new era of athletics at Rutgers. There is much to be done. Alumni and undergraduates must do more than sit back and point to the immense, but empty, facilities for athletics. They must support the policies and program with much more than passive assent. To our tribute, we add this challenge.

STORY OF A STADIUM

Just three years after the project was undertaken, Rutgers' great athletic plant across the Raritan was dedicated. The "big mud hole" had been transformed into one of the most beautiful and serviceable stadiums in the country, surrounded by two hundred and fifty acres of ground to accommodate fifteen hundred athletes.

Unstinted credit has been assigned the prime-movers—George E. Little, director of athletics, and Clifton V. Barrett, University engineer and superintendent of the development. Three Federal grants and the full cooperation of Federal authorities and workmen were invaluable aids in the construction.

The project was not begun without the most intensive planning. Mr. Little and Mr. Barrett made numberless trips to recreational and athletic plants and gathered data on the best in the country. A "perfect plan" was evolved. Behind it was the broad conception of athletics which dominates Rutgers policy today. Going beyond the narrow vision of sports as requiring only a stadium or only varsity facilities, it called for a plant which would accommodate every Rutgers student in some form of outdoor athletic endeavor.

Rutgers men have heard the details often. Twenty-eight thousand cubic yards of top soil, twenty-four thousand cubic yards of earth, and two hundred twenty-two thousand cubic yards of hard shale were removed. Two thousand cubic yards of concrete, three thousand barrels of cement, fifteen hundred tons of sand, and three thousand tons of stone were employed in construction. The result is a stadium seating twenty-two thousand spectators, the finest track east of the Mississippi, ideal facilities for field events, football, soccer, rugby, and lacrosse, excellent press and radio conveniences, and lockers and dressing rooms for fifteen hundred men.

THE GROUP includes four stadium strategists: Barrett, Charles C. Stover '13, Little, George B. Howell '19. The pictures in order represent the ontogenesis: Inspiration, Deforestation, Foundation, Continuation, Observation, Consummation.

FOOTBALL

Ever since that memorable day in 1869 when Rutgers and Princeton started the fall mania known throughout the world as intercollegiate football, loyal sons of Old Queen's have hoped to see the Tiger tamed again by Rutgers men. In 1938 that hope was fulfilled at last. In distant decades students of today will be calling grandsons about the fireplace to tell of the epochal 1938 grid campaign and the victory over Princeton.

In a storybook setting, a storybook game was played on the afternoon of November 5. It was the day for the dedication of the new million-dollar stadium. Princeton started with a rush and scored early after blocking Mullen's punt. Scarlet hopes were revived when Gottlieb returned a kickoff to the 40, three passes gained 32 yards, and the great Tranavitch scored on his second plunge. Cooke converted, and Rutgers led, 7 to 6. The Tigers braced in the second period and scored twice; both tries for extra points failed, fortunately for Rutgers. Racing the clock near the end of the half, Scarlet warriors went 65 yards and pushed Greif over on the last play, leaving the score 18 to 13. Through the last half the valiant Queensmen outplayed Princeton. Finally a 15-yard pass from Gottlieb to Mullen brought the winning score, Bruyere converted, and try as they would the Tigers could not shake the 20 to 18 lead.

The anti-climax game against Lafayette was equally gratifying. On Homecoming Day the Scarlet won 6 to 0 to complete the best season record of Rutgers football history—seven wins, one defeat. The lone tally in that last victory came in the first period. Harvey, honorary captain for the season, blocked a punt on the 33 and Cooke carried the free ball to a touchdown. Rutgers settled back after this score and staved off threats of the Leopards, disregarding statistics.

The one defeat of the season came from New York University before the Scarlet was really warmed up. The big and fast backs from

New York, outnumbering Rutgers stars three to one, and the bruising forward wall beat Harman's lads into 13 to 6 submission in three periods, and a 25 to 6 decision finally. The other five games ended with Rutgers on the other end of the score. Starting inauspiciously, the Scarlet licked Marietta, 20 to 0. The real scare came a week later when a Vermont halfback dashed 89 yards for a score, and Hotchkiss' safety was the narrow margin of victory. The N. Y. U. game brought Rutgers to life again, and Springfield, Hampden-Sydney, and Lehigh fell in succession. Harvey, playing end, blocked a punt in the Springfield game; Bruyere, a guard, recovered and ran for the only touch-down. At the Hampden-Sydney game, first in the stadium, 10,000 persons saw Hasbrouck, Gottlieb, Varju, and Mullen score until it was 32 to 0. The Lehigh game was the only one away from home, and the Engineers were unable to offer any sustained offensive; Rutgers won, 13 to 0.

150-POUND FOOTBALL

The first Rutgers lightweight football team not coached by Harry Rockafeller missed winning the league pennant by only one game under the guidance of Coach Tom Kenneally. A misunderstanding with the referee in the opener against Villanova cost the Little Red its first tie. Getting going in the next game, the Scarlet defeated the new entry, Cornell, as Siscoe carried a blocked pass sixty yards for the winning score. Came two more stalemates, as Lafayette matched Campi's touchdown in the closing minutes of play, and Yale capitalized on fumbles to hold Rutgers scoreless at Paterson. Pennsylvania accepted its annual licking before the season Waterloo, the Princeton game. Playing through a sleet storm, the Nassau outfit held Rutgers scoreless in spite of several threats, gobbled up fumbles, and scored three times to deprive Rutgers of the league crown.

Bud Shaw received all-American honors as quarterback, and "Fuzzy" Darby was given honorable mention. Other outstanding players included Bonnaffon, who played every minute of every game, McKinney in the line, and Keeler and Freeman, ends.

CROSS-COUNTRY - SOCCER

One of Rutgers' best cross-country records was written last fall despite the fact that Coach Bernie Wefers had only two veterans on hand, Schwartz and Watson. These two led the Scarlet to win the Middle Three title from Lehigh and Lafayette easily. New York University eked out a one-point victory, but the Rutgers harriers recovered to swamp Swarthmore in the last meet.

The almost unrecognized, but fast growing, sport of soccer kept more than 30 athletes busy last fall. The team, formed about Jim Hill, goal, and Captain Bill Llewellyn, center half, lost its four contests to Trenton Teachers, Panzer, and Peddie, but pushed the game far ahead in popularity. George Dochat and Franklin Miller coached the embryo varsity sport.

BASKETBALL

Year in and year out, Rutgers basketball teams come through stiff seasons with outstanding records, and this year has proved no exception. Once more Frank Hill, colorful Rutgers coach for more than twenty years, produced a winning combination out of what seemed to be a team fighting against odds.

Only two men from the previous quintet were on hand in November, but Coach Hill built a strong outfit about them. His lineup of Buttle at center, Schwartz and Brock at guard, and Simms and Varju forward, swept through its first five games with apparent ease. Probably the most notable triumph was over Princeton; three precious points were the margin of safety. But the giant Penn State five got the best of the Queen's dribblers on its little court for the first defeat. Lafayette and Lehigh bowed to the Scarlet on first meeting, but each evened the score in return matches, and Princeton did likewise. Brown took the measure of the Scarlet; Williams fell short. In the season finale, N. Y. U. see-sawed from leader to loser but spurted to victory. Omley and Bunnell, sophomore stars, pushed into the starting lineup near the end of the season.

SWIMMING

Hampered by graduation and illness, the 1939 Rutgers swimming team put together one of the poorest records made by Scarlet nators in recent years. In June of 1938 the Rutgers mermen lost seven of their brightest stars, and the midwinter grippe epidemic helped to cripple the team before several important meets.

Three swimmers, Bill Lakamp, Bill Kirk, and Orm McClave, stand out in the otherwise mediocre season. Kirk in the distance races was the Scarlet's second-highest scorer. Lakamp came through with double victories in the sprints in both the Penn State and Princeton meets, and added several other victories to take the lead in the point parade. McClave, ace diver, was good enough to make the Scarlet supporters remember Fritz Faulkner, rated by many as Coach Reilly's greatest spring-boarder. McClave is tabbed by Reilly to stand beside Faulkner in Scarlet history.

The Rutgers team began the season by dropping its first meet to a powerful Columbia squad, but once under way it followed up with a smashing victory over Lehigh. The next two meets saw a loss to the strong Princeton aggregation and a ten-point win by the fast Brown team. Rutgers ended with a victory over Penn State.

BOXING-WRESTLING

Coach Bud Gorman's Scarlet mittmen emerged from a difficult five-match schedule with one victory, one tie, and three defeats. They were unable to face the enemy with their strongest unit at any time because of sickness and injury. Joe Colonna, Bill Gager, and Glenn Howatt fought their way to the N. C. A. A. tournament.

Len Cooke, Bill Guttentag, and Bob Stierli registered falls for the experienced and high-spirited mat-team that came within a notch of spilling Princeton's 20-game win-streak in the season's opener. The same men piled high for the Scarlet during the rest of the season, netting a final tally of three wins, four losses, and one tie.

INTRAMURALS

Another banner year was written in intramural record books as seven sports crowded the 1937-1938 program and thirty-four combinations engaged in furious competition for the coveted Keller Trophy. Team tennis was added to the list of sports.

The Raritan Club, only local fraternity on the campus, came through as surprise victor in the trophy race, though the winner was not known until the final week of activity. The winners amassed  $33\frac{1}{2}$  points in the spring competition to nose out the Dekes by the narrow margin of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  points. After a slow start in fall activities which netted only 12 points in football and cross-country, and an addition of three points in basketball, the George Street outfit picked up 13 points in swimming, 10 in track, and  $10\frac{1}{2}$  in softball to wrest the crown from the Dekes, defending champions.

Ben Herr and Bob Faatz led Zeta Psi to victory in the touch football competition which opened the intramural season. In the final contest Winants bowed to the Zetes, 12 to 0; other houses which shared the points were Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Epsilon Pi.

Excellent competition was provided in bowling, boxing, and squash, although not included in the point scoring. The Engineers ran away with the bowling honors as Don McVaugh and Ken McAllister rolled high averages which led the league.

The two nights of intramural boxing were termed "the best Rutgers has ever seen in its intramural boxing championships" by Coaches Bud Gorman and Art Matsu. The college champions were: 115-pound class, Joe Colonna; 125-pounds, Horace Walton; 135-pounds, Ernest Baxter; 145-pounds, Jim Gutzwiller; 165-pounds, Vince Jefferds; 175-pounds, Parker Staples; heavyweight, Dave Kutliroff.

The Dekes made their strongest bid for the crown when they averaged better than 37 points per game in intramural basketball and triumphed over the Kappa Sigs in the final.

Jack Sailer consistently won three events in the swimming meets to put his aggregation into the finals, but in the last race Cliff Pulis out-touched him in the last lap of the relay, and the Phi Gams won the swimming crown. The Dekes still led in the scoring after this, with the Zetes, Kappa Sigs, and Phi Gams close behind.

Softball, most popular intramural sport, was dominated by Phi Epsilon Pi. Lambda Chi, Winants, and Raritan Club offered the strongest competition. The Delta Phi cinder aggregation won the track title in the last intramural meet of the season. Raritan Club was second and Hertzog was third.

The Raritan Club did not place first in any of the seven sports but placed high enough in all to amass the highest score:

Raritan Club ..48½	Hertzog .....24	Travelers .....8
Dekes .....47	S. A. M. ....21	Ford Hall .....6

Pi Kaps .....31	A. K. Pi .....12	Towers .....3
Delta Upsilon ..29	Commuters .....9	Chimeras .....3

Out for revenge, the Dekes came back this year to win the football crown and share in basketball honors. Led by Ken Ashby, they scored a new high of 190 points in the football season and defeated the Pi Kaps in the final. Hertzog Hall again captured the cross-country title by nosing out the Raritan Club, 19 to 18; Bob Dickson was the winner. The Kappa Sig basketball team took top honors over Hertzog, Raritan Club, Pi Kaps, Dekes, and others.

Ernest Patten '39 was intramural manager.

CHEERS-FENCING

Befitting the removal of football activities to the new stadium was the revolutionizing of the cheering section in 1938. Under the leadership of Ernest Patten and Stewart Brown, senior cheerleaders, the placard display system was instituted, and its success ran far ahead of predictions. The cheering staff aided in promoting competition for the Harman Trophy and headed up the campaign of enthusiastic rooters for the return of the salute cannon at games. Pep rallies were larger and more numerous than ever. Junior cheerleaders were Robert Dutton, Donald Davison, Robert Gaynor, Charles Leone, Eugene Maupai, and Arthur Ritchings.

Edwin Gerber was elected senior songleader for the year, and Herbert Cox and Edwin Taylor were chosen as juniors.

Rutgers' average after the fencing season closed was not so high as before, for the five veterans and four newcomers to the varsity ranks bowed out with a record below the fifty per cent mark. Drew made things hard for the Scarlet swordsmen at the start, and after they recovered themselves enough to conquer Lehigh, the powerful Penn State and Princeton outfits set them back on their heels again. That in spite of a double win by Toffey in the epee against Penn State. Coach Herbert Pirotte managed to shake his team out of the slump in time to wind up the season with the Middle Three title after defeating Lafayette.

BASEBALL

The 1938 season marked the introduction of a new era of baseball to Rutgers when Charles W. (Chuck) Ward replaced J. Wilder Tasker as head coach.

The ex-big-leaguer built up a promising aggregation around a nucleus of four letter winners but had to change the line-ups often because of the old bugaboo, ineffectiveness at the plate. Good pitching was a blessing which helped make up for the spotty batting power, and the Wardmen won seven games and lost nine for a 13 per cent improvement over the previous season's record. Only two games were rained out.

Dick Coe, Dick Steadman, Carl Miller, and Len Shacknow did the heavy work in the pitching department. The Scarlet nine clicked at first, defeating Lehigh and Swarthmore, but Princeton and Fordham leveled the record. After a victory over Penn came the worst part of the season in which four games in a row were dropped, two to Lafayette. Two wins, three more losses, and the Scarlet finished by subduing N. Y. U. and Virginia. Miller was elected captain for the 1938 season.

TRACK

Although the 1938 track record was not quite so impressive as that of the previous team, the past season was marked by Rutgers again winning the Middle Three and Middle Atlantic States titles. It was the sixth straight year, and the twelfth time during Coach Bernie Wefers' reign, that the Scarlet captured the Middle Three crown. The Wefermen opened with a decisive victory over Lehigh, bowed to New York U. and Maryland, swept the Middle States title at Gettysburg, drubbed the Marquis at Lafayette, and finally a small delegation failed to score in the Penn Relays.

Tranavitch led the weight men, breaking the M. A. S. C. A. A. record with a 46' 5 $\frac{1}{8}$ " shot put heave. Harvey in the shot and discus, Bruyere and Tranavitch in the discus also, and Dorn, Rosenberg, and Rubin in the javelin completed the weight department. Captain Hurst and Baxter starred in the sprints; Youngs, Hoffman, and Welitoff, the 440; Youngs, Schwartz, Smith, and Watson, the half and the mile. Versatile "Moon" Mullen ran the high and low hurdles and helped in the broad and high jump. DeGroff, Kull, and Welitoff ran both hurdles; Pontier and Baxter completed the broad jump and Swenson the high jump; Leone and McAllister were the pole vaulters.

CREW

The second edition of Rutgers crews under Coach Charles P. (Chuck) Logg swept through the 1938 season to become, according to sports writers, "the best class B crew in the East." Definitely in the "big time," it rowed against Columbia, Syracuse, Harvard, M. I. T., Princeton, and Manhattan for one first, four seconds.

COLUMBIA AND MANHATTAN—opening the season on April 16, the Scarlet finished between the mighty Lions and Manhattan.

PRINCETON—on choppy Carnegie Lake, another second place; ahead of the seconds and behind the Nassau varsity.

ROWE REGATTA—same as 1937, Harvard first, Rutgers three lengths behind, and Manhattan last, on Charles River.

"DAD" VAIL TROPHY—Coach Logg's boys again came home with the cup, easily defeating Manhattan on the Harlem.

SYRACUSE—not like the 1937 grand finale with Princeton; the Scarlet ended the season trailing the Syracuse eight.

The junior varsity crew went to four regattas with the varsity but did not fare so well. Columbia and Manhattan jayvees outdistanced the Scarlet; it was sandwiched between Princeton III and IV crews; it followed Harvard and M. I. T. jayvees to the finish, and then gained revenge on Manhattan.

Both crews were made up entirely of seniors and sophomores and together lost only six men for the next crew season.

LACROSSE

The whip of enthusiasm turned the mediocre 1938 lacrosse squad into a sizzling unit which won its most important game—against Army—and all but two of its other games and placed two men on the all-American roster. Art Perry, captain, and Steve Hitchner, junior veteran, rated positions on the first and second national teams. Coach Fred Fitch faced the loss of seven starters of the previous ten at the outset, but with gruelling workouts and the usual expert coaching brought the less-experienced men up to better the 1937 record by a long shot.

The misfortune was that the Army game came in the middle of the season. Building everything toward that contest, the Fitchmen swept Williams, the Alumni, and C.C.N.Y. easily. Joe Barile, Warren Ress, and George Hallock starred as the Scarlet piled up a 4 to 0 lead over the Cadets and won, 4 to 3. Maryland and Princeton took advantage of the let-down in the next two away games for the only defeats of the season. Crescent A.C. dropped the last game to a final surge of Scarlet fury.

TENNIS-GOLF

In his first year as master-mind of tennis at Rutgers, Franklin Myers coached the Rutgers court team to a record favorably balanced: six victories and five losses. The Scarlet showed its ability to turn the tables after being whitewashed by Princeton and by Virginia. Boston College, Montclair Teachers, and Muhlenberg were blanked by a revengeful Rutgers aggregation led by Don Corwin, captain throughout the season.

The golf team was less successful. Getting off to a bad start, the divot-diggers failed to score in their first two matches with Virginia and N. Y. U. They copped the two next contests against two teachers' colleges, Trenton and West Chester, but tapered off to give in to the West Chester golfers in a return match and lost their last one to the University of Delaware. Lloyd Weinberger, a junior, played in every match.

Sixty-six editions of The Scarlet Letter are extant in the University library. The title-page of the first issue, dated 1871, indicates the volume was "published by the fraternities," and the statement eloquently characterizes many subsequent editions of the book. These first volumes were statistical accounts of fraternal activity. There were few pictures, no mention of athletic and non-athletic pursuits or academic societies, and many advertisements. In this form of an annual fraternity obituary The Scarlet Letter continued until 1913 when the junior class took over publication and the trend toward the modern book began, culminating in assumption of control by the senior class in '32 and, finally in the trained and specialized staff of today.

Best Wishes Rutgers '39

The Sun has long seen classes of Rutgers men graduate from a great university and become loyal alumni and useful citizens. To Rutgers Class of '39 go The Sun's best wishes for success. May you achieve the same high places in business, the professions and public life as Rutgers men of previous years. Your friendship is valued by The Sun. As a newspaper that always tries to serve intelligently and honestly the best interests of the community and its readers, The Sun's sincere wish is to remain the newspaper you will always prefer.

GOOD TASTE, SKILL AND SEVERE TRAINING ARE AS REQUISITE AND NECESSARY IN THE PROPER PRODUCTION OF BOOKS as in any other of the fine arts. The well recognized lines of "beauty" are as essential and well defined in the one case as in the other. Books are both our luxuries and our daily bread. They have become to our lives and happiness prime necessities. They are our trusted favourites, our guardians, our confidential advisers, and the safe consumers of our leisure. They cheer us in poverty and comfort us in the misery of affluence. They absorb the effervescence of impetuous youth, and while away the tedium of age. You may not teach ignorance to a youth who carries a favourite book in his pocket; and to a man who masters his appetites a good book is a talisman which insures him against the dangers of overspeed, idleness and shallowness - - - by Henry Stevens.
